Strike Hassle Grows

34 City Dockers Fired as 'Slow'

Nicholson Seeks Answer to Snarl

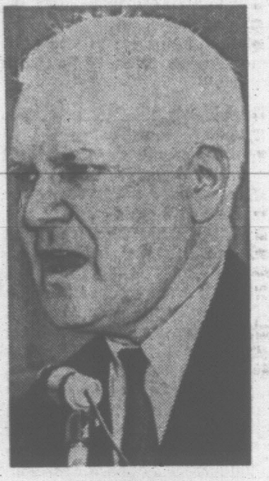
The move ended lumber loading aboard the freighter Karpfanger. One of the men said the reason given was "not doing enough work". Three gangs were dismissed.



NICHOLSON
. . . to call huddle

The firings were the first in Victoria since employers began similar action at other B.C. ports Wednesday for alleged slowdowns in support of striking foremen.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union blamed what it called the incompetence and inefficiency of substitute foremen for any slowdown.

Two gangs continued working the wheat ship Ocean Seigneur. There were no other vessels at Ogden Point.

A local union spokesman said two gangs were dispatched to Cowichan Bay with a third following to load pulp aboard the Korotan.

A shipping agent said work on the Korotan was proceeding this morning.

CABINET BID

Federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson was to arrive in Vancouver late today to help settle the waterfront dispute, which has cut port traffic in B.C. by roughly 50 per cent.

At Crofton, B.C. Forest Products said if there is no settlement by Monday it may be forced to close its pulp operation.

Jack Gallagher, industrial relations officer, said today all storage space will be exhausted by mid-week.

He declined to say how many men might be affected but said "a substantial number."

CROFTON HURT

The combined pulp and newsprint mill at Crofton employs more than 800 men. Mr. Gallagher said a firm decision about closure of pulp production will be made Monday.

At the Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo, a spokesman said the dock situation is "starting to build up on us."

But the problem was not as acute as at Crofton. The MacMillan Bloedel mill at Harmac employs about 1,000 men.

Mr. Nicholson said he was asked to intervene by the union whose members have been fired, rehired and fired again for what the employers call a deliberate work slowdown.

The B.C. Maritime Employers Association said longshoremen are trying to coerce them into recognizing foremen as ILWU members for bargaining purposes.

PICKET LINES

The dispute boiled into the open last Thursday when 190 forement appeared with strike placards at all B.C. ports. Longshoremen refused to cross their picket lines which remained until late Monday when a court injunction banned picketing.

About 650 longshoremen were fired Wednesday when work in the ports slowed. The men, including those fired, reappeared for work and were hired Thursday but more than 400 were fired.

Neither side appeared ready to move on the nub of the issue, recognition and bargaining rights for the striking foremen.

The employers argue the foremen are part of management and the Canada Labor Relations Board has recognized this by twice refusing to grant certification.

A union statement said long-

ISRAEL CENSURED BY SECURITY COUNCIL

Only New Zealand abstained in a 14-0 council vote despite criticism by several members that the censure measure was not strong enough in its action against Israel.

The resolution censures Israel for the raid and warns it that a repetition of such military reprisals against its Arab neighbors will force the council to consider sterner measures against the Jewish state.

Demand Arms To Fight Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops of Jordan's Arab Legion drove through the streets of Ramallah today firing in the air above slogan-chanting demonstrators demanding arms to fight Israel.

As in Thursday's troubles, the troops fired over the heads of the crowd and there appeared to be no casualties.

Ramallah, scene of anti-government demonstrations for the last three days, was under tight curfew.

A curfew imposed Thursday night had been lifted earlier today, but crowds of Palestine refugees took to the streets when the curfew was lifted and the army rode back in to restore order.

Soldiers took position on rooftops and blocked all access roads to the town, a centre for some 40,000 Palestine refugees 10 miles north of Jerusalem.

Nadim Zaru, mayor of Ramallah, told The Associated Press that 10 persons were injured in scuffles with troops Thursday. The stone-throwing demonstrators attacked the building housing the United Nations Relief and Works Agency in Ramallah, smashing most of the windows.

Three of the main towns on Jordan's West Bank were closed tight and most of the shops in Jerusalem itself were shuttered in expectation of demonstrations.

TENSION SPREADS

Tension and unrest have been spreading along the West Bank since the Nov. 13 raid by Israel on the village of Samu.

The town of Nablus, 40 miles north of Jerusalem, was cut off from the outside world for the fifth day. Authorities have cut off water, electricity and phone lines to the city and the residents were reported barricaded in their homes.

WIRE BRIEFS

Plane Search

VANCOUVER (CP) — Search and rescue officials said today that two aircraft have started a search for a Saskatchewan plane missing between Cranbrook and Penticton. The single-engine Cessna 175 was en route here with Mr. and Mrs. Roy James Brown aboard. The couple, from Saskatoon, were flying here to attend the Grey Cup game Saturday.

Aid for Italians

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson announced today that Canada would set up a fund to aid flood ravaged Italy. Pearson said the Canadian government would start the fund with a contribution of $500,000 and invite the public to subscribe.

Brown Back Home

LONDON (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown returned here by air today from Moscow after three-day talks with Soviet leaders on Viet Nam, nuclear non-proliferation and other key world issues.

Trade Fair Blasted

AIR STRIKE FORMULA '20 PER CENT HIKE'

(See Story Page 7)

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says the national negotiating team for striking Air Canada machinists agreed to a settlement formula that calls for a 20 per cent pay increase in a 26-month contract.

The 5,200 striking machinists are arranging meetings to vote on the formula.

The formula is believed to have called for a 12 per cent increase in the first year of the new contract and additional raises of 5 and 3 per cent to cover the remaining 14 months of the agreement.

Present pay rates range from $2.04 an hour to $3.17. A 20 per cent increase would raise the scales to about $2.45 to $3.80 hourly.

PEARSON WARNS:

Canada May Act Alone On Peking

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson made clear Thursday that Canada is becoming impatient about continued isolation of Communist China and may recognize the Peking regime if it is not seated in the United Nations.

In a foreign policy debate in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said the seating of the mainland Chinese at the UN "would be a form of recognition which would be accepted by all members who voted for their admission.

"If this is impossible at present and we make no progress on this score, then we have to consider the other form of recognition by approaching the government concerned to see whether, bilaterally, recognition can be brought about."

But he added wryly that it might not be a question of Canada recognizing Red China—it might be a question of Peking recognizing Canada. Meanwhile, in Peking, the official party newspaper charged that Canada's proposals at the UN are a "revival of the U.S. imperialist plot to create two Chinas."

The prime minister's statement came a day after External Affairs Minister Martin made public at the UN Canada's new policy on China.

He called for the Peking regime's admission to China's permanent Security Council seat—which carries veto power —while Nationalist China would be given a General Assembly seat.

NDP Leader Douglas drew out the prime minister's statement during study of external affairs department estimates after Mr. Pearson had completed a lengthy statement on external policy.

Canada Could Act Unilaterally

The NDP leader said Canada had no control over the UN decision but could extend recognition unilaterally.

The Commons also dealt Thursday with spending estimates of the departments of finance and health, along with external affairs, as part of an all-party agreement to cover as many areas as possible before the 5:30 p.m. deadline today.

Under new Commons rules, a total of 30 days is devoted to consideration of all estimates. The time is up today. Millions of dollars in government spending programs will automatically be approved even though the House never considered them. Most did get committee study.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker led off the external affairs debate by questioning Mr. Pearson on why Canada, which only a year ago opposed Communist China getting a UN seat, now proposed its seating.

In the last year Red China had "exploded the biggest firecracker in Chinese history" and successfully tested a missile over a 700-mile range. This endangered the entire Eastern Hemisphere.

No Illusions About China Aims

Mr. Pearson said his government had "no illusions that Peking's policy has suddenly changed" or that she had suddenly become "eligible for membership in the UN . . . as a peace-loving nation which is likely to observe the peace-keeping principles of the charter."

The question was whether the UN would take a responsible position and do its best "to see that a suitable basis can be found in that world assembly so that a government which

FANS WHOOP INTO VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—A horde of enthusiastic Saskatchewan fans swooped off a special train here this morning, turned the Canadian National railway station into a chaotic scene for a few minutes and then went away to rest up for further celebrations tonight and Saturday.

Led by the Regina Boys' Band and a number of Regina policemen, the 375 fans marched from the train into the station, and were met by several hundred spectators, including about a dozen B.C. Lions' majorettes.

Bedlam prevailed for the next 40 minutes. As the band played, some of the fans danced, and the others shouted and cheered. They were led on a march around a small park adjacent to the station.

The 15-car special train arrived at 9 a.m. and was to be followed throughout the day by three other special trains from as far east as Winnipeg.

Betting odds quoted in Vancouver today favored Ottawa to win by eight points. However, if steady rain, which left the field waterlogged and treacherous this morning, continues until Saturday, luck could play a big part in the outcome of the football classic. (See stories on Page 12.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—It will cost an estimated $1,000 for the special police squad that will be stationed at the Court House tonight and Saturday for Grey Cup duty, said Chief Ralph Booth.

N.Y. Pollution Blanket Reaches Danger Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York metropolitan area lay under a blanket of polluted air today and officials warned persons with heart and respiratory ailments to stay indoors.

The index of air pollution was about 3½ times the normal level as the sun rose. The measurement showed a drop from the critical level reached Thursday night, and rasping New Yorkers awaited a weather change.

Any deaths attributed to the smog would not be reported for a few days. A 10-day period of stagnant air in November, 1963, was blamed then for from 140 to 260 deaths.

The pollution, which began to increase Wednesday night, was attributed to a massive temperature inversion. This occurs frequently in the late fall, when warm air overrides and imprisons surface air.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Austin N. Heller, city commissioner of air pollution control, said a pollution reading of 60.6, five times the average level of 12, was registered at 8 p.m. Thursday, indicating an amount he said may have been the city's highest in history.

It dropped to 18.5 in the predawn hours, and rose to 43.2 at the height of the commuter rush this morning.

The pollution count, based on a statistical measurement of sulphur dioxide and carbon dioxide in the air, indicates the amount of harmful substances in the atmosphere. The level considered dangerous is 50.

Heavy pollution was reported in Philadelphia and Boston, where sulphur dioxide in the air reached six times the normal level Thursday. Weather bureaus in both cities predicted there was a chance of relief today or Saturday.

At the smog's height in New York City, Heller said he was close to calling an air pollution alert which would have closed some industries and kept cars from the streets. All municipal incinerators were shut down.

Closer Tax Check On Charity Groups

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department will start a new registration of all charitable organizations next month, and after Jan. 1, 1967, donations to them will need officially-approved receipts to qualify as income allowances for tax purposes.

Revenue Minister Benson told a press conference today that in future, to qualify for tax-free treatment, charities will have to file annual financial reports showing they are operating strictly within the law.

The new procedures, based on an amendment made by Parliament to the Income Tax Act, will probably result in all churches, parishes andd congregations using numbered envelopes for Sunday collections, he said.

They will also require all employers to register plans by which they make payroll deductions of employees' contributions to such charities as the United Appeal.

Death Cheated by a Bouncing Ride

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Its patients are women and children who come mostly from the surrounding rural areas on the steaming coastal plain.

They arrive at the hospital on foot or by oxcart, sometimes brought by a relative or friend, quite often alone.

Their illnesses cover nearly the whole range of tropical diseases, and they have some that are found in temperate climates, such as tuberculosis and starvation.

Staff and equipment are at a premium, and the hospital's finances are on a shoestring.

So when hospital directors decided they needed to extend their service to rural patients but had no money for it, the Unitarian Service Committee stepped in.

With money donated by Canadians to funds such as the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, the USC provided a jeep for the hospital.

Twice weekly it bounces over thoroughfares and backroads carrying a specialist, sometimes two, a nurse and medical equipment to outlying areas.

The specialists, who come from Calcutta to make their rounds, find their services are much in need. So much so that if they made the trip daily, they probably still could not treat all the people who need medical care.

But the jeep helps.

Ask the little girl whose running sores cover her body.

Or the bedridden grandmother.

Or the man who cannot support his wife and seven children because he has TB.

Without the jeep, made possible by Canadian kindness, they would be far more miserable.

So would thousands of other Indians who live in the Swadesh Bhasu Hospital area.

Donations to the Share with Asian Children Fund may be sent care of the Victoria Daily Times, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Hard Thumps for Bennett During Emotional Appeal

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

WILLIAMS LAKE—The Cariboos' rugged individualism that Premier Bennett praised in a friendly Quesnel the day before, gave him some hard thumps here Thursday night.

The premier drew only some 380 persons to the same hall that saw almost 500 turn up 2½ months ago when he asked them to re-elect William Speare.

This time more than half the audience sat unmoved as he pleaded with them to even the score with Vancouver by electing Attorney-General Robert Bonner in the byelection Monday.

And only a couple of party workers tried to shush a couple of hecklers and about a half-dozen questioners who several times told the premier he couldn't drown them out by shouting through the loudspeaker.

SCATTERED APPLAUSE

Encouraging applause, the few times it came, was scattered through the crowd and only a single giggle broke the silence as he paused to fight for control after shouting: "They think they wounded our government by defeating Bonner. I want to tell you, out of it will come our greatest victory."

There was no response as he said all eyes of British Columbia and of Canada were on the riding, and even "all of the free world, which knows British Columbia's development . . . want to know if the people of the Cariboo still have confidence in our development.

The premier said that when the Columbia seat was opened for Mr. Bonner in 1962 "they at first had a shock like the Cariboo" but after voters thought things over they gave him a large majority.

"I am confident you're going to give Mr. Bonner the greatest majority any man has ever had in the Cariboo," he added, but few clapped agreement.

He said the government was indebted to the NDP and Liberals for contesting the byelection "because it's been good for our government (because) ministers get too busy.

'GREAT EMPIRE'

"But in this riding, a great empire in itself, I think every minister has been in here (campaigning)."

Adding that if elected, Mr. Bonner would continue to escort the ministers around the riding after the campaign "because it's good for our government too that our ministers know the problems in the Cariboo."

The premier vehemently denied that he pressured Mr. Speare to step down. "I give you my word of honor that at no time did I use any on your member," he repeated.

. . . BENNETT

The premier read a telegram from former Liberal MP for Burnaby, Tom Goode, saying "it would be a tragic loss to the whole of B.C. if Bob Bonner was unsuccessful Monday."

"And I ask all Liberals in the Cariboo to support a very fine gentleman and a man B.C. is proud of," the wire added.

INTERRUPTED

Early in the meeting, the premier was interrupted by a heckler who shouted Mr. Bennett was a "turncoat conservative."

Marching down to the platform for a face-to-face confrontation at the microphone, the heckler demanded Premier Bennett to explain Social Credit.

The premier replied it was making desirable projects financially possible. "I want to know what Social Credit means," the heckler persisted. "I know what being a Liberal means."

"What?" demanded the premier quickly.

"It means being a Liberal," was the slightly non-plussed reply and the audience laughed with the premier.

But the spectators laughed with the heckler as, walking back to his seat, he brought the premier's speech to a second halt by observing: "I still don't know what Social Credit means."

HECKLERS

Another heckler gave the premier trouble as he claimed that his financial policies had resulted in the banks owing the province $100 million.

"What about the contigent liabilities," the heckler demanded.

"You'll have more and more contingent liabilities as long as I am premier because they build our power projects and other developments for the future and it would be a sin to use tax money for debts," the aroused premier roared back.

"You can outshout me because you've got a PA system," shot back the heckler loudly as the crowd laughed. "Turn it off — you're beginning to sound like Gaglardi."

"Thank God for Gaglardi," the premier shouted back but the heckler drew a final laugh by retorting: "I'll be around to collect when you pay off the contingent liabilities."

During the question period, a man who identified himself as a PGE conductor who revered and helped bury the ashes of Ralph Chetwynd (who won Cariboo for Social Credit in 1952), said he had been trying unsuccessfully all day to arrange a meeting with Mr. Bennett as president of the PGE.

"I have a question here but I'll withdraw it if the president of the PGE will meet me for two minutes," he said grimly.

The premier quickly promised he would see him after the meeting. Next, a hydro lineman who said "every hydro contract is owned by American outfits, every project in B.C., and I would like to know why."

The premier replied that lowest tenders were awarded, wherever they came from, because the capital construction costs of the power program would set the future rates for electricity.

HIGH WAGES

The lineman said that colleagues working on the American contracts earned between $1,200 and $2,400 every two weeks so the argument of low costs "just doesn't make sense."

"It's our money," cracked back the lineman.

The premier was quietly but unrelentingly badgered by other questioners who criticized the home-owner grants, government failure to act on the Clyne Commission, recommendations for reform of expropriation laws and Health Minister Eric Martin's failure to come to the area to solve a local controversy over doctor privileges in the Williams Lake hospital.

Meeting chairman Hillary Place finally cut off questioning with the Queen and the premier did not receive any parting applause.

Dr. Shorting Files Papers For Trustee

Only one person, incumbent Mrs. Nora Lindsay, has filed nomination papers for the single vacancy on the rural Saanich School Board.

Six persons have officially joined the race for the four vacant council seats—Couns. Leslie Passmore, Alan Newberry and Harold Todd, along with Lionel Speller, Douglas Brown and Raymond Hayes.

Police Drill Team To March In Cup Parade

Victoria's men in blue will be represented in the televised Grey Cup parade in Vancouver tonight.

An 18-man precision squad led by Sgt. Keith Hollett will give its first presentation away from home.

The squad has been on parade locally a number of times since its formation two years ago. It is made up of volunteers who meet once a week to practice on their own time. The Vancouver trip is being sponsored by some members of the Chamber of Commerce.

shoremen returned to work after the anti-picketing injunction "without proper or competent supervision" by substitute foremen.

"If there is confusion in the waterfront industry today, coupled with lack of proper safety precautions and inefficient production, the employers have only themselves to blame.

"It has been their unreasonable attitude in refusing to bargain with a committee of the foremen (whether inside or outside the ILWU) for over three years which has caused this present situation."

CLOSE ONE PORT

Firings closed the port of Prince Rupert.

A sawmill in Prince Rupert, on the north coast, has laid off 30 men because loading of ships has stopped and it has no more room to store pulpwood logs in its yard.

In the Queen Charlotte Islands, offshore from Prince Rupert, there were reports of several small communities running low on staple foods.

The Queen Chwrlottes are usually serviced by the motor vessel Skeena Prince, which brings supplies from Prince Rupert to Masset, Nadu and other island communities.

This week's shipment was missed and Masset businessmen said Thursday night that unless the Skeena Prince puts in by Monday, the situation will be "desperate."

A construction company employing men building a peat moss processing plant on Graham Island south of Masset hired an aircraft today to fly in badly needed foodstuffs.

Mr. Nicholson announced his plans to fly to the coast in the Commons Thursday. Answering questions from New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas, the labor minister said he will accompany the Grey Cup-bound Prime Minister Pearson to Vancouver and arrange for talks when he arrives.

He said he has not yet been in touch with either side about opening negotiations.

Vancouver port authorities regard the situation as critical. Shipments leaving the city have been cut in half since the trouble started eight days ago.

Erhard Seeks To Thwart 'Grand Union'

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, now head only of a caretaker government, acted today to block the formation of a grand coalition of his Christian Democrats with the Social Democrats who have been in opposition since 1949.

Erhard issued a bitter statement protesting a Social Democratic demand that the Christian Democrats admit political bankruptcy.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, national chairman of the Social Democratic Party, made the demand in a speech Thursday, in which he also warned his party would not let itself be used "as a fig leaf" to cover Erhard's mistakes.

CLOSER TOGHTHER

Despite Brandt's statement, the Christian Democratic Chancellor-designate, Kurt-Georg Kiesinger, announced at midnight that as result of an eight hour meeting with the Social Democrats, the points of view of the two parties have moved closer together.

Kiesinger announced tonight he is breaking off negotiations with the Free Democrats on forming a coalition government.

He said the two parties were unable to narrow their differences on a variety of political questions but that the biggest sticking point was the Christian Democrats plan to balance the 1967 budget by increasing taxes.

Railway Union Will Put Issues to Arbitration

MONTREAL (CP) — W. J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, said today a satisfactory agreement between his group and Canada's seven major railways does not seem to be in sight despite mediation efforts.

"As a consequence of this conclusion, the negotiating committee of the brotherhood have returned to their homes, leaving instructions for officers of the brotherhood to prepare to submit the issues in dispute to arbitration as required by the legislation which ended the railway strike last September," Mr. Smith said in a statement.

His union represents 24,000 of the 118,000 workers involved in the negotiations.

Mr. Smith said of the mediation efforts which have continued for several weeks in Montreal, with Carl Goldenberg, a federally - appointed mediator, presiding:

Officers of the brotherhood have concluded that it does not appear that an agreement can be reached with railwoy management which will meet the expectations and the needs of the membership."

There was no immediate comment available from Mr. Goldenberg or from the heads of the other union groups involved.

There have been four union organizations involved in the mediation efforts — the CBRT, and others representing trainmen, shop employees, and employees classified as "residual non-ops." All except the trainmen are non-operating workers.

The men went on strike late in August. A week later, on Sept. 1, Parliament passed a law which ended the strike and resulted in the appointment of Mr. Goldenberg, a Montrealer, as mediator.

The bill provided for compulsory arbitration if the mediation efforts failed.

The deadline for the report was Nov. 15 but there was provision for extension and the talks continued after that date.

Miss MacFarlane
wanted to know what we did with the
$4,995,368,152.00

Reading annual statements isn't Miss MacFarlane's cup of tea, but she put her finger right on the most important figure on our balance sheet, representing the highest total deposits in the Bank's 149-year history. Nearly half of this amount of $4,995,368,152, is the savings of individual depositors like yourself.

All that money was put to work in many ways and in many communities across the country . . . in industry, commerce, on the farm, in the fishing fleet.

At the Bank's year-end on October 31, 1966, a record $3,279,997,060 was on loan to people in all walks of life to buy cars, finance household goods, educate children and improve businesses. $906,160,879 was invested in high-grade Government bonds and public securities which have a ready market, and $139,545,596 in other securities — mainly short-term credits to industry.

Miss MacFarlane will also be interested to know that Canada's First Bank has been busy in other ways. We're starting our 150th year of activity, but we're not looking back on our long record of pioneering and achievement. Instead, we're looking well ahead. And moving ahead with a fresh, new outlook and new ideas and plans for constantly expanding and improving our services to you.

Public Will Gain While NDP to Lose

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A great many people were taken by surprise when the provincial government suddenly (and belatedly) took so strong an interest in privacy that it appointed retired Judge Sargent as a royal commissioner to enquire into the union "bugging" incident.

Mika

BERGER
. . . represent O'Neal?

After all, Premier Bennett's government had turned down an NDP-sponsored private bill aimed at making such things illegal and Attorney-General Robert Bonner only a few days before Judge Sargent's appointment had assured the Social Credit League that a resolution urging such legislation really should be directed to Ottawa as a possible criminal code amendment.

But the Socred government's hasty action isn't so surprising from a political point of view. Any public probe of the circumstances surrounding Pat O'Neal's hiring of a private detective to obtain evidence against a rival union can only lead to at least some unfavorable publicity for the NDP which is officially sponsored by organized labor.

There are wheels within wheels in this context and it will be interesting to see if Tom Berger, brilliant young lawyer who won a seat in the legislature last September as an NDP member, will become directly involved in the hearings.

He certainly will be indirectly involved because he has been closely identified with Pat O'Neal for some time now. It was Mr. O'Neal, as the executive secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, who was chiefly responsible for Mr. Berger becoming a frequent legal representative for the federation.

And when Mr. O'Neal returned to the U.S.-dominated Pulp, Sulphite and Paperworkers' Union, Mr. Berger soon showed up as their lawyer too. Many NDP insiders have considered Mr. Berger as Mr. O'Neal's protege and feel the union leader is chiefly responsible for the apparent behind-the-scenes drive to replace NDP Leader Robert Strachan with Mr. Berger.

When Mr. Strachan, during the last election campaign, reiterated the party's policy as being one in favor of any union that is freely chosen by workers themselves, he was attacked by Mr. O'Neal and Mr. Berger for having given comfort to the purely Canadian breakaway union that was trying to supplant the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Workers as certified bargaining agent for workers at the Harmac pulp plant.

George Murray, QC, has been selected by the government to be commission counsel and if Mr. Berger becomes involved directly in the hearings, it probably will be as Mr. O.Neal's lawyer.

Last time the two lawyers crossed swords was in the recent appeal in which Mr. Murray, representing Premier Bennett, sought to upset a decision granting Mr. Berger's client, fired purchasing commission head G. E. P. Jones, the right to take his slander suit against the premier right up to the Supreme Court of Canadá.

Another ironic twist is the fact that Mr. O'Neal himself was responsible for Gordon Wickham, an executive of the Canadian union and sparkplug of its fight to throw the international out of Harmac, being accepted as a grass roots member of the NDP. I'm told that Mr. Strachan and his executive were leary of Mr. Wickham when he tried to join in 1961 but Mr. O'Neal made a point of insisting that his membership money be accepted.

I've also been told that Mr. O'Neal's sudden and mysterious resignation from the prestigious $20,000 federation job this year to return to union organizing occurred because he was given to understand that he would not be re-elected to the post at the 1966 federation convention without a bitter fight. Certainly, Premier Bennett told voters Mr. O'Neal's open feud with Mr. Strachan as evidence that the NDP was too split during the election campaign to be worthy of forming a government.

I think it would be a good bet that Mr. Bennett hopes the commission hearings will not only recommend methods of protecting citizens' privacy but also that it will wash enough private linen in public to sully the prospects of Mr. Berger, Mr. O'Neal, any other union or NDP officials that can be involved — and splash over a little onto Mr. Strachan too.

Speaking of election campaigns, I've been re-reading some of the memorable words of Mr. Bennett to see how much weight should be attached to his indicated belief that Mr. Bonner will win the Nov. 28 Cariboo by-election.

In his final big rally, at the Orpheum in Vancouver, he predicted that the Sept. 12 vote would see:

"Three Social Credit members for the North Shore (in fact the Liberals swept all three seats); Vancouver will be represented by 12 Socred members after this election (only half of them made it); Burnaby is going to have three Social Credit members after Monday (All three were taken by the NDP).

"After this election, we're going to have not three but five Social Credit lady members (it proved to be three) and we will have four doctors elected (one made it)."

On the whole, not a very impressive political pundit is he? Could it be that he lets his bias show during platform speeches?

VOTE SATURDAY

Holt Heavy Favorite Despite Viet Outbursts

By GORDON TAIT

MELBOURNE (AP) — The commitment of 4,500 fighting men in Viet Nam is the big issue in Saturday's Australian general elections but Prime Minister Harold Holt's government, which sent the troops to war, is heavily favored to survive.

"Foreign policy is the very core of this election and that's how it has been, if foreign policy is taken to mean the wisdom of being involved in Viet Nam," Holt declared early in the campaign.

Despite a rash of anti-Viet Nam demonstrations, political circles say that feeling does not appear strong enough to give victory to the Labor party of Arthur A. Calwell.

At dissolution, Labor had 52 of the 124 seats in Parliament and needs a big vote swing to win a majority and unseat Holt. The ruling Liberal - Country party coalition had 71 seats. There is one independent. Holt is a Liberal.

On the eve of the election, Holt continued to get strong press support as he has during the campaign.

The Melbourne Age said he seemed certain to win. The Daily Telegraph viewed the Viet Nam issue as "the preservation of Australia's alliance with America," an argument advanced repeatedly by Holt.

ROW OVER CONSCRIPTS

Much of the dispute is over the use of Australian conscripts in Viet Nam.

In campaign speeches, Calwell said:

"We will act, in consultation with the American authorities immediately if we become the government, to withdraw all conscripts in Viet Nam. The remainder of our troops will be brought home at the earliest practicable moment after consultation with our allies and so as not to endager the lives of any Australian or allied troops."

The Labor party candidate says his government would agree to supply troops for a peacekeeping force in Viet Nam.

The conscription issue has brought boisterous election meetings for Holt,

WOMAN DEPUTY CHIEF

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The deputy commander-in-chief of the Communist Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam is a woman, the New China news agency said on Thursday.

The agency gave her name as Nguyen Thin Dinh and said she recently answered questions on guerrilla warfare put to her by a correspondent of Liberation Radio, a Viet Cong political arm.

She said in her interview the Viet Cong were intensifying their guerrilla warfare in South Viet Nam and the Americans could do nothing to check their activities.

Canada's Stand

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS MINISTER Paul Martin has undertaken a difficult task in seeking a settlement of the problem of seating two Chinas in the United Nations Assembly while still leaving the problem of the rival sovereignities of Peking and Taipei unsolved.

But this may be the only way in which the UN membership question can be settled, for although Mr. Martin refers to the struggle of the two Chinas as a "jurisdictional dispute" it is the sort of dispute which up until now has appeared to be soluble only through war. The case for sidestepping that quandary and setting up an interim arrangement for representation of both Chinese regimes in the Assembly at least has logic in its favor.

The Peking-Taipei conflict may not be one that can be settled within the lifetime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. And even if the Nationalist government and army were to pass away, there would still remain the basic question of whether Formosa should be permitted to achieve its own independence, under Formosans, or become the possession of mainland China which the Communists insist is its rightful status. It is therefore sensible to seek a UN seat for Red China—for this has taken on urgency now that Peking is a nuclear power — by avoiding the long delay a Formosa settlement will require.

Mr. Pearson has added weight to the Canadian position by hinting at a move to recognize Red China if the UN continues to deny Peking a seat.

Mr. Martin's proposal to seat both governments and replace Formosa with Peking in the permanent Security Council has got nowhere in this UN session. The nations are not ready to take sides on the matter and the Canadian minister recognized this by advancing his case as a proposal rather than a resolution on which a vote would have to be taken. Much consensual diplomacy, as Mr. Martin calls it, will have to be carried out before a resolution may usefully be put before the Assembly.

The Italian plan—to form a committee to study the whole question and report to next year's session—may be of some assistance, but it could also be used as a method of shelving the matter indefinitely. A somewhat similar proposal advanced by Canada in 1950 died without action being taken. And, of course, there is always Peking's unrelenting attitude of contempt and rejection in regard to all suggestions that a seat be offered.

But in the welter of words and stalling one point emerges and should not be lost sight of. Canada has at last taken a stand on the admittance of Red China not only to the Assembly but to the influential Security Council. It is a positive stand, and it is at variance with United States policy. The effect at the moment is probably nil. But at least—and at last—we are on the record.

Extension of the Mains

THE PURPOSE OF NORTH Saanich Reeve J. B. Cumming's support of Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant's proposal to bring the Greater Victoria Water Board under regional jurisdiction seems clear enough. He believes that the change would give North Saanich quicker access under more favorable terms to the water supply enjoyed by the present board customers.

The whole community can sympathize with the reeve's efforts to overcome the threat of inadequate water service in his locality. And some reassurance on costs is provided in his statement that "the smaller units have indicated that they are quite willing to meet their responsibilities." He is in error, however, if he believes that the present board members are taking the attitude "we were here first, we've got it (the water service) and we're going to keep it."

The program of the Greater Victoria Water Board will eventually provide service for the whole peninsula. The more customers the board serves, the larger its volume of bulk sales and the higher the return from a source of supply which is adequate, with improvements, to meet the needs of half a million people.

If North Saanich were in a position to finance a pipeline to its border at a cost of between $2 and $3 million—in addition to financing a retail distribution system and paying for bulk water—it could draw on the Greater Victoria supply as soon as the present Sooke tunnel is finished, presumably in late 1970, and the main to the border is built. Costs of such a project, involving financing the main and buying wholesale water, have been roughly estimated at $125 a year per household in North Saanich for a term up to 25 years.

If, on the other hand, customers who have invested about $12 millions in the system since the Greater Victoria board was established in 1949, were required to carry the costs through an increase in water rates, that increase could amount to about 35 per cent of the present wholesale charge. And the present customers, the people who have financed the system to date, would be bearing about 96 per cent of the load.

The alternative, phasing, would take probably four or five years longer, but would promise great economies for North Saanich. The economies would arise as the needs of Saanich municipality, already a customer and board member, were met according to the present blueprint.

The plan gives priority to Gordon Head and the Ten Mile Point area, after which services will be extended to the eastern part of the district as built-up areas expand. Extension of the big main will then proceed northward to the Elk Lake region—all of this to be paid for out of the general revenue of the whole system. At that point in development the main would be nearly two-thirds of the way to North Saanich, and the cost of the final extension would be more nearly within the reach of the prospective customers in that municipality.

This appears to be the most painless program of expansion, to be accomplished without a costly debt or unduly heavy water rates. But these economies must be bought with time. North Saanich may have to wait, unless the population increase exceeds the rate now predicted.

More Interest in Guns

RECENT OBSERVANCES marking the anniversary of the Kennedy assassination have revived interest on this continent in laws which would enforce a stricter control over possession of firearms.

By coincidence a comparable movement has been launched in Britain. There, regulations cover the ownership of rifles and hand guns, but shotguns have so far been exempt from their provisions. Now Home Secretary Roy Jenkins seeks to have the latter weapon—coming into greater use by criminals in his country—subject to the restrictions placed on the other firearms. This would entail the issuance of a shotgun license by the police. Owners and purchasers would require a certificate and the police would have power to refuse certification to an applicant deemed unsuitable or one with a criminal record.

The movements both in the United States and in Britain draw pointed attention to the absence of regulations in Canada.

FROM UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Two-China Bandwagon Rolling Both Ways

Frye

A "two-Chinas" bandwagon, the United States clinging gingerly to one running board, has begun to chug through the UN General Assembly. Italy launched the bandwagon Nov. 18, proposing that the UN take 10 months (to September, 1967)and study the whole problem of what to do about China's seat.

United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg gave the idea an important shove forward Nov. 21. On Wednesday Canada's External Affairs Minister Paul Martin added further weight. But it is a curious kind of bandwagon. Its gears are jammed with paradoxes, its wheels clogged with contradictions. And some of its riders, notably the United States, feel obliged on occasion to pretend it isn't really there.

The basic paradox is that the ostensible objective — seating both Nationalist China and Red China — is not likely to be the actual result, even if the bandwagon gets rolling.

Could Postpone Entry

Before Peking and Taipeh could sit down together, four major hurdles would have to be cleared:

1. The 121-nation General Assembly would have to approve the proposed 10-month study.
2. The study committee would have to recommend the seating of two Chinas.
3. The assembly would have to act affirmatively on that recommendation.
4. Red China and Nationalist China would have to accept the invitation to sit down together in the same UN.

At each stage, the wagon could easily break down. it is considered almost certain to break down at stage 4. Almost no one thinks Peking would accept the deal, and Taipeh says (somewhat less persuasively) that it too would refuse.

So improbable is the ostensible objective that Peking's friends are charging the whole thing is a fraud — that the real purpose is to sabotage Red China's entry.

Paradox in Paradox

The Soviet Union, among others, made this accusation Nov. 21, thus supplying a paradox within the paradox. For almost no one thinks the Kremlin really cares to have its most virulent critic hurling verbal darts at close range in the UN.

Italy, seeking to defend the bandwagon from skeptics, insisted with a straight face Monday that the study committee really is designed to hasten Red China's entry. It would seek to do justice to Nationalist China as well, the Italian delegate added.

The United States, perhaps fearing that the Italian defence would not prove persuasive, argued publicly that the study committee had nothing to do with two Chinas at all — that, as United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg put it, the results of the study would not be prejudged.

This argument did not appear to be very persuasive either. It flew in the face of the language of the Italian proposal, which said that the committee, "taking into account the existing situation and the political realities of the area," should study "the situation in all its aspects in order to make the appropriate recommendations for an equitable and practical solution . . ."

Goldberg Ambiguity

No one except Goldberg could be found who thought this meant anything but two Chinas. Goldberg himself seemed at times not to believe his own disavowal. He, too, seemed to accept the premise that two Chinas was the subject under discussion.

Moreover, he appeared primarily concerned, not with barring Red China, but with keeping Nationalist China from being expelled.

So far as the domestic American audience is concerned, therefore, the Johnson administration could claim to be on whatever side of the issue best suited the political purpose, observers said. It could claim to be amenable to a new and more flexible approach to China, willing to establish contact with her if she mended her ways; or, for the benefit of the Committee of One Million, it could show itself as chief strategist in erecting between Red China and the UN barriers which Peking would be most unlikely to surmount.

Thus the two-Chinas bandwagon appeared to have the unique facility of going equally well in either direction. It might even, observers said, go in both directions at once.

FROM CALGARY

By JAMES H. GRAY

Adult Lead for Juvenile Delinquency

Gray

THERE was once a time when the sociologists blamed juvenile delinquency on poverty and the concomitant slums, misery and broken homes. If the recent experience of Edmonton and Calgary is any indication, it's time to rewrite the textbooks. When it comes to hell-raising on a destructive scale, the rich little kids have it all over the poor little kids. The vandalism that is hitting the construction business is mainly from the split-level families from the teen-agers down to the subteens, to borrow a current euphemism.

In Edmonton, an $80,000 house under contruction was broken into by neighborhood teen-agers who used it as a site for a party. Aside from a broken window, and spillage of drinks, there was not too much damage done. But in both Edmonton and Calgary the housebuilders say that simple vandalism and thievery is adding an average of $200 to the costs of houses.

The worst area in Edmonton is in the swank new subdivision around the Derrick Country Club. It is as far from a slum as you can get in Edmonton and the damage that is being done has to be done by children from the upper-crust homes in the vicinity.

Sitting in the Cruisers

Complaints to the police seem to have little effect. Most of the patrolling that is done in residential areas in the west is by policeman in cruiser cars. Their approach can be seen from far off by the playful children who then scatter in all directions. In any event, the builders suspect that the policemen don't look kindly on the idea of chasing after kids on foot. It can be an affront to police dignity, and small-bore vandalism isn't really what they are paid to combat.

But thievery is, and the cost of pilfered lumber often outweighs the cost of juvenile delinquency. Even in the rich neighborhoods, there are householders who need a couple of 2"x4"s and think nothing of stealing them from a stack of dimension materials on a nearby building site.

This might be called the "what's a couple of two-by-fours" syndrome. After the lumber, there are a few yards of loam neighbors just happen to need, or a couple of fenceposts to repair a pair that have been broken, or some cross pieces for a clothes line. Or, what about a set of taps the plumber has left unlocked in a basement?

One builder became so frustrated at the loss of little things that disrupted his schedule that he staked out one of his houses. He caught an accountant for an oil company hauling away some sheets of four by eight plywood.

The City of Calgary recently ran into a more vexing series of problems. Calgary has been having trouble with a vociferous group of householders who have discovered belatedly they built their houses on a main highway. The City decided to allay their squawks by diverting a highway intersection. It sent the surveyors out to stake out the changes. It was a costly business that took several days.

When the work crews turned up, the surveyors' stakes had been removed to a point where work could not be started. Back went the work crews. Same thing only worse — no survey markers. After the third setting, the surveyors stood guard on their work until the road-builders could arrive. The culprits, of course, were the neighborhood children who turned the wooden survey pegs into daggers for their Batman games. Or is it Tarzan who uses the dagger? Anyway, this too has been going on in an upper middle class neighborhood replete with new churches, community centres and a plush community club. There isn't a socially deprived, under-achieving gamin within a 100 blocks of the place.

(Letter to the Editor.) I would like to put you right on some matters in which you were greatly in error in your columns the other day. I have made a study of foreign royalty and I have found that contrary to what you say there is only one reigning monarch who does not smoke at all and that is King Oscar of Sweden. The Czar of Russia does not smoke cigars but cigarettes and of those about thirty a day. The Kaiser has not entirely given up smoking.

During the convention just held by Quebec Liberals in Montreal . . . two different groups — one might even say opposing groups — met face to face. The first group, representing the majority, was composed of the traditional elements, coming mainly from small centres, but including a good number of older militants of urban centres, particularly centres gravitating around Quebec City. For the members of this group, politics is primarily something practical. It consists mainly of fighting election battles in regions where votes are won one by one. The group is not much interested in ideology. But its members are very attached to the person of the leader.

Their rallying point is not the internal quality of the party, but rather the fight to be waged against the common adversary.

The second group can be found, in spectacular moments, around Mr. Rene Levesque. But its field of interest largely surpasses the personality and the ideas of the member for Montreal Laurier. Certain members of the group, including Mr. Levesque, are very nationalistic.

Others, for example Messrs J. P. Lefebvre and Robert Bourassa, do not find their primary interest in nationalism. What unites these elements is a common attachment to the intellectual content of politics, their unanimous desire to make politics a very demanding intellectual and social adventure. . . .

A preliminary impression is left in the wake of the convention: The coexistence of the two groups will not be possible unless Mr. Jean Lesage continues to play the role of delicate referee and conciliator.

QUEBEC LE SOLEIL

The main merit of the commission of inquiry on health and welfare, which the government of Premier Johnson has just established, will be . . . the drawing of a clearer picture of the operations of various health and welfare organizations in Quebec. The commission will also have to determine the need for such services. Finally, the commission could help to decide more precisely how much further the province can go in the field of social security, account being taken of its financial resources. . . .

The rapid evolution in the field of health, especially since the more or less well-prepared inauguration of hospital insurance, has provoked crises of adjustment. The same can be said of social welfare, which has also developed rapidly.

And now the forthcoming introduction of medical care insurance threatens to engender new worries if governments haven't a clear, over-all picture of the health and welfare situation. On the question of medical care, it might be asked whether the fact that it is to be a subject of inquiry will further delay the application of a measure which the federal minister of health, Mr. MacEachen, is anxious to get started. The Quebec commission will have until Jan. 1, 1968, to make its report. In creating the commission, the Johnson government perhaps wishes to give itself new reason to delay the application of a measure which it wants to inaugurate by stages.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

Expansionist or restrictive? More discriminatory or less discriminatory? More liberal or less liberal? It is a question of choosing what appears to us to be the fairest opinion among the contradictory views expressed about the white paper on immigration tabled by Mr. Jean Marchand.

As Richard Bell, immigration minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, hastened to say, Canada would not have grown so fast and would have deprived itself of excellent citizens if its immigration policy in the past had restricted entry to foreigners with technical training. But in the present situation, which is one of an industrial and urban society, of an economy subjected to world competition and obliged to increase the level of its production constantly, Mr. Marchand was right to define a different policy, one that favors the entry of experienced labor or, at least, persons capable of adapting to modern technology.

Therefore, we have a more selective policy, but at the same time an expansionist policy, less discriminatory and more liberal than previously, because it imposes no restriction whatsoever as to color, country of origin, race, morals or religious beliefs of future immigrants. . . .

With Quebec in mind, the minister declared the government is determined to restore, through all means at its disposal, a language balance among immigrants.

This is not easy and on this point we are in agreement with our colleague of Montreal-Matin, Mr. Clement Brown, who, after stressing the numerical weakness of French-speaking immigrants because of the prosperity of their own countries, mentioned a brutal fact: "Immigrants go where there is employment. Except in the region of Montreal and New Quebec, the province is economically underdeveloped. Let us not look for any other reasons why we do not retain as many immigrants as we would wish. . ."

EXPENSIVE CHURCHES JUST DON'T FIT A STARVING WORLD

By PATRICIA CLARKE
The United Church Observer

Not long ago I read a hymn of praise about the opening of a magnificent new church.

Extolling all the fine features of this sanctuary, the writer asked: "What better use for wealth is there?"

The next letter had the answer. It was a shocking report on suffering in Brazil from a United Church missionary there, the Rev, Donald Raffan. Think, said Mr. Raffan, on these things:

● The cost of living in Brazil has gone up 200 per cent since 1950, while the average salary has gone down six per cent. People who earn 20 cents an hour must pay 40 cents for a pound of low-grade meat, or 50 cents for a dozen eggs, or $2.50 to see a doctor.

● Only half the children ever get to school. Only one per cent finish Grade VIII.

● The population now is 80 million. By the year 2000 it will be 225 million.

What better use for wealth? Mr. Raffan knows.

What will we say when, finally, we come to judgment? "Did you clothe the naked? Did you feed the hungry?" "No, but we built some very beautiful churches in which to worship you."

The son of man, he told us, came not to be served, but to serve.

At this time of year the department store boutiques which cater to wealthy grandmothers display enchanting handmade dresses for toddlers, at $50, and lifesize stuffed animals, at $100.

A Better Gift

We want to indulge little children at Christmas. But will they thank us for the $50 dresses and the $100 toys 20 years from now, when they inherit from us a world crowded with other children who never had enough to eat? Will they say we could have given them a better gift, by giving others a better life?

This would mean sacrifices. Of course, We can be glad there is still time in which to make them. But not much time, Listen to Mr. Raffan:

"The world is on the threshold of the biggest famine in history. It will affect millions, possibly billions of persons. If it happens, it will be the most colossal catastrophe in history. It is only by orgainzed, intelligent and honest direction that it can be avoided.

Stop Playing

"We will have to stop playing around with the world situation. Most misery in the world today could be avoided. Why wait to act until forced into it by world crisis? Why not act now when the worst of the crisis can be avoided? It is the hour for the church to speak out on the necessity for a completely new world policy."

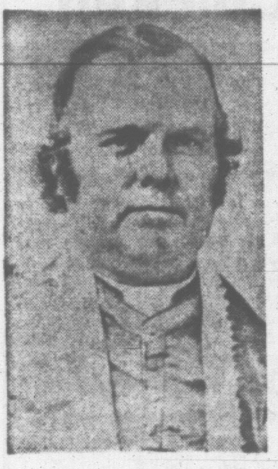
But before the church can speak to the nation about stewardship, it must look to its own. Canada probably has never been wealthier than it is today. United Church people share at least equally in its riches. A lot of people have a lot more money than they ever had before. But contributions to the Missionary and Maintenance fund are running a scant half of one per cent ahead of last year. Dollars don't buy what they used to: just to keep even with inflation there has to be an increase of two to three per cent every year. We're not giving enough now to maintain the present work, let alone tackle anything more.

Better Stewards

Church people have a responsibility to be good stewards. They also have a responsibility as citizens to urge their nation to be a better steward, if not for Christ sake then for its own. The United Nations suggested five years ago that wealthy nations, such as Canada, should as a minimum set aside one per cent of their wealth to help others. One per cent isn't much. But it's a great deal more than we share with others now.

If has been estimated that all the money the Christian churches spent in China during a century and a half of missionary endeavor would not buy one battleship today. Are there other places—Latin America, for instance — where more money invested today might prevent a tragic explosion tomorrow?

Founders Of B.C.



Bishop Modeste Demers

"This is a new country where there are not yet 800 people and I do not think that the population will increase very quickly."

Thus wrote Bishop Modeste Demers, the first Roman Catholic Bishop of Vancouver Island, in Victoria in 1853. He could not have anticipated that in five years gold would be found on the Fraser and Victoria would mushroom overnight into a bustling city.

Many of his letters, translated from French, are in the B.C. Archives where they provide a graphic account of life in the early colonial days.

Modeste Demers was born in Quebec in 1809 and was ordained as a priest in 1836. Three years later he was sent to Oregon. His work there was so much appreciated that in 1847 he was made bishop of Vancouver Island.

His early years in Victoria were devoted largely to the Indians. He helped to head off many clashes between the natives and the Hudson's Bay Company which then controlled the colony.

He built the first Roman Catholic Cathedral in what was to become British Columbia, at Victoria, and started a church school and assisted in founding a hospital. He brought the first four sisters of the St. Ann order to Victoria in 1858 — a boon to the community which has lasted to modern times. He established missions on the mainland and made many trips to convert Indians elsewhere in the colonies.

In 1870 Bishop Demers went to Rome, but during his journey was injured in a train accident in France. He returned to Victoria where he died in 1871. His passing was mourned by all of the community regardless of faith.

THE GALLUP POLL

Survey Backs Convention On Tory Leadership Issue

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

Main criticism against the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons hinges around its leadership.

Twenty-two per cent of the voters say John Diefenbaker is too old for the job as leader, or that he is not a good leader, or they just do not like him.

As an indication of how the public is disillusioned with the politicians in Ottawa, the official opposition is blamed for being too obstructionist, too critical and not getting on with the business of the country.

The question: "If you were asked to criticize the present Conservative Opposition in Ottawa, what would your main criticism be?"

Opposition too obstructionist, too critical, inefficient	11
Too much mud-slinging, petty, scandals, too much fighting, not concerned with important things	11
More interested in gaining power, in party politics than welfare of the country	10
Other criticisms	10
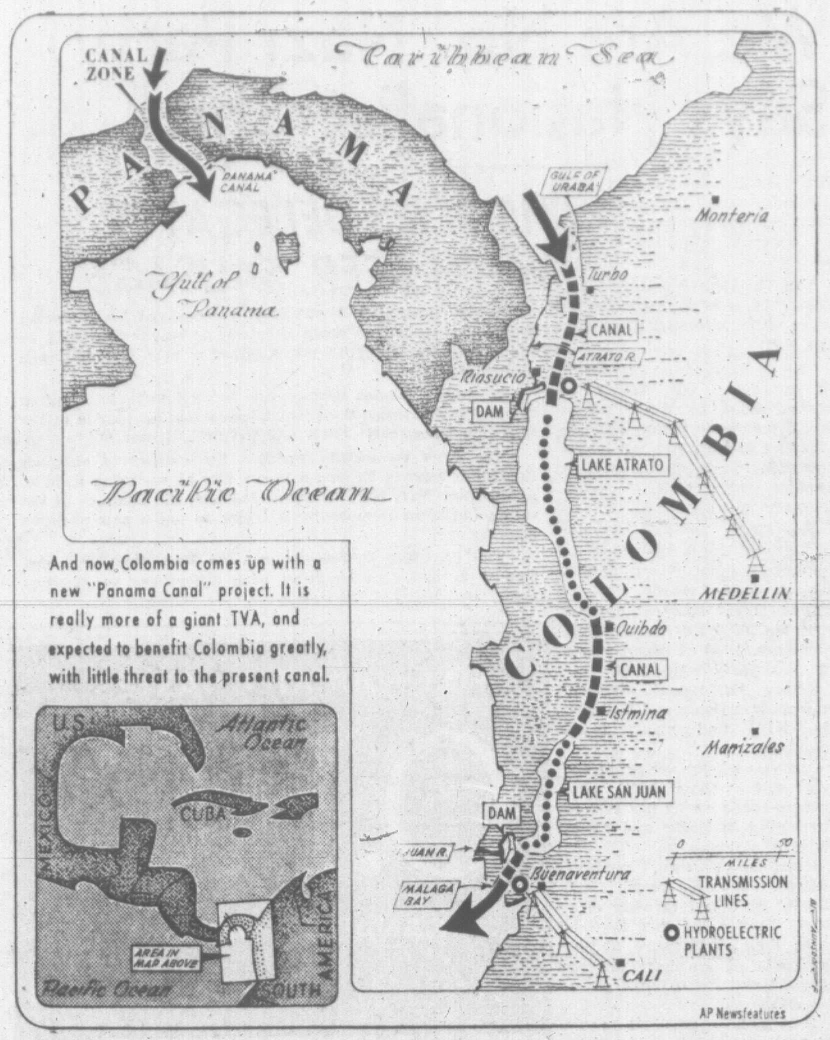
	105%*

Among some of the "other" criticisms were: "No unity in party, no up-to-date policies, weak and anti-French Canadian."

* More than one criticism mentioned.



And now Colombia comes up with a new "Panama Canal" project. It is really more of a giant TVA, and expected to benefit Colombia greatly, with little threat to the present canal.

AP Newsfeatures

Colombia Plans Huge Canal-Power Complex

By BEN F. MEYER

The government of Colombia has unveiled plans, still in a preliminary stage, for a development of huge proportions.

They include the building of a ship canal, 260 miles long, between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, not as a competitor of the Panama Canal but for movement of Colombia's coffee and other exports, and for small ships going to and from South America's west coast.

But the canal is only one aspect of the gigantic plan which Colombians envision as a producer of hydroelectric power and the industrial, agricultural and social advancement of a big area of northern Colombia.

The waterway, with twin locks at either end, would be along a route from the Gulf of Uraba, on the Caribbean Sea just below the Panama-Colombia border, southward to a lake formed by damning the Atrato River, and westward to the Pacific in the vicinity of Buenaventura.

Actually, the creation of two great lakes is proposed, one formed by the San Juan River in the west and the other by the Atrato in northern Colombia. The lakes would be joined by a 30-mile ship channel, 328 feet wide, 39 feet deep, costing an estimated $150 million.

Similar channels, one 34 miles long at the north, and another 4.5 miles long at the south, would be built to lead to the oceans.

The Atrato lake would be 120 miles long and almost 30 miles wide at its broadest point. The San Juan lake would be 69 miles long and about 9 miles at its widest point.

Two Hydro Plants

The Colombian project would be pegged to two hrydro electric plants, one at the dam on the San Juan River, with a capacity of 800,000 kilowatts and the other at the Atrato dam, with a capacity of 2.5 million kilowatts. Early estimates say the canal itself, one of the most spectacular features of the Colombian plan, would not alone pay out, but that power revenues would meet entire costs of the project in a few years.

Colombian officials hasten to explain that the canal would not be in serious competition with the Panama Canal, not of the sea level waterway the United States is considering at some point in Middle America.

The waterway would be too small to handle ships above 20,000 tons, and the current trend is for much larger ships, especially tankers. In addition, the Colombian route would take about two days more for vessels on normal trade routes.

In effect, the canal will be more in the nature of an inland waterway for local purposes.

One route being considered by U.S. experts for the America sea level canal is in Colombia, about 20 miles north of the Atrato River, and would take the shortest route across the country — 95.4 miles. The Panama Canal is 50 miles long. U.S. official foresee no conflict in the two projects.

Some years ago, U.S. experts estimated the cost of a sea level waterway across Colombia at about $1.2 billion. The first estimate on cost of the entire Colombian project, including power facilities, was $743 million. Engineers conceded, however, that much more detailed studies will have to be made.

The two projects are not identical. The U.S. plan calls for a waterway to be dug for the entire route, and kept within a channel adequate for maritime safety, not spreading out over a wide area, as would the Colombian project. The Colombian plans call for damming two rivers to form lakes furnishing 189 of the 260 miles of the proposed canal.

There is widespread speculation that Colombia is not a likely choice for the U.S. sea level canal. Three factors are against such a choice:

Too Far South

1. The waterway would be too far south, requiring about two days steaming time for vessels moving from one coast to the other.

2. The canal would be longer than a site in Panama, further slowing down ship movement at a time when daily costs are an important factor in ocean shipping.

3. Removal of the canal from Panama, major source of economic support for the Republic of Panama, would put the United States in a position of making heavy financial aid to Panama to avoid economic and political chaos.

There are many ifs about the Colombian project. Preliminary studies have been contracted for by the Ministry of Public Works, but approval and appropriations from the Colombian Congress are yet to come. A number of engineering problems remain unsolved. More detailed studies have been recommended by Hudson Institute, Inc., of Harmon-on-Hudson, N.Y., which has reviewed early studies made for the government of Colombia, and considers they offer likely prospects of feasibility.

Still another major factor is whether Colombia could obtain financial assistance from abroad.

A New View Of the Proton

What does a proton look like?

Ever since this sub-atomic particle was discovered by Britain's Lord Rutherford in 1919, scientists have speculated that the proton was a single layer of mass and positive electrical charge, more or less centered at the heart of the hydrogen atom.

It is still the positively charged nucleus of the hydrogen atom, says a Team of University of Michigan physicists in the current issue of the magazine "Physical Review Letters," But it is not a single layer of anything.

Instead, they suggest, a proton looks a little like an oinion, with two or three layers of mass and electrical charge, one placed on top of the other.

In reaching their conclusion, Professors Alan D. Krisch and Carl W. Akerlof used the huge 12.5 billion electron volt accelerator at Chicago's Argonne National Laboratory to slam protons into one another every second of every day for more than one month.

What they found was a far larger mass than they expected — more than three times what anybody else had ever measured for proton density.

"While our interpretation is far from conclusive," wrote the Michigan physicists, "there are most likely three regions" in the proton.

The outside layer, they suggest, is one seventy-five billionths of an inch thick, the second layer almost twice as thick and the third and inside layer three times the thickness of the outer-most layer.

If conclusive, the discovery of a three-layered proton emphasizes the fact that there are forces and relationships within the atom that physicists have yet to understand.

Federal Policy Portent Of National Universities?

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

A risky element in the Pearson government's new line on education has both political dangers and an economic dubiousness. This is the decision to abandon the universities, to throw them back once and for all into their provinces. One predictable consequence will be the emergence of a crusade for so-called "national emergencies."

Fisher

You can appreciate the political dangers only if you accept our thesis that in general the Canadian academic community, in both its administrative and faculty personnel, is overwhelmingly pro-Liberal. This is an old orientation, going back to Mackenzie King days, and much reinforced by reaction to John Diefenbaker and to initiatives taken by Liberal governments which provided the universities with capital grants from federal funds and created the Canada Council (1956) largely to assist them.

Crowe

Aside from what has become almost an instinct to see the Liberals as the pro-university party, presidents and faculty liked the federal participation in university financing because it gave them an extra lever with provincial governments. Two financial sources are better than one, particularly when you are conscious about retaining independence and the unique character of your university.

The exceptions in most universities come from a small core of pro-New Democrats, few of whom are high in administration. One might note another break in the Liberal front at a couple of universities in Ontario like Western and Trent.

Mr. Pearson's sensitivity to university sensibilities is seen in these remarks:

* * *

"As to the relationship between universities and provincial governments, our new proposals may have important implications for some institutions. This is not a matter in which the federal government can properly interfere, but we are confident of the ability of the universities and the provinces to develop — as indeed, they are already doing — mutually satisfactory institutional arrangements."

In a nutshell, the re-arrangement of tax divisions will give the universities what they wanted and asked for through the Bladen report. But the provinces are masters of the new division. They must make the deal out of it to the universities. The federal government is off on another trail, paying the full cost of manpower training, with the labor force, not the quality or future of academic higher education as its responsibility.

This must be a shock to the most Liberal of all universities, Queen's at Kingston. It happens to be the only university with a federal charter, gained over 50 years ago. Even to suggest such a charter now would cause a constitutional uproar, notably in Quebec. The ties between Queen's and the Liberals when in power are strong and old. Queen's has been the most unhappy of Ontario universities with the Ontario government's policy and finnacing of universities. And old Grit like Dr. J. A. Corry, head of Queen's, must be reeling under the desertion of last week.

* * *

This brings us to the loophole. While Canada hasn't one absolutely top-flight university like Harvard, a few of the older ones like Toronto and Queen's and McGill are much better prepared in staff, library resources, and plant for post-graduate training, especially at the doctoral and post-doctoral level. More and more as education has become a longer process, the post-graduate school and research have become the heart of university excellence, attracting the best and most specialized staff.

Thus the significance of this rather enigmatic (from a university point of view) pair of sentences in the Pearson policy!

"Nor does the Federal Government agree that it is precluded from concerning itself with research by reason of the provincial responsibility for 'education,' or, alternatively, that it must limit its support according to subject matter in relation to areas of federal and provincial jurisdiction. In our view, research, as the means of which we expand the frontier of knowledge, is today one of the most important factors in the economic and social growth of any modern political society."

* * *

Since research and the scientific spirit are primarily the interest and function of the university graduate schools, or those parts of the faculties involved in research, the prospect of massive federal aid in the future is not ruled out. Nor is the possibility of either federally supported national universities specializing in post-graduate work, or strong support for those existing schools which are already heavily engaged.

Thus our prediction of both a clamor for and a debate on national universities, or the universities for such a special role.

Meantime, Jean Marchand and his Quebec colleagues, plus Tom Kent, the deputy minister of manpower, have in the short run, had their way. The new policy is more constitutionally respectable, at least in Quebec eyes.

Of course, a magnificent opporunity has been opened for the Conservatives to project a university policy which could change the coolness of university people in English-speaking Canada to them. But in their present confusion over leadership we cannot imagine them seizing the chance.

Ladders Things To Be Avoided

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Yesterday for the first time in several months I sat at my favorite refreshment counter enjoying a late morning coffee.

Near the entrance a maintenance man was high on a ladder doing something with the lights. And it was fascinating to watch how men and women going in and out avoided walking beneath that ladder.

"Curious, isn't it?" said a voice beside me.

It came from a woman well bundled up in a heavy dull brown wool coat. A small hat of the same color sat forward on her head. Her shrewd blue eyes were enlarged and widened by thick rimmed glasses. The hands working over a cup of tea and doughnut were knotted and gnarled with rheumatism.

"Everyone has their pet superstitions," she said with a tolerant chuckle.

* * *

She had a few herself. If she saw the new moon first over her left shoulder or two black crows flying alone overhead, she knew she was in for "a bit of good luck."

The people who were dodging the ladder at the coffee shop door believed — perhaps subconsciously — that if they walked under it they would have bad luck. But bad luck could come in many other ways, she insisted.

For instance, if you spilled salt, crossed knives on a table or had a black cat cross your path.

* * *

More for something to say than anything else, I asked her if she really believed these things.

She wasn't sure, she said as she stirred her coffee with a slow spoon. At the same time she wouldn't go so far as to say she didn't believe.

In the little town in Ireland where she was born and where she grew up there were many myths and signs and omens. These had been handed down from mother to daughter for generations.

"I remember them well," she said.

There was the belief that if you stepped directly over a child it would stop the growth of the youngster. And the one that said if you had a cold shiver, someone was walking over your future grave.

"And my grandmother believed that sparks from a wood stove flying to the floor foretold a visit from a stranger," she reminisced.

* * *

When she said this I thought of my own grandmother, in her comfortable ranch home in the Okanagan, bending over to retrieve a knife and fork that had fallen from the table and at the same time foretelling "a visit from a stranger."

Another tolerant chuckle came from my coffee companion as she remembered how as a young girl she and her friends sought the names of their future husbands.

"We broke an egg on the eve of midsummer," she told me. "It was kept in a glass and spilled on the road the next morning. First man to walk over the egg had the same Christian name as the husband-to-be."

There was a general belief in fairies she remembered. "Some old folks persisted in saying they had seen those little fellows dancing on the grass on moonlight nights."

* * *

Children lost in the woods were said to have been led astray by fairies and as a safeguard against this, every person carried a cake of hard biscuit in a pocket.

"Why the hard biscuit?" I asked. She didn't remember.

Rather diffidently I confessed that if I found myself anywhere near a clover field I unhesitantly began to look for a "four-leafer" for luck.

My companion agreed that this was a popular belief along with putting on a garment inside out by mistake, or picking up a coin, a pin or a white button.

Bad luck on the other hand could come if you looked over another's shoulder into a mirror or if by any chance you left a knife turned blade upwards when you left the table.

* * *

Now her coffee cup was empty. The last crumbs of the doughnut had disappeared. So she stood up, said a brief goodbye and started toward the door.

When she was close to the ladder she turned, smiled back at me then walked around it.

My own cup was also empty and it was time for me to go on my way. But before I left that counter I made sure no knife was left turned blade upward and that there was no spilled salt anywhere.

Yes! You're right! I also went around that ladder. After all there's a bit of Irish in me too!

Famine Aid Studied By Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is considering ways to render famine aid to India, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Thursday.

He also agreed to consider the suggestion of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that a fund be established for famine relief to which members of the general public could contribute.

Mr. Pearson said he has received a letter from Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, explaining the country's requirements.

This was in response to an inquiry by Mr. Pearson to the Indian high commissioner for information on which the Canadian government could base a decision on the kind and extent of aid.

We Are Not Nazi Party, Says Nationalist Chief

HANNOVER, West Germany (CP)—Adolf von Thadden said Thursday night that the right-wing National Democratic Party he heads is not Nazi or neo-Nazi.

Von Thadden, a former Nazi, said: "There is no brown (Nazi) wave rolling over Germany with the NPD.

"No re-Nazification process is in progress, but rather a normalization of the situation since, for many years, Federal (West) Germany has not had a right-wing party that has been capable on the political parliamentary level."

The NDP, he said, is not trying "to justify the past or minimize crimes, no matter who committed them.

Government sources in Bonn said the NPD has about 22,000 members, 1,200 of whom joined the Nazi party before 1933.

Before its recent electoral successes in Hesse and Bavaria, the NPD had about 18,000 members.

Analysis of the voting in the two states show NPD supporters made up 7.9 per cent of the voters in Hesse and 7.4 of those in Bavaria.

Most of them, analysis showed, were people who usually abstained in state elections. They voted this time to show their displeasure at the prospects of an economic regression and the national political crisis.

The party gets it main support from voters in the 45-to-60 age group.

HE PLIES DELEGATES WITH BEER, SAUSAGE

BONN (Reuters)—Franz-Josef Strauss and his Bavarian delegation supplied Munich beer and sausages Thursday to the politicians trying to put together a new West German government.

But the Bavarian gesture was thought unlikely to soften the hostility between the Munich-based Strauss faction of the Christian Democratic Party and the Free Democrats.

The Free Democrats wrecked the cabinet of outgoing chancellor Ludwig Erhard a month ago by resigning from it, and former Nazi Kurt George Kiesinger, the nominee of the ruling Christian Democrats, is trying to put a new coalition together.

The Christian Democrats and the Free Democrats appeared to make no headway over differences on taxation policy that sparked the crisis.

Mercenaries Battle Cong

SAIGON (Reuters) — Crossbow-firing Montagnard tribesmen and Nung mercenaries locked in heavy fighting with Viet Cong guerrillas in the thick jungles of Tay Ninh province about 55 miles northeast of here today, informed sources reported.

The sources said the battle between a civilian irregular defence group and a Viet Cong force of unknown size broke out earlier today and was continuing.

American artillery, armed helicopters and fighter-bombers were backing up the mountain tribesmen and the Nung—a Chinese minority group originating in North Viet Nam, many of whom fight as mercenaries in the South Vietnamese miliia.

The action, nine miles northeast of Tay Ninh city, is in the zone were more than 1,100 Viet Cong were killed in Operation Attleboro earlier this month.

Meanwhile, an American military spokesman said the bodies of dozens of North Vienamese soldiers were found strewn near the entrance to a cave in the central highlands Thursday, five days after the area was hit by B-52 bombers.

ARE NEAR CAMP

The corpses of 66 North Vietnamese soldiers were found 14 miles west of the U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Djereng.

More B-52 bombers swept over the same area twice Thursday, striking at storage areas and fortifications.

In other air action, U.S. pilots flew through monsoon clouds over North Viet Nam to batter storage depots, road and military areas near the port city of Haiphong and in the southern region of North Viet Nam. Junks, barges, trucks and railway yards were also damaged or destroyed in 101 missions over the north, a spokesman said.

One American was killed and another injured Thursday when Viet Cong gunners downed two U.S. observation helicopters in the coastal province of Hinh Dinh, a military spokesman said.

U.S. Viet Casualties At 6,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of American servicemen killed in action in Viet Nam has passed the 6,000 mark, the U.S. Defence Department disclosed today.

A casualty summary for the week ending last Saturday showed that the 100 killed in action that week raised the total who had died since Jan. 1, 1961, to 6,049.

Of the total, 4,406 have been killed in action this year.

The Pentagon also disclosed that 1,365 servicemen had died in Viet Nam in aircraft accidents and from other causes not related to combat. Of those, 898 died this year.

The total suffering non-fatal wounds has reached 34,308, including 26,569 this year.

At the same time, it was announced that the total number of servicemen now in Viet Nam had reached almost 360,000, an increase of 2,000 over last week.

House TV Rejected

LONDON (CP) — The House of Commons has rejected the idea of televising its own debates — even as an experiment — after protests that TV cameras would turn the austere Commons chamber into a "place of entertainment and public amusement."

The House discarded the idea Thursday night by majority of only one vote — 131 to 130. It was a "free" vote, with no party allegiances involved.

The result was regarded as a little surprising. Televised Commons debates have been a hot topic in Britain and there was widespread support outside the Parliament for a test period to see how they would work.

Trustee's Nominee Under Fire

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The Kamloops District Teachers Association said Thursday it was seeking the resignation of R. E. Lester — the nominee of the Teachers' Salary Arbitration Board.

Roy Ronaghan, president of the KDTA, said Mr. Lester, a Haney lawyer and a past president of the B.C. Trustees Association, has served as authorized bargaining agent for four different school districts in teachers' salary negotiations this year.

Mr. Ronaghan said the Kamloops teachers think anyone serving as a bargaining agent for teachers' salaries should not sit in judgment on a teachers' salary arbitration board at the same time.

"We understand that 10 professional negotiators have been used by school boards in teachers' salary negotiations this year," said Mr. Ronaghan. "Mr. Lester is the only one of those agents to have been proposed as nominee to an arbitration board.

In a telegram to the Attorney-General's department, the teachers said they had no confidence in Mr. Leser's impartiality, and his status will be challenged through all courts available.

Labor Blasts Oriental Slam In N.Z.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — The opposition attacked Thursday as military arrogance a New Zealand cabinet minister's call for bombing of North Viet Nam and his explanation that Orientals "are different from ourselves."

Opposition Leader Norman Kirk told an election meeting: "Just imagine how this will be interpreted overseas."

Defence Minister Dean Eyre said Wednesday night he would like to "give North Viet Nam a basinful of bombs tomorrow."

Eyre added, when heckled "We are dealing with Oriental people. They are different from ourselves."

Eyre said Thursday he had meant that Orientals are different in outlook — "but of course there's no difference between us as human beings."

Viet Nam has been the major issue of the campaign for Saturday's general election. Kirk's Labor party opposes the decision by Prime Minister Keith Holyoake's National party government to send an artillery battery to fight in South Viet Nam. It has threatened to pull the troops back if it wins the election.

MACHINISTS VOTE SATURDAY

Planes May Fly Sunday

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Canada hopes to get its first few planes off the ground Sunday if the airline's 5,200 striking machinists ratify an agreement to end their costly walkout at meetings across the country Saturday.

As the International Association of Machinists' strike entered its 11th day today, Air Canada officials estimated the grounding of 86 planes has so far cost $3,300,000 in lost revenues.

With the loss rising by $300,000 a day, an airline spokesman said no time will be lost getting flights back on schedule if Saturday's membership meetings accept an agreement reached by Air Canada and IAM negotiating teams Thursday.

He estimated 24 hours will be needed before the first planes can leave the ground and that all services will be in full operation within three days.

Mike Rygus, Canadian head of the IAM, said early today that results of the vote at the membership meetings, to be held at 10 a.m. local time, will likely not be known till mid-afternoon Saturday.

"We're hopeful the agreement will be accepted," he said. "The IAM leadership will certainly recommend acceptance."

Tentative settlement terms were reached by negotiating teams for both sides after 45 minutes of bargaining in a downtown hotel Thursday. Spokesmen refused to release terms of the settlement until after the ratification meetings.

Mr. Rygus would only say that he is "reasonably pleased" by the agreement, which followed six days of on-again off-again bargaining between the airline, a Canadian National Railways affiliate, and the union.

Talks, broken off hours before the strike began Nov. 14, resumed on Nov. 19 after the union offered by telegram to resume negotiations.

ACCUSE EACH OTHER

Bitter sessions during the week wound up several times with each side blaming the other for refusing to alter its position.

The machinists, whose wages ranged from $2.04 to $3.17 an hour under their previous contract, made public a demand for a 20-per-cent wage increase plus six per cent in fringe benefits over a one-year contract.

Prior to the strike, Air Canada had agreed to an 18-per-cent increase in wages over a two-year period.

Some 4,000 other union employees of the airline have been thrown out of work by the strike, the first since Air Canada began operations in 1937.

Slowdown Hits Night Courses

LAKE COWICHAN — Adult education night courses are suffering in the Cowichan Valley because of slowdowns in the logging industry.

Mrs. E. A. Code, substitute adult education director for her husband, said: "We have noticed the economic recourse has hit us.

"People are cannier with their money. Those who would have liked to register for two courses are only taking one."

HER WOOLIES FALL BEHIND

LONDON (UPI) — Mini-skirted Mary Hurt figures it will be a long, cold winter unless her long johns catch up with her.

Mary emigrated to Canada by air last July. Her winter woollies followed by ship. By August, Mary decided to come home but the woollies still haven't caught up. The shipping company said someone got confused and the woollies have crossed the Atlantic three times and are still travelling.

In Saigon They Give Thanks for Bars

SAIGON (WP)—At three in the afternoon on U.S. Thanksgiving Day, about the time most men in America were turned toward the football game on the television set, the crowd at the Porting Bar on Tu Do Street was well into its post-lunch bottle of beer.

There were a half-dozen young soldiers in town on some excuse or other, a half-dozen beefy construction men and the bar girls. The bar girls clustered at the door and chiselled cigarettes, and the colored water called Saigon tea.

Some of the customers were regulars, and so they were left alone, unless they wanted to talk while they drank. The crowd was split about fifty-fifty between talkers and drinkers. The cushions on the bar stools were cut and torn, and the stuffing had fallen out.

●

There were two slowly revolving fans and an air conditioner. The door was kept open, however, so the bar was not much cooler than the street, and it was hot on the street.

Some of the crowd at the Porting had begun with lunch at Maxim's, Saigon's most expensive night club which features thick darkness, heavy red walls, a dance floor and an orchestra at noon.

The crowd now at the Porting had eaten more or less silently at Maxim's, listening to the bongo drums and the expensive hi-fi amplifier and the singer who sang Bicycle Built For Two in French.

Vietnamese girls in pony tails served the lunch. There was the sort of laughter in Maxim's that you usually hear in other places after midnight, loud and rough.

The American military establishment here does all it can to bring Thanksgiving to Viet Nam. There are speeches, exchanges of felicitation between Ambassador Lodge and Prime Minister Ky, and well-publicized airlifts of turkey and giblet gravy and pumpkins and mince pie.

It attracts a lot of newspaper space and mothers all over America must be pleased at their boys being well cared for, but the military can't really pull it off. No one can.

Thanksgiving doesn't work in Viet Nam any more than Christmas does. What it amounts to, as an officer said sitting at the bar of the Rex Officers' Open Mess drinking a gin and tonic and listening to the slot machines, is enforced nostalgia, "as if we didn't have enough of that."

SILENCE IN HANOI

PARIS (AP)—A reporter who recently visited Hanoi wrote Thursday that the North Vietnamese capital is a city dominated by silence, but calm and disciplined. Jacques Decornoy, writing in the newspaper Le Monde, said: "The silence is what is striking in Hanoi. What a difference from Saigon, where a recent visitor was stupefied by the infernal noise of the streets."

FIRST NEGRO to win title of Harvest Ball queen at Richmond Professional Institute in Virginia is Beatrice Marie Wynn, 20.

Boat Flips In River, Four Drown

RENFREW, Ont. (CP)—Four men drowned in the Madawaska River 30 miles southwest of here Thursday when their 12-foot boat overturned in a remote area where Ontario Hydro is clearing land that will be flooded by a dam under construction.

The victims, all employed by a sub-contractor working for Hydro, and all from Quebec: Lionel Larocque, 35, and Robert Hubert, 35, both of Lachute; Alcide Girard, 32, St. Placide and Denis Giguere, 37, Brownsburg.

Paul Fisett, 42, of Lachute, managed to cling to the overturned boat until he was rescued by Maurice Larocque, a brother of one of the victims. Larocque put together a makeshift raft of logs to reach Fisett several hundred feet from shore.

To Friends Give Bulbs This Yule

By HILDA BEASTALL

Small quantities of early flowering little spring bulbs are still available at some store, and where they are displayed and kept outdoors they are still likely to be in good condition.

Hilda

Feel them gently to be sure they are firm for their size and not dried out.

One group of the so-called "little bulbs" never really dry out, and so are perfectly safe to plant—now or even at the end of the year.

In fact, their modest price would warrant giving several dozen as gifts to friends who delight in such things.

The anemones are not really bulbs, but dried tuberous roots resembling pieces of grey bark, or brown bark, according to kind.

Anemone appenina and Anemone blanda are two the the choices of early spring blossoms for sunny pockets of soil.

Since these two grow to a height of around six inches, they are suitable for raised ledges, narrow borders in the sun, or on the sunny side low growing shrubs.

The fern-like foliage is attractive and the delightful starry blossoms of blue, white or occasionally pale pink will be welcome in March and early April.

EARLY BLOSSOMS

For masses of blue in drifts where they may be allowed to increase rapidly with the years, there is nothing quite like the scilla, sometimes called the bluebell.

And if you come across any of the species narcissi or tulips, which bloom early at three to six-inch heights, get a few bulbs just to enjoy the exquisite beauty of small blossoms.

Large flowers are gay and challenging, but you will find the little ones have a very special appeal.

MR. ECONOMICS GIVES REASONS

Why Canada Prices Higher

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Economics ticked off on his finger-tips Thursday a long list of reasons why Canadian prices generally are higher than U.S. prices, while Canadian incomes are lower.

John J. Deutsch, chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, stood before the Senate-Commons prices commitee for five hours in what co-chairman Ron Basford (L — Vancouver-Burrard) later called a tour de force.

Usually without reference to notes or to staff members seated around the commitee room, he gave senators and MPs a short-course in Keynsian economic theories and their past current and possible future application to Canada.

Most witnesses testifying in parliamentary committees sit down, but Mr. Deutsch said he thinks better on his feet.

The former finance department official and vice-principal of Queen's University, Kingston, ticked off these reasons for a generally higher price level in Canada, so far as the shopper is concerned:

- The 1962 devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92½ cents in U.S. funds, while still giving impetus to Canadian growth, does mean a difference in the meaning of dollar when comparing U.S. and Canadian prices.
- Canadian tariffs are designed to protect Canadian industry and to encourage the establishment of a new industry. Their real purpose is to keep Canadian prices higher, not just to provide a hurdle over which cheaper imports must jump.
- So far as foods are concerned, growing conditions are less favorable in Canada than in the U.S. Climatic conditions also are more severe in Canada for many kinds of business endeavors.
- The productivity of Canadian workers is about 20 per cent less than their U.S. counterparts.
- Scales of production are smaller. There is less specialization and smaller production runs than in American plants.
- Canadian skills and training are lower.

Mr. Deutsch was replying to questions by Senator Elsie Inman (L—P.E.I.), who said she saw prices in the U.S. which generally were lower than for the same products in Canada.

Mr. Deutsch told M. T. McCutcheon (PC—Lambton Kent) he doesn't agree that steadily improved welfare services lead to a lessening of initiative.

"I don't think this has been proven at all. They have been saying that for 2,000 years. You can make generalities like that, but that's not my view.

"Incentives are important and you shouldn't do things to take them away. But because you are looking after essential social needs, I don't see any connection with incentives.

"Look around the world and you'll find the countries with the greatest social security programs have some of the highest productivity levels in the world."

Mr. Deutsch said there are serious deficiencies in economic statistics available to the council. There are not enough up-to-date reports on labor demand, the number of unfilled vacancies, their location and the kinds of jobs open.

Figures on plant capacities, and how close to capacity Canadian industry is running at any given time, also are inadequate. And Canadian statistics generally run one to two months behind comparable U.S. figures.

In its next report, the council will project goals for the Canadian economy five to seven years into the future, he added.

Rails Formula Draws Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — Two United States transport specialists said Thursday that railways still hold a monopoly in many regions and their rates and earnings should continue to be publicly controlled.

Dr. E. W. Williams, professor of transportation at Columbia University, and Dr. G. H. Borts, professor of economics at Brown University in Providence, R.I., told the Commons transport committee that major changes should be made in the government's proposed new railway legislation to reflect this fact.

Appearing on behalf of six provinces seeking amendments to the legislation, they said the bill would remove the present protection against unjust or discriminatory freight rates.

However, Transport Minister Pickersgill challenged that view.

He said the anti-discrimination rule has been restored in the new bill, which has been altered in some aspects since it first came to the committee two months ago.

The bill would free the railways of all freight rate regulation, subject only to minimum and maximum formulas. They would be allowed to scrap money-losing branch lines and passenger services but at the same time face the gradual withdrawal of federal subsidies now running above $100,000,000 a year.

Basic intent of the bill is to let competition between the various modes of transport — rail, truck, air and ship — become the governing factor in rate-making. It follows recommendations made five years ago by the MacPherson royal commission.

The two witnesses were retanied by the four Atlantic provinces, Manitoba and Alberta to draft arguments against rate freedom for the railways.

Dr. Williams said the bill is without precedent in any country. The pressures of competition on Canadian railways were limited and in many instances completely ineffective.

Dr. Borts was critical of the bill's maximum rate formula which would limit the rates on captive shippers to variable costs plus 150 per cent, based on a 30,000-pound carload. He said the formula and its definition of a captive shipper should be scrapped entirely.

Hearing Dec. 8

A public hearing will be held Thursday, Dec. 8, to hear representations on the possible addition of two trades to the Apprenticeship and Tradesmen's Qualification Act.

The trades are those of cement mason and roofing. The Provincial Apprenticeship Committee will hold the public hearing at the Vancouver labor department office.

Overtime Ban Call Supported

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor Minister Peterson said Thursday both management and labor appear to be responding satisfactorily to the government's call for a curb on overtime.

"Questions have been raised and some sectors have pointed out problems," said Mr. Peterson. "But generally speaking I believe a sincere effort is being made by both sides to make government policy effective."

He declined to specify degrees of co-operation among various sectors or to say whether legislation might be necessary to enforce the ban at this time.

Mr. Peterson was questioned on possible legislation on overtime after addressing the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of B.C.

"Business and industry should analyze their present requirements with a view to eliminating overtime by the end of this year," he said.

"This would involve dispute and difficulties, I'm sure, but it's also desirable in public interest."

Gaglardi Honored

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi was awarded honorary rank of flight sergeant Thursday at a special ceremony by Sea Island 692, Air Canada Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

CAR INSURANCE

Advance Payment Plan Under Study

VANCOUVER (CP) — Automobile insurance companies are considering payments in advance of final settlement of claims, the royal commission on insurance was told Thursday.

Gordon W. McGill, claims manager for Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co., said his company is considering the interim payment plan in cases where the company's liability is not in doubt and where the injuries are serious and likely to result in loss of income.

He said the move is pertinent to reports of economic hardship on individuals or families as a result of car accidents, where damages may not be agreed upon for many months.

Mr. McGill said the company believes an injured person may rehabilitate himself more rapidly if he is relieved of money worries.

He may also be able to get better medical attention and, in the long run, may cost the insurance company less.

Interim payment is already a practice in parts of the U.S., he said. These payments are taken into account when the amount of damages is agreed upon, or division of responsibility among two or more drivers in an accident is determined.

Mr. McGill agreed with Gordon S. Rae, counsel for the provincial commission, that it would be helpful if the issue of fault could be determined soon after the accident, leaving the amount of damages to be determined later.

Development Lease Signed By Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor William Rathie said Wednesday that an agreement to lease block 52 in the downtown core for development by CEMP Investments Ltd. and the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. has been signed.

The parties to the agreement are the city, Fairview Corp. (B.C.) Ltd. and Block 52 Development Ltd.

The lease agreement calls for development of two downtown blocks encompassing six-acres bounded by Granville, Robson, Howe and Dunsmuir Streets.

The development plan includes an Eaton's store, three office towers, two hotels, a retail concourse of more than 75 stores, underground parking and street level plazas.

New Timber Group Formed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five timber associations, representing companies employing 77,000 persons in the B.C. timber industry, formed a joint council Thursday to co-ordinate efforts in such fields as accident prevention and statistical research.

J. V. Christensen, president of the Tahsis Co. Ltd., was named chairman of the new body, to be known as the Council of Forest Industries of B.C.

The new setup will be handled through five inter-related divisions. Each division was previously a separate association, affiliated through council membership.

Joining the new council are B.C. Loggers' Association, B.C. Lumber Manufacturers Association, Consolidated Red Cedar Shingle Association, Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, B.C. division, and Plywood Manufacturers Association of B.C.

Why did Russ Jackson—football player and mathematics teacher—choose a $25,000 Jubilee whole life policy? Russ gave his reasons in a tape-recorded conversation. Here they are—in his own words:

"There are not too many places where you can double your money as well as protect your family."

This one comment sums up Russ Jackson's reasons for buying a London Life Jubilee policy. It's interesting to hear him explain the steps that led up to this investment.

"Being in the position I'm in, I have a lot of insurance people who contact me and try to get me to take insurance policies of one sort or another.

"But I had known some people in London Life and when a chap here in Ottawa contacted me, I was ready for insurance and more than willing to talk to him."

Why did Russ feel he was "ready for insurance"?

"I was married in 1961 to a Hamilton girl, Lois. We now have two youngsters—a boy, Kevin, and a little girl, Suzanne.

"This policy gives my wife protection if anything should happen to me and would enable her to carry on what I think would be a fairly normal life."

Protection is one side of his Jubilee whole life policy. Investment is the other. Russ looked into this thoroughly.

"As many people know, bonds and investments are part of the Grade 13 Algebra course. Teaching this to the students at high school has made me aware of all the pitfalls and possibilities in this type of investment. I believe the mathematical background has helped a great deal in evaluating this London Life policy.

"My monthly premium is $34.58.

"I bought the policy when I was 28. If I live to age 65, I will have paid in a little over $15,000. And if I leave my dividends to accumulate, which I plan on doing, then this policy can be worth over $31,000.

"This would be double the amount I would have paid in premiums."

(Note: the $31,000 figure Russ mentions above is made up of $13,600 guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on the current dividend scale. While they are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend payments. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1965 exceed $29 million.)

"I have to admit it's a long-term investment—you're not going to make a lot of money quickly—but the protection that you get with it makes it extremely attractive."

London Life insurance is flexible. Here are three of the choices Russ will have when he reaches age 65:

(a) He can continue to pay premiums on his $25,000 policy and continue to build savings.

(b) He can withdraw his $31,000 or so as a lump sum.

(c) He can use his savings to provide an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Russ talked briefly about one other feature of his insurance program:

"I also have what is known as income continuance. This extends through to May of 1984, and guarantees Lois—if anything happens to me between now and 1984—$200 a month, every month, until that date in '84. The purpose of this is to guarantee my children — who are very young now — the chance of going to college."

(This income would be in addition to the $25,000 provided by Russ' Jubilee policy.)

Russ Jackson's story is not unusual. Today, most young men know they need insurance to protect their families. Many of them are discovering they can also double their money with London Life. A representative of the Company can show you how.

Deadlock Continues Over Herring Prices

VANCOUVER (CP) — Little progress was reported Thursday in negotiations between British Columbia herring fishermen and packing companies.

Union spokesmen said negotiations to end the 18-day-old strike have been suspended indefinitely following Thursday's sessions, which left the two sides deadlocked on price payment proposals.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union offered to drop demands from $20.48 a ton to $19.

The Fisheries Association of British Columbia refused to make a counter-offer. It said the world herring price has dropped by 10 per cent and it cannot go above the present price of $17.50.

Some minor progress was made on weighing and lay-up procedures, officials said.

The fishermen are seeking the price increase to enable them to set up a pension fund. They would set aside $1.20 from each $19 a ton to set up the fund.

WHAT'S A DEBENTURE?

Whereas a mortgage is a charge against a specific property or properties, a debenture is a charge against a company's assets.

So, if a company owns mortgages, it's debentures are a charge against all its mortgage holdings.

The Debenture Holder is as secure as the quality of the mortgage portfolio held by the company, and this is where Victoria Mortgage Management BEARS DOWN.

The quality of our carefully-selected mortgages offers just about the best security available these days.

The full details are available in our September 1st quarterly report, which you may obtain with your copy of our prospectus by phoning EV 4-7128.

1866... A very good Year

A very good year for the Crown Colonies on the Island and the Mainland, which joined together to become the province of British Columbia. Undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting went on. And undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting will mark B.C.'s 100th birthday. To honor the occasion, Andres introduce Richelieu—the aristocracy of wines—specially set aside for Centennial celebrations. Sherries, aperitif and golden cream; rich full bodied Burgundy and crisp Riesling; Champagnes bubbling with excitement.

Andres Richelieu Wines... to make 1966 a very memorable year.

CRAIGMONT EARNINGS SHOW BIG INCREASE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Net profit of Craigmont Mines, Ltd., for the year ended October 31 increased by almost three times the total for the previous fiscal year to $7,650,000, president J. D. Simpson reported Thursday.

The gain over the $2,256,248 was made despite the fact the mine operated for only 6½ months in the latest fiscal year, as compared with 11 months in the 1965 year. The operations at Merritt, in the British Columbia Interior, were closed during a strike from September 30, 1965, to April 17, 1966.

Earnings in the latest year were $1.51 per share, compared with 44 cents in the preceding year.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oils Hit High at Toronto

Oils jumped as drilling activity increases especially in northwestern Alberta. Union Oil gained 1 to 32¼, Home A ¾ to 22¼, Central Del Rio ⅝ to 12 and Scurry Rainbow and Canadian Superior ⅜ each to 19⅝ and 27⅛.

Wall Street marked up gains in moderately active trading. Airlines, autos, electronics, aerospace issues, chemicals and rails joined in the gains.

AT TORONTO golds, which are facing bleak prospects of getting an increase in the price of the metal, dropped. Dome dropped ½ to 37½ and Kerr Addison ½ to 10⅝.

For industrials, Montreal Locomotive gained 1⅜ to 17½, Standard Radio 1 to 22 and Canadian British Aluminum A ½ to 17½. Moore Corp. fell 1 to 85.

Brunswick slid 30 cents to a low of 8.15 in base metals while Consolidated Morrison added 11 cents at 2.39 in speculative mines.

AT NEW YORK IBM rose 7, Xerox about 6, Polaroid 5, Corning Glass and Texas Gulf Sulphur about 4 each.

Gains of about 3 were made by Kerr-McGee Oil, Continental Airlines and Braniff Airways.

Eastern Air Lines gained 5, American Airlines 4, United, North West and Pan-American about 2 each. KLM added about 1½.

Autos showed resiliency despite cutbacks and lower sales. General Motor and Chrysler each rose more than a point, Ford and American Motors fractions.

AT MONTREAL the exchange improved slightly in light trading today although gains held only a slight edge over losses.

Senior oils were traded heavily and moved fractionally higher. Pacific Pete climbed ⅜ to 10⅞ and Imperial ¼ to 54⅝.

AT LONDON the exchange remained subdued today with interest generally lacking in equities and gilts drifting down on small selling.

Canadian dollar stocks, however, were firmer where changed in the quiet market. Royal Bank of Canada was a firm spot in quiet banks.

The stock, which made a hefty gain Thursday, continued its upward path. It reached .99 before returning to .94, up .07 on the morning. At 11:30 a.m. West Coast had traded 253,550 shares.

Other mining stocks reflected heavier and brighter trading.

Bornite Ridge came to life, traded 51,600 shares and moved forward .04 to .30. Magnum was .12 better and Brenda advanced .15. Placer put on $1.50 to $28.

In the oils, Peace River dropped .01 to a new low of .20 and Share dipped .03 to .51.

2,000 Hold Certificates In Motels

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 2,000 people, mostly small investors, hold an interest in Slumber Lodge Motels, now in receivership, it was learned Thursday.

Largest single investment in Sterling Pacific Mortgage Corp. Ltd., which provided financing for the motel chain, was about $100,000. But the average investor has between $500 and $2,000 tied up.

CANNOT BE HONORED

Certificates in Sterling Pacific bear interest at eight per cent and are redeemable on demand.

Because of the receivership, however, demands for redemption cannot be honored and certificate holders have been notified that cash distribution will be made pro rata as money is received.

Sterling, Slumber Lodge and Paragon Development Ltd., owner of the motels, all have the same directors.

A spokesman close to company affairs said Thursday there "certainly won't be any fire sale of these motels."

A solution, he said, might be that the certificate holders become shareholders, elect a new directorate, and run the motels.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Development Has Hit Plateau

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Shopping centre development by one of the major real estate firms in North America has reached a plateau in this area.

Tankoos-Yarmon western vice-president Jim Armstrong, whose firm has Shelbourne and Colwood shopping plazas, said the key to further expansion is population density.

He agreed the entire Vancouver Island area has most attractive long-term potential, but first an easing of the money market and greater concentrations of population are required before his firm is likely to develop more shopping centres.

Or for that matter, any other form of real estate development here, such as high-rise apartments.

Tankoos-Yarmon is more diversified in the east, and being relatively new on the west coast has participated in a limited way with commercial developments.

But the firm is always ready to obtain choice sites for future development when conditions warrant.

Mr. Armstrong's capsule appraisal of Vancouver Island's main centres:

Duncan—tremendous disposable income available to the consumer market, and land acquisition relatively easy.

Nanaimo — nearing saturation in commercial development for the immediate future.

Encouraging reports are given out by C. E. Craig, president of Rodstrom Yellowknife Mines Ltd., regarding Silvertip property it has under option.

There are 96 contiguous claims just below the Yukon border which cover several large, distinct anomalies containing sulphide mineralization, according to results of rotary drilling in four holes to a total depth of 2,243 feet.

There are also surface showings of galena 2,000 feet north of the drilling area, and high-quality silver-lead showings in an old adit.

An engineering report by A. R. Parker says economic and geological evidence justifies $525,000 expenditure on surface and underground exploration next year.

Meanwhile Mr. Craig says the company proposed going ahead with surface exploration to the value of $100,000, weather permitting, by means of gravity survey and 5,000 feet of drilling.

New Imperial Mines Ltd. has a contract with White Pass and Yukon Route for truck-rail haulage of bulk copper concentrates Japan-bound via Skagway from its 2,500-tons-per-day mill near Whitehorse, to start next spring.

Initial shipments will be in the 80-100 tons-per-day bracket and involve the installation by the White Pass Route of $1 million worth of transfer and storage-loading facilities.

CUP BRIEFS

Hold Those Posts!

By ERNIE FEDORUK

VANCOUVER—There is a rude jolt awaiting those happy-go-lucky football fans who have intentions of tearing down the goalposts in the hope of grabbing a souvenir of Saturday's Grey Cup game.

It won't be easy.

The single upright posts are made of tubular steel in a gooseneck style and originally were unveiled in last week's Eastern Conference final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

* * *

There probably will be a great deal of confusion Saturday because the Roughriders (one word) are playing the Rough Riders (two words).

Jack Gotta, assistant coach of the Roughriders — the one-worded Saskatchewan team — came up with perfect solution to the problem.

* * *

Grant feels both Grey Cup finalists are "well matched but Saskatchewan has the edge in Jack Abendschan's field-goal kicking and its reaction to pressure.

"It's important that a team knows what to do under pressure in close games. Saskatchewan had won a lot of tight games in the West in the past season, Ottawa was never really under any great pressure," Grant added.

Grant also admitted he was "a little biased" in predicting a 25-24 victory for the West.

* * *

The coveted mug, which originally cost $50, was purchased Friday by the Canadian Football League for $5,000. Until Friday, the Grey Cup was officially the property of the Canadian Amateur Football Association.

The CAFA will use the money to establish a Canadian Olympic Fund in aid of amateur sport.

* * *

Al Dryburgh of Winnipeg will be head referee Saturday. Seymour Wilson of Hamilton, Don Barker of Vancouver and Ken Stein of Vancouver will be umpires.

Harry Ross of Montreal will be head linesman and Bob Shephard of Toronto has been appointed field judge.

* * *

The best educated guess in town says the football fun generates more than $1,500,000 in business.

How much do they spend?

Tourist officials say the rule-of-thumb is about $35 a day, roughly broken down this way: hotel $11, food $10, drinks $2, retail spending $5, taxis and transportation $2, night clubs and theatres $3, and miscellaneous $2.

* * *

And, finally, a personal note to the boss: Don't worry about the bias in my bits. Some of us farm boys have waited a long time for Saturday.

That includes members of the 1955 and '56 Regina Junior Rams. Ted Urness, his twin brother Jack, Larry Dumelie and Dale (Calgary) Parsons were some of the better ones on that good 1956 team. And lest I forget, chap named E. Fedoruk was the Rams' manager . . .

So about Saturday, boss . . . If the West wins, don't call me. I'L call you!

Meissner's 13th Tally Was Unlucky for Leafs

Times News Services

LOS ANGELES — Dick Meissner was a standout junior when he performed with the old Humboldt Indians in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

The stocky winger with the booming shot is starting to convince Western Hockey League fans that he also has what it takes to rumble in professional ranks.

He scored only one goal Thursday. It was his 13th scoring shot of the young season and was the big insurance goal that helped Los Angeles Blades cut down Portland Buckaroos.

The goal also tripped Victoria Maple Leafs, albeit slightly. The Blades hurdled past the Leafs in the league standing and left Victoria as occupants of fifth place.

SERIES WITH CANUCKS

Leafs get a chance to improve their position tonight when they visit the Canucks in Vancouver. They wrap up a home-and-home series in Victoria's Memorial Arena on Saturday.

It's a crucial set-to for both. A Victoria sweep would boost Leafs all the way from fifth to, possibly, second place.

SCHOOL SOCCER FINAL SCHEDULED SATURDAY

"Sorry, but . . ." say the men in charge, the British Columbia high school soccer final will have to be played Saturday, starting at 1 p.m.

The soccer playoff between defending champion Victoria High Tyees and John Oliver, of Vancouver, conflicts with television of the Grey Cup football game, but Vics' Dave Price said, rather sadly, "There's no way out of it".

John Oliver defeated the Tyees in overtime three years ago. That's a score the Vics, unbeaten in 12 games this year, want settled Saturday when they trot out on the Vic High field.

Yancey, Courtney Share Early Lead

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Chuck Courtney and Bert Yancey led an assault on par Thursday, sharing first place in the opening round of the $35,000 Cajun golf tournament.

Each carded seven-under-par 65s.

Courtney, a 26-year-old native of Minnesota, turned in a 33-32-65 card which showed seven birdies. His longest birdie putt was from 15 feet.

Yancey is shooting here for a fourth title this year, which would equal the number won by Billy Casper as the most by one player this year.

Yancey canned an 18-footer for an eagle three on Nov. 13 and got six birdies.

Dagg Can Appreciate That Lucky 13 Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lyall Dagg scored his 13th consecutive victory Thursday night to move into the final of the Dogwood Event at the Grey Cup Totem Bonspiel.

Dagg, world champion in 1964, knocked off John Munro of Vancouver 8-6 to enter the final of the special event. Dale Lang of New Westminster defeated former Canadian champion Garnett Campbell of Avonlea, Sask., 7-6.

Dagg will meet Lang in the special event final and Tom Bahniuk of Edmonton in the prestige event, the Totem. Both games will be played today.

Bahniuk, whose only loss in 13 games came in the Dogwood, earned the right to play in the final of the Hollyburn event, the eighth flight, with an 8-7 win Thursday over Tom Bray of Vancouver.

Kickers Likely Heroes In Scuba Bowl Struggle

Lancaster Doesn't Mind Odds for Grey Cup Final

By HAL MALONE

VANCOUVER — "This game will be won on opportunities and kicking. By four points. Anybody who gets Saskatchewan and gets eight points is stealing money."—Frank Johnston, former offensive coach, British Columbia Lions.

"Counting exhibitions, we won 17 out of 20 games. I don't think the point spread is out of line."—Russ Jackson, quarterback, Ottawa Rough Riders.

These priceless pearls were solicited Thursday to clarify (confuse?) the situation for football zealots interested in investing in Saturday's impending Grey Cup collision between Ottawa and Saskatchewan.

If the learned adjudications lead you to any firm convictions, you are better at grasping the situation than either team will be at getting a foothold on the Empire Stadium turf.

Monsoon weather hit this city with both faucets flowing Thursday. Before that it only rained. If it doesn't knock it off before 1 p.m. game-time Saturday, they can call it the Scuba Bowl and give the athletes snorkels.

"The only vital difference," Johnston said, "is that Ottawa has three good backs—Jim Dillard, Bo Scott and Ron Stewart—against Saskatchewan's two—George Reed and Ed Buchanan. But what the hell—all you need is two."

Four Different Types of Blitzes

Lancaster, who is called "Chipmunk" because of his perky disposition and "George Gobel" because of his striking likeness to the entertainer, was highly undismayed by the point spread in Ottawa's favor.

"They may be eight-point favorites on the betting line," Chipmunk said, "but we start all even. They have to show me."

Would he say the Ottawa defence was the best in Canada?

Frown.

"No. I'd say they conceal their plans better than anybody. They have four different types of blitzes. But I don't think they came at me any harder than Winnipeg. And—well, you know what happened to Winnipeg.

"We'll be alright if our offensive line can buy me bonus time. I don't release the ball quickly you know. I like to set and look. Maybe that's because Hugh (Campbell, Saskatchewan's wonderfully skilled receiver) is so often double and triple-teamed. He sometimes takes a little longer than usual to tip me off as to where he's going. If I can get an extra second to find out we're in business."

Half-joking, half-not, Clair said of Campbell: "He may be the first player in Grey Cup history to be quadrupled-teamed."

Hugh Isn't Only Lancaster Target

Since Ottawa favors a zone defence, such a manoeuvre is within the realm of possibility, but not probability. That kind of coverage would leave Ottawa vulnerable in other areas. They fully realize that while Hugh "The Hands" is their main headache, Lancaster also has other targets. Make them Neil Worden and Gordon Barwell.

More palatable is Johnston's belief that kicking will play a major role. Not punting per se, but field-goal kicking.

Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan is rated the best in the west. Ottawa's Moe Racine is only a few metatarsals behind, on a par in the east with Montreal's Peter Kempf and Hamilton's Don Sutherin.

"Whichever team," Johnston says, "gets the most opportunities in field-goal range will be the team to beat."

Both clubs frisked gently Thursday. Clair kept the exercise to a minimum. A chronic worrier, he eschewed drills in which any player could get fallen arches or shredded ankles.

Keys sent his "Green Wienies" through a "light splash session" at Callister Park. Galen Wahlmeir, on crutches after surgery for a torn knee cartilage, and Paul Dudley, bruised kidney, did not work and will be reduced to witnesses Saturday.

Ron Atchison, at 36, Saskatchewan's grand old man, will go "as far as he can," Keys said. Atchison says that will be "all the way."

"Atch" has a transversed spine process—in layman's language a back ready for a wheel chair. He hurt so much against Winnipeg that his mates had to lift him up after every play.

What Is Left Unsaid May Decide It

Where the Ottawans have a sort of intensity and supreme confidence, the "Green Wienies" have a loose, boys' club casualness and determination.

Keys, the drawling leader from Turkey Neck Bend, Ky., sets the pace and they follow. Eagle's idea of a roorin'-tootin' time is to get two spoons and clak them together a la Hillbilly.

Atchison's willingness to play despite an injury that makes even the Saskatchewan medics wince personifies the Saskatchewan mood "to prove something."

"Most of us have or have had injuries," Lancaster said. "But Atch has pain. Bloody awful, unbearable pain. He has the highest pain threshold of any man I've ever known. If he can give out with that, we can give out, too!"

Ottawa's motivation comes from a man who won't even be there. They lost Bill Smyth, their beloved defensive coach, two weeks ago. Pros aren't supposed to get a lift from pure corn. But Bill Smyth meant a lot to them and Hamilton felt their wrath.

Whether their emotions were spent against Hamilton and no longer are an influence remains to be seen.

Perhaps more than any game in modern history, this Grey Cup may be decided by what is said, or left unsaid, just before it starts.

FORMER PRO DIES

Golfers Lose An Old Friend

Victoria golfers lost an old friend Wednesday with the death of Walter Gravlin, who served as head professional at Uplands Golf Club for more than 40 years.

Gravlin, in failing health for the past year, resigned his position at Uplands on Dec. 31, 1963, after teaching until he had passed his 70th birthday.

A native Victorian, Gravlin was one of the city's finest athletes and played professional baseball in the Northwest League after the First World War. However, his first athletic love was golf and he made his debut as a golf pro at the former United Services Club at Macaulay Point in 1919.

Three years later, Gravlin and several friends became unhappy with crowded conditions at the nine-hole course and made plans to found a new club.

They found farmlands suitable for a course and arranged to purchase the present Uplands property. They laid out 18 holes in 1922 and Gravlin watched the course develop into one of the finest layouts in the province.

MATCHED RECORD

Once one of the city's best golfers, Gravlin matched the official Uplands course record of 66. However, he gained his most fame for his teaching and through the years Walter developed many outstanding fairway stars.

Gravlin, who steadfastly adhered to the basic fundamentals of golf in his teaching, played with and met many of the great figures of the golfing world during his long career. He could keep listeners enthralled with stories of the stars, of whom his favorite was probably the late Mildred "Babe" Zaharias, once undisputed queen of the fairways.

Gravlin is survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Etherington and Mrs. Fred Wright, and a brother, T. Gravlin, all of Victoria; a daughter, Mrs. A. H. Jukes, and four grandchildren in Vancouver.

Services will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in Hayward's Funeral Chapel, 734 Broughton St.

Jayvees Zip Past 100 In Sixth Straight Win

VANCOUVER — University of B.C. Jayvees went on a scoring spree Thursday night and bombed North Shore Mountaineers 103-51 in an Inter-City Junior Basketball League game.

With their sixth straight victory the unbeaten Jayvees climbed into a first-place tie with Kerrisdale and Vancouver YMCA.

In another game Thursday, Simon Fraser University sent Killarney down to a sixth successive defeat, by trimming the trailers 85-52.

Sam Vandermeulen swished 25 points and Rick Inrig connected for 18 to pace the UBC scoring parade. John Hart hit 18 points for North Shore.

Kerrisdale will make a bid to take over sole possession of the top spot Sunday when the Kerries host the Victoria Chinooks.

HALTER RAPS VANCOUVER . . . . . . AS GREY CUP SITE

Toronto the Good Also Best?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The weather was the same as the Cup Thursday in Vancouver — and the retiring Canadian Football League commissioner, G. Sydney Halter, did his best to make the future still greyer for football fans on the West Coast and in the Ottawa Valley.

Although Halter doesn't make his official farewell speech until tonight, at the annual Grey Cup dinner, he made it clear in an interview Thursday that, in his view, Toronto is the only logical centre for Canada's professional football final.

Vancouver, where the game comes every third year, just "isn't in the same league" as Toronto when it comes to spinning the stadium turnstiles, he said. And Ottawa, which gets the centennial-year Grey Cup in 1967, has neither the weather nor the housing.

"I feel that the Vancouver area is just not big enough to support this game once the initial atmosphere of glamor begins to wear off. On the other hand, Toronto is in the centre of a vast pool of fans from many involved cities and will thus always be able to fill the stadium."

Halter said he thinks it is a "terrible mistake" to stage the 1967 Grey Cup final in Ottawa.

"The weather can be absolutely brutal there this time of the year. The last time a Grey Cup game was played in Ottawa was in 1939, on an icy field in a bitterly cold wind. It was a fiasco.

Halter said future Grey Cup attendances in Vancouver are headed for troubled times because of television, especially now that color TV has arrived.

"We could see some evidence of that this coming Saturday."

Boston's Cooking, And Not Just Beans

Bruins Belt Slumping Wings 8-3; Hall and Hawks Blank Canadiens

GLENN HALL
. . . 67th shutout

By The Canadian Press

For the first time in many National Hockey League seasons, Boston Bruins seem to have come across some pep pills in the old bean crock.

They beat Detroit Red Wings 6-2 in the season opener and now have six wins in 15 starts. The Red Wings visited the home of the bean and the cod Thursday night and again were the poor fish, taking an 8-3 thumping.

With all the spirit of a cold bean sandwich, the Wings yielded goals to Ron Stewart, Wayne Connelly, John Bucyk, John McKenzie, Ted Green, Murray Oliver, Ron Schock and Gilles Marotte. Norm Ullman had two goals for Detroit and Ted Hampson one.

In the other game, Chicago Black Hawks coasted to an easy 5-0 win over Montreal Canadiens on goals by Dennis Hull, Phil Esposito, Chico Maki, Stan Mikita and Ken Wharram.

The Bruins took a 4-0 lead in the first period and led 6-2 going into the third period, handing the slumping Red Wings their fifth straight loss. The Wings have been outscored 28-9 during their losing streak.

Only two members of the Bruins failed to get either a goal or an assist as the Bruins went on their biggest scoring spree in three years. The two players who missed were Dallas Smith and Tom Williams, the only American-born player in the NHL.

Cheevers Instrumental in Surge

The Bruins fired 43 shots at Detroit netminder Roger Crozier for their third victory in four starts against the Red Wings this season. Detroit managed 33 shots at Boston netminder Gerry Cheevers, who joined the club Nov. 9 after veteran netminder Ed Johnston suffered an eye injury.

With Cheevers in goal, the Bruins have lost once—5-4 to New York Rangers.

HAS HEFTY LEAD

Mikita's goal plus an assist on Wharram's goal gave the flashy Czech centre 25 points in 14 games this year for a seven-point lead over Ullman in the individual scoring race. The goal was Mikita's eighth of the season. Wharram and Hull have the same goal totals.

Hodge gave up four goals in the first two periods and was replaced by Gump Worsley at the start of the third. The Hawks fired 24 shots while the Canadiens had 31 at Glenn Hall, who registered the first shutout of the season and the 67th of his career.

The loss dropped the Canadiens into fifth place.

Saturday, Montreal will be host to Detroit, Boston will clash with the Maple Leafs in Toronto and Chicago and the Rangers will meet in an afternoon game in New York.

Toronto will be at New York Sunday and Chicago will be at Boston. Montreal and Detroit are idle.

VIKING VIEWS

Weekend Busy One For Uvic

University of Victoria Vikettes, again looming as possible contenders for the Canadian junior women's basketball championship, are reaching afield for competition.

Coach Wally Yeamans, sensing the importance of good competition for Vikettes, is lining up an extensive schedule with UBC, Simon Fraser, Abbotsford and senior "A" clubs in Vancouver and Victoria.

Vikettes play Simon Fraser in Burnaby tonight and, in turn, will host SFU the following weekend.

Also on the move will be the basketball Vikings. They'll play three games in the U.S., meeting Clatsop Junior College in Astoria, Ore., tonight, Portland Community College in Portland on Saturday and then wrap up their southern jaunt in Kelso, Wash., on Sunday.

Also busy will be the Viking hockey team. Chick Little's charges play their regular Esquimalt League game against Tudor Monarchs at the Sports Centre tonight, starting at 7:45, then move to Memorial Arena on Saturday (4:30) for a game against Selkirk College of Castlegar.

Chilliwack Junior Tagged Two Years

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Bob Ford, 15, a forward with Chilliwack Jets of the West Coast Junior Hockey League, has been suspended from organized hockey for two years.

Servants Pad Hockey Lead

Gord Wickware rapped in three goals Thursday night at Memorial Arena as B.C. Civil Service ran its unbeaten streak in the Stuffy McGinnis Hockey League to eight games with a 5-0 conquest of Peter Pollen Mustangs.

In other games, Victoria Machinery Depot pulled into a second-place tie with Ingraham Raiders by routing the Raiders 7-3 and Victoria Press scored its first victory—a 6-2 win over Drake Hotel.

BANTAMS PLAY SEMIS SUNDAY

Gordon Head Chargers tackle Oak Bay Invaders in the first playoff game at 11:30 a.m. Esquimalt Lions and St. Louis College Gaels tangle in the other semi at 1 p.m.

Winners will meet on the same field in the final the following Sunday.

RULING CORRECT

Boss Backing His Man Friday

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said Thursday that a ruling by referee Bill Friday in Toronto, Wednesday night, governing a penalty shot was "absolutely correct".

Toronto Maple Leafs, who won the contest 6-3, were awarded a penalty shot against Chicago Black Hawks in the second period of the game with the visitors leading 2-0.

Chicago coach Billy Reay decided to substitute veteran Glenn Hall for Denis DeJordy in the Hawks' net in an attempt to stop Frank Mahovlich's one-on-one drive.

Friday did not allow Hall any warmup shots and Reay claimed after the game that Friday had misinterpreted NHL rules.

Not so, said Campbell. He quoted rule 15 section D as his authority.

"The referee was absolutely correct in not allowing Hall to warmup. Once the game has started no practice shots will be allowed any substitute goaltender except when the substitution is caused by injury or sickness to the other goalkeeper."

Cowboys Ride Tall in Saddle

By The Associated Press

Don Meredith is hitting his targets again and Dallas Cowboys are drawing a bead on their first title in the National Football League.

Meredith, whose passes were intercepted four times in an early-season loss to Cleveland Browns, picked the Browns' defence apart Thursday, directing the Cowboys to a 26-14 victory that sent them into first place in the Eastern Division race.

The victory moved Dallas one - half game ahead of St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle. The Cardinals take on the improved Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday without No. 1 quarterback Charley Johnson, out for the year with a damaged knee.

Meredith completed 16 of 24 passes for 131 yards and one touchdown, directed another touchdown drive and set up two of Danny Villaneuva's four field goals with his passing and running.

In the NFL's other U.S. Thanksgiving Day tussle, John Brodie led San Francisco '49ers to a 41-14 triumph over Detroit Lions.

THUMPS RAIDERS

Buffalo Bills thumped Oakland Raiders 31-10 in Thursday's American Football League action.

Villaneuva booted 12-and 13-yard field goals in the third quarter and Don Perkins, who carried for 111 yards, capped his effort, with a 10-yard scoring jaunt in the fourth quarter for Dallas.

Meredith's six - yard payoff pitch to Dan Reeves in the second quarter was his 23rd touchdown pass of the season—tops in the league.

Leroy Kelly, who led the Cleveland ball-carriers with 115 yards, plunged a yard for the Browns' first touchdown and Frank Ryan passed 16 yards to Ernie Green for the other.

San Francisco's Brodie passed 24 yards to Dave Klopay for one touchdown and 45 yards to Dave Parks for another, and Klopay scrambled 32 yards for a third score with a fumbled punt runback.

PTA May Help Publicizing School Report

Victoria and District PTA Council is considering setting up study groups to examine the recommendations of the Downey-Hartrick report on Greater Victoria school system.

The council will decide at its January meeting how it can help to implement the recommendations and stir up public interest in the report.

This was decided Thursday night at a council meeting in Central Junior Secondary School addressed by school trustee Peter Bunn.

Mr. Bunn told council members they can do a major job of public information to help the school system.

He said, "If the department of education does not permit us to build the schools we need, if it cuts the size of future building referendums, then this will reflect on the quality of education your children and mine will receive."

Mr. Bunn outlined to the meeting the recommendations of the report and what had already been done to implement some of them.

He said that, in the last analysis, the improvement of the system depends on the willingness of the public to pay and on the permission of the department of education to spend.

Improper Charge Frees Pair

Two youths who admitted causing a disturbance in an apartment hallway early Wednesday escaped prosecution because of a legal tangle.

John Thomson, 20, of 114 Ontario and Barry Bruce, 18, of 1126 Oxford pleaded not guilty when they first appeared in central court Wednesday morning but returned in the afternoon to change their pleas.

They were arrested about 2 a.m. when police answered a complaint at 349 Cook St. Officers at first thought the pair was drunk in the apartment corridor but later questioning showed them to be under the influence of "sleeping pills."

Theey were reported to have stopped a woman from passing down the corridor.

Bruce was hardly able to stand and told officers he had taken about 10 pills, court was told. The accused said in court he thought he had only taken about five pills.

Magistrate Ostler ordered the charge withdrawn and the pair freed after explaining that the charge against them improperly combined two sections of the Criminal Code.

Rifle Hunted In Slaying Of Mountie

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton police are searching for a rifle used in the slaying Tuesday of RCMP constable Gordon Pearson at Winterburn, five miles west of Edmonton.

The believe the weapon is a cut-down or converted .303 Lee-Enfield rifle, which may have been discarded between the scene of the shooting and West Edmonton.

Const. Pearson was killed and two other men wounded when a man walked into an all-night restaurant and began shooting.

In hospital in improved condition are Donald L'Hirondelle of Villeneuve, Alta., and Adolphus Savard, of Edmonton. They have been taken off the critical list.

Funeral services for Const. Pearson will be held Saturday from the Christian Reformed Church at Neerlandia, 65 miles northwest of Edmonton.

represents 700,000,000 people in this world can become a member of that organization."

The Canadian proposals might serve the purpose of "breaking the log jam" which had faced the UN for the last 15 years in considering seating of Communist China.

On Viet Nam, Mr. Pearson was pessimistic about efforts to halt the war. There seemed little likelihood of an early settlement.

He was discouraged at the intractability of North Viet Nam in the conflict, although he said he understands that country's reluctance to link an end to U.S. bombing to a settlement. He believed the U.S. wants to withdraw from Viet Nam but Communist countries to which Canada had talked did not believe it.

Show Courage of Convictions

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said his party supported the Canadian initiative to get Communist China into the UN. He urged the government to show the courage of its convictions and extend diplomatic recognition.

Social Credit Leader Thompson questioned the seating bid. Red China had no intention of taking a seat. Even Communist nations were threatening to cut ties with Peking, so why should Canada move the other way?

In the day's other major debate, Labor Minister Nicholson defended the government's decision to increase interest rates on National Housing Act loans to 7¼ per cent from 6¾.

The higher interest might work hardship on some but it was necessary to make more money available in the housing field. It was better to have money available at the higher rates than "no funds at all at 6¾ per cent."

Opposition MPs said the increase would put home-owning out of the reach of all but the wealthy.

Youth Shot Down On Seattle Street

SEATTLE (AP) — A Seattle teen-ager was shot and killed early today when he got out of his car at a stop light to argue with the occupants of another vehicle.

Police said one of three men in the other car shot Ronald S. Dinish, 19, in the head during the argument, then got back in his car and fled. Young Dinish was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

The automobile described by witnesses in the Dinish car was found unoccupied not far from the scene of the shooting in Seattle's Rainier Valley less than half an hour later.

Police began an immediate search for three men and two women who were reported in the car when it sped away from the scene.

With Dinish at the time were his sister, Yvette, 18, Marsha Pearson, 19, and Richard Anderson, all of Seattle. They were not hurt.

Police said witnesses told them Dinish got out of his car to talk with the people in the other car when the latter pulled alongside and its occupants began shouting curses at them.

ROCK SLIDES BLOCK PGE AT SQUAMISH

A slide, blamed on heavy rain, sent earth and rock down onto the PGE right-of-way near Porteau early today. It was followed a short time later by a second slide. About 300 feet of track was reported covered.

Passengers were taken around the slide area by bus to Squamish.

PGE officials hope to have the line cleared and returned to normal service late this afternoon.

U.S. PHILOSOPHER:

'Worst of Projects By Best Educated'

A university degree is not a passport to morality, an American philosopher warned a University of Victoria audience Thursday.

"We have seen in the last millenium that the worst of projects have usually been undertaken by the best educated," Dr. Donald Wells, chairman of Washington State University's philosophy department told a small audience of Uvic students and professors.

"From the medieval wrack to the modern gas chamber; from the primitive sling to the sophisticated flame thrower; from ancient incantations to modern advertising—all these are the blessed contributions of our college graduates," he added.

HELPED HITLER

"This is the group that helped Hitler promote Aryan supremacy and anti-semitism. This is where the Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens' Councils come for public relations promoters. Indeed, if you want to defraud the public you will do it better with college trained personnel."

Dr. Wells' talk was in the form of an answer to the question "Should educated persons be expected to be moral?"

His answer—They should be, but they aren't.

This prostitution of education results from an unwillingness to permit education to uplift moral values, he claimed.

"You expect that education will help you to know how to cure more diseases, bodily and mental, individual and social. But somehow it is not expected that education will inspire you to do what you know how to do," he said.

"We expect that education will improve our technical know-how, but we do not expect that education will make us moral enough to prefer X-ray machines to thermonuclear bombs," he lamented.

DIFFERENCE

But education should lead to a higher morality by casting out prejudices based on ignorance, making people more aware of alternatives and developing moral sensitivities.

Dr. Wells closed with the hope that his listeners would distinguish between degree-holders and educated people:

Mass Protest Dropped By Cowichan Indians

Housing Pledge By Laing

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indians have called off the protest march on Vancouver regional office of the Indian Affairs Department which was set for December 5.

During a day-long visit to Cowichan reserve Thursday, Indian Affairs Minister Arthur Laing promised that beginning April, 1967, houses will be built here at a rate sufficient to take care of all needs within five years.

In the band's recreation hall he told his audience: "I'm not impressed by marches.

"Condemn me five years from now if our program fails but not right now as I think we are doing a good job."

61 HOUSES NEEDED

Jeff Boys, B.C. Indian commissioner, said Cowichan reserve requirements are 61 houses by the end of 1971.

Funds will be provided in 1967 to build 20 houses.

Mr. Laing interjected to say he is sure Parliament will never repudiate the commitment to meet Cowichan housing needs by the end of 1971.

The minister said negotiations are under way to try to expand the involvement of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in making loans for housing on Indian reserves.

He said these loans could be guaranteed by the value of the reserve lands.

BIG POTENTIAL

In his speech, Mr. Laing suggested Cowichan Indians try putting their Cowichan sweater-making on a commercial basis rather than leaving it with individual women in their own homes.

He said: "There is a tremendous potential in these sweaters as an industry.

"My department has had inquiries about Cowichan sweaters from Russia."

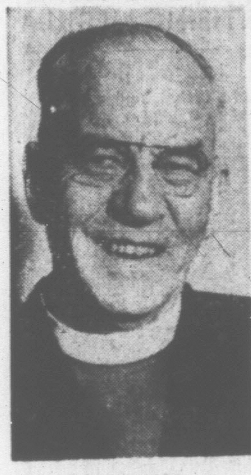
TWO-WAY STREET

Mr. Laing told them: "You say you are still a proud people and want to run your own affairs. But at the same time you don't want to sever yourselves from dependence on the ancient treaties.

"I'm not defending the state of Indian housing but this is a two-way street and you have to work to improve yourselves."

99TH ANNIVERSARY

Former Moderator To Conduct Service



DR. McLEOD
. . . at Duncan Sunday

DUNCAN—Dr. Hugh McLeod, of Victoria, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada, will conduct the 99th anniversary services of Duncan United Church on Sunday.

At the 11 a.m. service a stained glass window will be dedicated in memory of the late Rev. W. F. Burns, minister of the church for 20 years.

Flying from Calgary for the service will be two nieces of the former minister, Mrs. Donna Storey and Mrs. Lois O'Connor.

At a 9:30 a.m. service a second stained glass window will be dedicated in memory of the late Alex V. Richardson, a long-time parishioner.

The windows, made in England, will be placed on either side of the organ loft.

At an evening service, 7:30, Dr. McLeod will dedicate gifts given in memory of the late P. R. Dobson, former organist and choirmaster of the church.

Bogus Bills Found

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four more near-perfect counterfeit $10 bills were reported discovered here Thursday. To date, 14 such bills have been turned over to police.

Field Survey

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field survey over the Dogwood Trail at Goldstream Park.

TEEN TOWN PROJECT

Building Sound Says Contractor

DUNCAN — Jim Quaife, adult adviser to Duncan Teen Town, today denied that $10,000 will have to be spent on repairing the club's recreation hall.

He said an outside contractor has surveyed the former Frozen Food Centre property on Station Street, and reported the building structurally sound. Repairs will be minor.

Mr. Quatie said the survey report will be made available to city and municipal councils and anyone attending a special public meeting in Duncan United Church hall Tuesday evening.

The criticism of the building was made at last week's municipal council meeting.

Coun. Gerry Smith said he was prepared to move a grant of $1,000 toward purchase of the building until told by two realtors the building was "rotten" and required $10,000 work.

Mr. Quaite said it looks as if the option to buy will be continued to the end of the year.

Teen Town, Duncan Drama Club, Duncan Music Club and the local Old-Age Pensioners' Association are trying to raise a $6,700 down payment for the building.

Total purchase price is $17,500.

Mr. Quaite said Thursday that in view of the contractor's report he understood city council will take a second look at the question of contributing to the project.

HE TALKED HIMSELF INTO RUNNING

NORTH COWICHAN. — Joseph Haddock, the man who is fighting a municipal recreation bylaw in the courts, will run for council.

Mr. Haddock said Thursday he has "talked himself into running" by his criticism of council for separating the municipality into north and south on the question of recreational facilities.

Mr. Haddock's nomination means a six-way fight for the three seats.

Cougars Making Comeback Says Veteran Hunter

By DON DINGWALL

WESTHOLME — Frank Holman has suffered cougar fever for 30 years.

And his wife, Shirley, doesn't think she can cure it now.

Mrs. Holman says: "It's nerve-wracking and I'll be glad when he gives it up."

She'll likely have a long wait. Frank's dad was still hunting cougars when he was 73.

The fever was probably inherited.

His father was renowned as a cougar hunter.

●

Frank has already bagged 74.

He hopes he can make this 100. His father accounted for 300 in his lifetime.

Mr. Holman says: "There could never have been a living in it."

It has always been in the nature of a sport to him.

●

He shot five in three days in the Lake Cowichan area this spring.

A cougar's chief diet is deer.

Frank reckons a cougar family will eat at least a deer a week, and are therefore a formidable consideration in controlling the deer population.

HOLMAN
. . . 74 kills

A big tom cougar can weigh 200 pounds and, if wounded or cornered, won't hesitate to attack a man.

Ordinarily cougar will shy away from a man, but for all his experience Frank says: "I don't trust them at night."

He and his bluetick hound Duke have shared in a few kills.

When the dog has hounded the cougar up a tree, Frank usually aims for the animal's heart instead of smashing the beautiful head.

Cougar have often led him off on six-mile chases, and still lost him.

Cougar are crafty. They'll often double round on their tracks to try and lose the dogs. And they know frost, rocks and sunshine kills their scent.

Is there any profit in cougar hunting now the bounty is gone?

Not really, only the sport of it.

And sometimes selling the carcases to Chinese who like cougar meat.

He also sells bear feet and gall to Chinese who use them to concoct medicines.

●

Frank believes he could never get lost in the island bush and mountains.

Hunters and police believe him. He often leads search parties for lost hunters.

But he nearly lost his life to a black bear

Frank knew cougar seldom if ever go to ground but he fired a shot into the log.

It took four men to pull the bear out of the woods.

Before, and particularly since, Frank Holman has bowed to the bear as the boss animal of Vancouver Island.

'What About The Fishermen?'

OTTAWA (CP) — If west coast fishing companies are going to get 11 cents a pound for skinned dogfish flats, what are the fishermen going to get?

"The immediate urgency of the question is not quite apparent to me," said Speaker Lucien Lamoureux after Tom Barnett (NDP-Comox-Alberni) raised it in the Commons.

Fisheries Minister Robichaud said it would take too long to answer in the House and asked Mr. Barnett to call him at his office for the information.

Don't tell your girls everything about this car!

There are some things about the Spitfire Mark II the ladies just can't understand. For example: how can a sports car be powerful, comfortable, yet inexpensive?

The Mark II is livelier

Put your foot down and the 68-hp Spitfire engine drives you from 0 to 50 in 10 seconds, with a top speed of over 90 mph on the track. Gearbox has 4 forward speeds with synchromesh in second, third and top.

Smoother, safer ride

Each wheel is independently sprung. Result: safer, faster cornering. And on rough surfaces the wheels alone (not you) soak up the bumps.

Fade-free brakes and safety steering wheel

The Spit's front disc brakes are big, powerful and self-adjusting. They're fade-free and unaffected by rain. Your stops are safe and sure. Maintenance is minimal — new pads can be fitted in minutes.

Spitfire Mark II turns in a 24-foot circle

In city parking, you'll squeeze in where others fear to try. In rally driving, the tight turn gives you an advantage over competition that's positively unfair!

Space age luxury (comfort at high speed)

Space age contour seats (like the TR4A) make you feel part of the car. Seats are padded deeper, and upholstered with 2-way stretch Ambla.

Door-to-door deep pile carpeting and carpet panels at base of doors give protection to lower trim.

The Mark II is also available with optional hard top at extra cost.

Extra body strength for safety

The Spitfire chassis is the double-backbone, channel-section type, with outriggers. Light, but incredibly strong — braced at every point to keep the car in shape throughout the hard life a sports car should be built for.

P.E.I. Premier Survives First Battle

By IAN MacKENZIE

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The Prince Edward Island legislature was prorogued Thursday but not before the Liberal government and Progressive Conservative opposition clashed in a heated verbal battle.

Two important money bills and three others received third reading and royal assent.

The special two-day session was the first exposure to legislative attack for Liberal Premier Alex Campbell. He survived it although there had been some doubt as to the future of the administration immediately prior to the opening of the house.

The two parties battled in committee-of-the-whole over a bill to increase the number of members of the island's cabinet to 10 from nine.

The argument evolved over whether or not Robert C. Campbell (L—Prince 1st) had been sworn in as a minister at the same time as other cabinet members.

CLAIM LIMIT BROKEN

Opposition Leader Walter Shaw and M. A. Farmer, former Conservative attorney-general, both claimed the lieutenant-governor had sworn in Mr. Campbell on the premier's advice, thus giving the province 10 ministers when only nine were permitted under the Legislative Assembly Act.

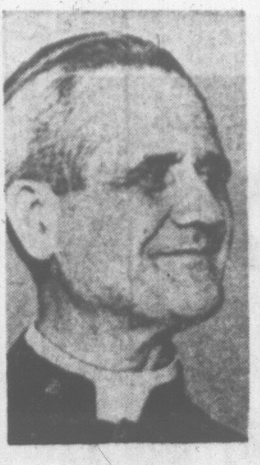
However, the premier and Mr. Campbell both said the latter had not been sworn in. He had been invited to attend cabinet sessions as an individual and had sworn an oath of secrecy in order to do so.

The major bill passed—and the reason for the session—enables the federal government to continue collecting income and corporation taxes after Dec. 31 and to give the island government a larger slice of the tax pie.

A second money bill to permit the provincial government to borrow an additional $5,000,000 to consolidate debts and offset costs was passed along with two other minor bills.

This was the first legislative test for the five - month - old Campbell government, which won 15 seats in the 32 - seat house in the May 30 provincial election and an additional two seats in the deferred election July 11. The Conservatives hold the other 15 seats.

This slim majority had caused some alarm just prior to the house opening when it appeared doubtful whether Liberal Max Thompson would be able to attend. He was admitted to hospital last Sunday but his doctor allowed him to take his seat. Without him, the Liberals would have been in a minority of one in committee and on an even basis with the Conservatives in regular sessions.



LEGER
. . . bad as racism

'No Access To Leisure, Security'

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, said Thursday night there are economic and social divisions in Canada every bit as bad as the racial segregation that is condemned in other countries.

"For an important section of our society it is very difficult, and for all practical purposes almost impossible, to achieve certain things we think of as essential to a man," the Archbishop said.

He told members of the Professional Association of Industrialists that the rigid structure Canadian society works efficiently to perpetrate large pools of poverty and misery.

"In many cases, birth alone decides if a man will obtain a higher education," Cardinal Leger said.

"For the hard-working and deserving masses there is no practical access to cultural pleasures, to security or leisure time."

The Roman Catholic archbishop said it is naive for Canadians to think they can eliminate such segregation simply by expressing a theoretical belief in equality.

Multiple Birth Drug To Be Sold?

SASKATOON (CP) — Clomiphene, a drug known to induce pregnancy, may soon be released for use on a prescription basis, Dr. R. N. Beck of the University Hospital at Saskatoon said Thursday.

Dr. Beck told a prairie regional meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada that the drug has a tendency to produce multiple births, mainly twins.

He said there has been only one recorded case of a clomiphene user giving birth to quadruplets and two to triplets.

Cobalt Used in Beer Factor in 25 Deaths

CALGARY (CP) — A Quebec City heart specialist said Thursday there is no doubt cobalt in beer was the "major factor" in the death of 25 Quebec beer drinkers.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Institute of Cardiology at Laval University, told a news conference there were no similar cases reported "after they dumped the beer" and the use of cobalt in beer was discontinued last March.

Twenty-five other Quebec beer drinkers suffered symptoms similar to those of the victims but recovered.

Dr. Morin also linked cobalt in beer from "small breweries" with a number of similar cases in Omaha, Neb., and some cases, "but not as clear cut," researched in Indianapolis last spring. He declined to identify the breweries.

The survivors had fully recovered from the effects, which included grossly enlarged hearts and "an unusual degeneration" of heart muscle, Dr. Morin said. Shock killed most of the 25 Canadian victims.

Dr. Morin said the Quebec City cases occurred "suddenly" between July or August, 1965, and March, 1966. The incidence disappeared just as suddenly when the brewery dumped large amounts of beer in March.

Dr. Morin said the Quebec-produced brand contained about "a hundredfold" as much cobalt as other beers but still was within permitted limits of 1.5 parts per million.

BOGUS DOCTOR

Two Found Guilty Of Assault

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. William Lloyd Bolduc was jailed for six months Thursday after being convicted in county court of indecent assault on a woman the Crown admits he never touched.

It was believed the first case of its kind in Canada.

Convicted on the same charge was David Bird, a Vancouver musician and honors student at the University of British Columbia, who received a suspended sentence.

Prosecutor Eric Bendrodt said the assault consisted of subjecting the 35-year-old woman to an intimate physical examination in Dr. Bolduc's suburban Richmond office while Bird posed as a medical student.

The prosecutor said the woman gave her consent to Bird's presence under fraud because she was told Bird was a medical student.

BY WARREN COMMISSION

'Dignified Silence' No Longer Enough

NEW YORK (UPI) — Finding "general confusion in the public mind," the New York Times today editorially called on the Warren Commission itself to speak up in response to the spate of recent charges concerning the Kennedy assassination.

"Further dignified silence, or merely more denials by the commission or its staff, are no longer enough," the editorial said.

"Its members and staff, in varying degree, of course, have full knowledge — or should have — of the investigations, evaluations and decisions that went into the (Warren Commission) report. Until they have spoken, the demands for special congressional committees, foundation studies and inquiries by prestigious people seem premature. The Warren Commission itself is composed of leading members of Senate and House and responsible citizens, headed by the respected chief justice."

The Times added: "Perhaps every detail will not be settled. History can never be as neatly packaged as fiction, and people are still writing and reading about the assassination of President Lincoln a hundred years later. But enough responsible inquiry has been aroused to deserve responsible answers."

'It Struck The Crown, It Did'

By YOUSSEF SHENOUDA

CAIRO (AP)—As dawn spread over the Nubian Desert, rays of the sun slid across the ceiling of a great temple, slipped through its long corridors into an inner sanctuary, then lit the crown of Ramses, the pharoah king.

"It struck the crown, it did!" someone shouted from inside the temple. Outside, a tense group of archeologists, engineers and laborers exploded with elated cheers.

Thus they learned one morning last month that years of planning and work and the investment of millions of dollars, had achieved an important success. They had dismantled, moved and reassembled the colossal twin temples of Abu Simbel so exactly that the sun's rays penetrated the inner sanctum just as they did when the temples were built 3,200 years ago.

The priceless monuments had been threatened by the waters of an immense lake slowly rising behind the United Arab Republic's Aswan High Dam. Five European nations formed a consortium two years ago to salvage the temples, and the United States and the United Arab Republic agreed to pay the major part of the estimated $36,000,000 cost.

Korean Girl Seeks Pen Pal

"I would like to correspond with Canadian youth of about my age," writes Osuck Kwon of 373-115 Yaksoo-dong, Sungdong-Ku, Seoul, Korea.

"I am partucularly interested in Canadian life, how Canadians live at home, how they think, what they wear, the kind of music they like, the type of TV programs they watch, the books they read, and the hobbies they pursue.

"I believe there is no better way to arrive at this goal than by correspondence between the youth of different nations whose minds are mature enough to understand, yet not so mature as to be fixed and beyond impression," the student said.

Dies of Poison

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coroner Glen McDonald Thursday classified the death of Juliet Du Bray, 23, a student at the University of B.C., as due to an overdose of barbituate poisoning. Police seized cigarette butts they believed contained marijuana in the girl's apartment when the body was found.

OFF TO DALLAS

Forum President Resigns

A University of Victoria student plans to leave college and travel to Dallas in the new year in an attempt to unravel the mystery of the Kennedy assassination.

And Penn Jones, editor of a tiny Texas weekly and author of the theory that 10 to 18 key witnesses to the Kennedy assassination have met sudden death in mysterious circumstances.

The English and history student plans to assist editor Jones in his investigations beginning the second week in January.

Millionaire To Head Grits?

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Thomas Cossitt, 41, millionaire Brockville insurance broker, may be drafted to lead the Ontario Liberal party, the parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday.

John Matheson told a local Liberal meeting that Mr. Cossitt "is being considered in certain places as the man who should follow Andrew Thompson as leader of the Ontario Liberal party."

Last Tycoon's Saga Stars Almost Everybody

Jack L. Warner, called the "last tycoon" of Hollywood, has sold his interest in Warner Bros. to Seven Arts Productions Ltd., a Toronto - based firm. Bob Thomas, Associated Press columnist, recaps Warner's lively career.

By BOB THOMAS

Jack L. Warner had been called to the stage to be honored for his contribution to the art of the cinema. George Dusheck of the San Francisco Examiner reported the performance:

"Warner read the last page of his speech first, accepted the Golden Gate statuette before it was presented to him and denounced communism for several minutes while (emcee Peter) Ustinov wrung his hands like Zasu Pitts."

After rambling ribaldly on other subjects, aware of the hoots and insults coming from the audience, he peered out into the auditorium and said: "Somebody is giving me the goose."

CRITICS MARVEL

On the following day, the festival presented a retrospective program of the achievements of the film maker during his 48-year tenure as head of production for Warner Brothers. Critics marvelled at the panorama of the distinctive films and personalities:

John Barrymore in the silent Don Juan . . . Al Jolson in The Jazz Singer, speaking the first words heard in a feature movie . . . Edward G. Robinson, James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart as the snarling symbols of the gangster era . . . Busby Berkeley's geometric fantasies in the Dick Powell-Ruby Keeler musicals . . . Bette Davis at her dramatic heights, the young John Garfield in Four Daughters, Paul Muni as Zola . . . Bogie in Casablanca and Sierra Madre . . . Brando as Stanley Kowalski, Gary Cooper as Sergeant York, Cagney as George M. Cohan. . . .

BOGART
. . . remembered

San Franciscans learned what Hollywood has known for decades: Warner's films speak better for him that he does.

Jack Benny once said: "Jack Warner would rather tell a bad joke than make a good movie." That is not entirely true. While he seems to take rare delight in telling bad jokes, there is nothing in the world he would rather do than make a good movie.

STARTED IN 1912

That has been true since he and his brothers started producing movies in St. Louis in 1912. The four boys were sons of Polish immigrants, and they started in the film business in New Castle, Pa., with a converted store they called the Bijou.

Down through the empire-building years, Jack always operated the studio while his older brothers took care of business matters in New York. Barry, Albert and Sam are dead, and Jack rules Warner Brothers as president and production chief.

A vigorous 74, he is often termed "the last tycoon." He bears little resemblance to the movie boss in the unfinished F. Scott Fitzgerald novel of that title, but the sobriquet fits.

"Jack is a very definite man," says Jack Lemmon. "You can get an answer from him on a policy matter in five minutes."

. . . admired

"He may change his mind later, but it will be his doing; no one changes his mind for him.

"When he commits himself to a project, that's it, brother. There are no delays, no tampering with the original concept; he lets the creators create. And if you can convince him that more money is needed to enhance a project, he'll plunge on it. He permitted The Great Race to double its cost, from $6,000,000 to almost $12,000,000. But he drew the line when we wanted to spend more, and it turned out he was right."

Rex Harrison also has praise for Warner: "I found him very approachable when matters of artistic policy arose. He listened and then gave his decision from his years of experience; obviously he knows his business.

"I travelled across the country for premieres of My Fair Lady with Warner and I found him to be a very engaging fellow. He was bouncy and cheerful early in the morning and kept going until late at night, always full of jokes."

Praise from actors comes as a rarity for Jack Warner, who has known a stormy history with the breed.

Another view was expressed recently by Olivia de Havilland as she recalled her years of warfare with Warner: "Jack mistrusted actors, and that made it difficult for me to deal with him. I suppose he had been victimized by actors in previous times, but that realization didn't make my relations with him any more pleasant.

"I couldn't convince him that all I wanted was more interesting parts. I didn't want more money. Perhaps if I had, he would have been able to understand."

HUNTER

BESTED BOSS

Miss de Havilland is one of the few stars who bested Warner. She made a legal challenge of the studio's policy of tacking suspension time onto the end of actors' contracts, and she won an important victory for her profession.

Warner commented in his autobiography, My First Hundred Years in Hollywood: "Many times over the years I have been depressed by what I thought was ingratitude on the part of certain actors and actresses who, turned into stars by our time and money and imagination, were knifing me in public."

In the book Warner struck back at what he considered were the perfidies of stars from John Barrymore to Bette Davis.

Warner told of how he had to reprimand Humphrey Bogart when the actor "had enough alcohol in him to dissolve all the paint on the set" and was careering about the studio on a bicycle while dressed in pyjamas. Warner saved his greatest scorn for Tab Hunter, who got down on his knees in a studio street to plead for release from his contract.

The studio boss granted the release after berating Hunter for failing to observe his contract.

Injunctions Scored

BRANTFORD (CP) — Use of government injunctions and compulsory injunctions in labor disputes were criticized Thursday night by Jack Williams of Ottawa, a Canadian Labor Congress director. He told the local board of trade injunctions limiting the number of pickets are interfering with freedoms of speech and causing growing resentment.

'Nation' to Arise Off California

SEATTLE (AP) — Ever heard of the sovereign nation of Taluga? No wonder — it doesn't exist. But keep an eye on the Cortes banks 90 miles off the southern coast of California.

A group of Seattle entrepreneurs disclosed this week they plan to create the resort island of Taluga atop the Cortez banks and proclaim it to be a new nation.

Jack W. England, attorney for the developers, said the 976-acre island will be built with rock and topsoil barged to the site from Mexico at a cost of more than $38,000,000.

England said $5,000,000 more will be spent for water, sewers, a power system, a government building and other structures, with the water supply coming from desalted sea water.

He said the names of the principals will not be announced until next year.

MODEL 25-C-22

In July, 1928, John Logie Baird, the Scottish inventor, made England the site of the first-ever color TV demonstration. This Fleetwood color set is a direct result of those first, tentative experiments.

Forget all you've heard about color TV being difficult to adjust and operate. Fleetwood has so perfected the engineering of their color controls that adjustment requirements are minimal.

And simple operation is only one of the many features to be found in a Fleetwood color TV. With Fleetwood you can always rely on superb styling and performance. Plus a sensible price tag. In fact the best color TV value on the market. Fleetwood has always made sets for people who want to get the most out of each dollar. They have established an enviable reputation for doing just that.

So if you're considering buying a color television, you won't go wrong if you choose a Fleetwood — with controls that are so simple, even a child can operate them.

Every Fleetwood unit carries a 12 months' Warranty on ALL parts, excepting Solid State (transistor) devices which are guaranteed for a full FIVE YEARS from date of purchase.

HEADS CHOIR AT 17

Young Leader Amazes Critics

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

There were many sceptics when 17-year-old Elizabeth Chinnick, a student at the University of Victoria, was appointed director of the men's and women's choir at Centennial United Church.

That scepticism is fast disappearing.

Short, fair-haired Miss Chinnick has a grasp of music and an ability to put her ideas across that is far beyond her years.

When she sits at the organ and demonstrates to the choir how an anthem should be sung, there is an unmistakable air of authority in her playing. And, while she jokes about errors in the performance (impersonally, of course) no one doubts her ability to put them right.

How does a girl of 17 acquire such confidence? Miss Chinnick doesn't appear conceited. She talks naturally, avoiding cliches and popular cynicisms, and makes no visible attempt to convince you she is clever.

She seems so imbued with church music, and its rightful expression, there is no room left for doubt or nervous introspection.

Much of this, undoubtedly, comes from five years training under an outstanding musician — Gerald Wheeler, organist and choirmaster at Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, and a teacher at the Montreal Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Wheeler taught her to play the organ and encouraged her to direct the choir of 34 boys and 24 men when he was away giving recitals.

LEADERSHIP

"He believed I had an ability for choir leadership," Miss Chinnick said, "and he taught me most of what I know about the interpretation of church choral music."

Born at Sudbury, Ont., the young choir director came to Victoria last July when her father, Robert F. Chinnick, was appointed superintendent of the Pacific Naval Laboratories at Esquimalt.

She answered an advertisement for an organist and choir director at Centennial United Church and was interviewed by the minister, Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons.

Dr. Parsons admits he was at first startled by the youthfulness of the applicant, but after watching her direct the choir, on a trial basis, decided she was the right person for the job.

"Miss Chinnick has unusual talents," he said. "She is a fine organist and a most competent choir leader."

"I think it is liking people," said Miss Chinnick, interviewed at her home at 2007 Rattenbury, close by Mount Tolmie.

"You have to like them so much you want to help them enjoy singing the way you do. You try to make them relaxed, so they will sing better, but you must also keep them alert so they will make the proper entrances and maintain a balanced performance."

Miss Chinnick sat at the grand piano in her parents' living room and demonstrated how church anthems should be sung.

"The words should be enunciated in such a way that they help the rhythm of the music," she said, and in a high clear soprano, sang the words of Bach's soulful Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring.

Miss Chinnick intends to make a career in church music, but first intends to acquire an arts degree. At the University of Victoria she is studying English, French, German and Latin.

In Centennial United Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m., she will lead the choir in a performance of two old English carols, The Cherry Tree and Remember, O Thou Man, and Elvey's anthem I Was Glad.

At the organ she will play Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G Minor and other church classics.

PLAN WOODEN PAVILION

Expo Trip For Students Gets Boost

TORONTO (CP) — A plan to camp 100,000 students at Expo in Montreal next summer, facing failure a week ago for lack of financial support, got a boost Thursday when sponsors said an Edmonton school is forwarding $20,000 to Elmvale Expeditions Ltd.

Edwin Genge, an Elmvale, Ont., school teacher who thought of the idea, said he had been told by telephone the $20,000 cheque was being forwarded by an Edmonton school vice-principal. He did not name the school or the principal.

The money represents a $10 per capita down payment on the $34 it will cost to house a student for a week in a 500-acre tent city 19 miles south of the Expo site.

The $34 includes food, which the students will cook, daily bus transport to and from Expo and Expo passports.

Mr. Genge, 46, thought of the idea last summer when working on plans to take some of his own students to Expo. In Toronto to publicise the plan, he said 100,000 students are needed to make the plan economically possible.

The company he formed with other teachers and his principal, Edgar Hay-Ellis, has $53,000 of the $500,000 needed.

Old-Fashioned Sentiment Still Wins at Box Office

By WILLIAM GLOVER

Which simply attests again that, around show business, you never can tell. For from this rickety start grew off - Broadway's most remarkable record-breaker and money-maker, The Fantasticks.

With more than 2,718 performances, it now has become the longest-running musical in New York theatrical annals, without sign of subsiding.

The previous longevity champ was My Fair Lady, which played in the big league, Broadway. But as a jackpot venture, the little show companies respectably, having so far rewarded backers with $13.50 for every dollar invested. The MFL payoff ratio was 16 to 1.

The success of The Fantasticks, which Jones wrote with a songwriting chum from the University of Texas, Harvey Schmidt, demonstrates the abiding box office appeal of old-fashioned sentiment in a jet-age world.

SHOW TRAVELS

An unabashedly warm and simply boy-girl fable, the show since that premiere May 3, 1960, has travelled, in multiple reproductions, to 400 American cities and been performed in 35 countries.

Sale of the original cast album tops the 150,000 mark, and 32 versions of the most notable of its 13 tunes, Try to Remember, have been recorded.

All of which means that more than $1,500,000 has been grossed from the original investment of $16,500. Getting the backing was an ordeal that almost ended in defeat for producer Lore (short for Lorenzo) Noto.

"Hundreds and hundreds of people," the stocky Noto notes, passed up bids to invest. Eventually he rounded up 57 backers, including his mother - in - law. Into the pot went also Noto's lifetime savings of $3,300. His share of the proceeds thus far is about $200,000.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOV. 25, 1966—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

There is more than a touch of irony in the fact that a school established for youth by youth should fall victim to youth. Still, a missionary must be prepared for brushes with cannibals, and 24-year-old volunteer Lynn Curtis of the Company of Young Canadians has made it plain that he will not withdraw from darkest Victoria.

Perhaps he should, and there are those who wish heartily that he would depart and trouble us no more. But on this point, as on almost every other relating to Mr. Curtis and his works, I am not prepared to attempt large pronouncements.

Certainly the establishment he set up in a 13-room rabbit warren on MacGregor Avenue won more notoriety than fame in its brief existence.

At the same time, I'm assured that Mr. Curtis has inspired several self-doubting youngsters toward careers in one field or another, coaxed at least one disturbed boy to seek psychiatric help, and persuaded others to try the consequence once more with parents from whom they had been estranged.

Believe some critics, and his now-defunct Social Education Centre was a haven for marijuana smokers. Accept Young Canadian Curtis's say-so, and narcotics in any form except tobacco were banned from the Centre.

In view of all this, and much as I dislike fence-sitting, neither wholesale praise nor over-hasty damnation seem to be in order.

★

When I called at the house off Oak Bay Avenue on Thursday morning, Lynn Curtis was sunk in a half-gutted armchair in a room which had once been gracious.

The weekend beat-up by raiders — against whom Mr. Curtis appeared to hold no animus — had been hard on it. Minor debris crunched underfoot. The air was shivering-cold.

Amid this desolation, Mr. Curtis answered questions about his plans, or rather hopes, and reviewed certain errors which he felt had hastened the school to its end.

He told me that he and his two assistants may try to launch a youth association for young people who are not attracted to existing groups. Also, he visualized a youth newspaper and possibly a magazine to be published in Victoria.

This for the future. While we talked, squads of former students were out raising funds by means that included a car wash in a Douglas Street shopping centre.

There are tentative plans for a dance — may it fare better than the last! — and a beer bottle drive.

Collections stood at $57.49, with more funds expected from today's University of Victoria sit-in. The immediate goal is $600, which Mr. Curtis expects will at least cover the damage done to the house.

The mistakes, as he sees them in retrospect: first, a house of 13 rooms which he and his helpers couldn't police; and second, the granting of almost total freedom to those not yet conditioned to it.

★

How Company headquarters feels about Mr. Curtis has not beer revealed, but its farflung emissary was blunt in his references to the outfit.

He feels that it is heavily over-bureaucratized — his word — with an administrative staff larger than the present total of just under 70 field workers of the 250 quota set for the end of this year.

He is not, however, disenchanted with the Ottawa-sponsored experiment, even though he states flatly that "trying to get some kind of democracy within the company has been quite hard."

To complete this grab-bag of mixed impressions, let me point out that Mr. Curtis and Victoria's Judge Harold Alder of family and juvenile court express the same thought in different words.

Says Judge Alder: "There is a tendency to make the individual become an automaton. We find a group who rebel against this."

Both feel that the boys and girls of this group must not be allowed to become outcasts. But whether Lynn Curtis is the man for the job remains to be demonstrated.

A DELIGHTFUL SPLASH from the Grey Cup dropped into Victoria today in the shape of Miss Calgary Stampeder on flying visit to her parents between Vancouver festivities. Miss Betty Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, 530 Prince Robert Drive, View Royal, was the vivacious cowgirl-garbed damsel giving the city a whiff of the big-time spree. The Wright's came to Victoria 1½ years ago from Edmonton but Bettty, employed by a Calgary oil company, chose to stay in the shadow of the Rockies. Her father is an insurance underwriter. New Burns Centre May Honor Toone

Labor's Centennial project in Greater Victoria may be named after the late Mayor A. W. Toone.

The mayor, who died suddenly last week, was secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council for nine years.

The labor council earlier this year adopted the proposed burns unit as its Centennial project, working in conjunction with local contractors.

Don Smith, chairman of a labor-management-hospital committee on the burns unit, said today there have been suggestions the unit be named after Mr. Toone.

"He was very, very interested in this unit and was on the original committee," he said.

"He was very active to get this unit on the road," said Mr. Anderson.

"There is no doubt he played a substantial part in its formation. I'd back it wholeheartedly."

START IN JANUARY

Campaigning for funds for the intensive-care unit is expected to start early in January.

The campaign was to have started at the end of the summer but was delayed because of the two-month strike-lockout involving carpenters and contractors.

Mr. Smith, who is vice-president and manager of Ocean Cement here, said the United Appeal and Christmas have put off fund-raising until the new year.

Although the labor council—representing 70 local unions with 12,000 members—has adopted the burns unit as its Centennial project, there will not be any federal or provincial centennial money available for it.

This is because the unit is already entitled to grants from the federal and provincial governments.

Some $40,000 must be raised locally before grants of $50,000 from the senior governments can be made available.

NOT AVAILABLE

The proposed five-bed burns unit would provide treatment not available here for severe burns. Elaborate ventilation and other equipment would keep it germ free.

QOR Shots Bounced Off Saanich Homes

By DON VIPOND

Heard any strange noises lately?

Thursday afternoon maybe?

They may not have fired the shots heard round the world, but when the Queen's Own Rifles unloaded their anti-tank guns Thursday afternoon people for miles around sat up and took notice.

BLAME CLOUDS

And those still puzzled by the series of muffled blasts about 1:30 p.m. which set windows to rattling and older houses creaking can blame it on the clouds.

It's this way:

The booms came from the Albert Head gunnery range where the First Batallion of the Queen's Own Rifles wound up an anti-tank gunnery course with a little practical experience on their 106-millimetre recoilless weapons.

The noise from the weapons bounced off a thick cloud bank hanging low over the south tip of the Island and came back to earth up to 20 miles away.

One woman phoned Saanich police to report her chandelier was swaying.

Another man reported the glass in his greenhouse was in jeopardy.

And another Saanich resident five miles from the city centre said the explosions sounded like a soft thud on the roof of his house, similar to the sound a cougar might make if it jumped from nearby trees.

A series of soft thumps sent him outside to see if it was raining cougars.

It wasn't.

MINISTER REFERS COMPLAINTS TO NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Commissionaires' Fight Reaches Top Level

By DESMOND BILL

Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet agreed in the House of Commons Thursday to draw the attention of the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires to complaints of "grave injustice" in its Victoria branch.

He made the promise in response to a statement by H. W. Herridge (NDP-Kootenay West) who said he has documentary evidence that commissionaires in Victoria suffer as a result of the "dictatorial attitude" of corps officers.

Mr. Teillet said he has no responsibility for the corps but would be willing to forward Mr. Herridge's complaints and the documents to national officers of the corps.

Meanwhile, in Victoria this morning, it was announced that the local Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association has stepped into the controversy within the Corps of Commissionaires.

ASKED TO MEETING

The association has invited representatives of the corps, including the local commandant, A. C. Wurtele, to attend a meeting Dec. 5 to discuss the situation.

Representatives of the Three Cees, an informal association of about 70 commissionaires, have also been asked to the meeting.

The commissionaires have been looking for someone to champion their cause against the local officers of the corps. National New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas named Mr. Herridge to look into their case.

APPEALS SENT

However, they are trying to enlist tri-partisan support for an investigation into the situation within the Victoria corps.

An appeal has been sent to Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker to join with Mr. Douglas to "eradicate the dictatorial attitude on the part of the corps" and to obtain for commissionaires the same "opportunity and working conditions" that are available to all other Canadians under provincial and federal labor laws.

Commissionaires charge that some corps members have been dismissed on trumped-up charges. The constitution of the corps makes no provision for appeal against dismissal, except to the corps commandant, whose decision is final.

The dissident commissionaires presented a brief documenting their charges, to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, who is honorary corps president, and asked for an independent investigation.

Mr. Pearkes passed the brief to corps commandant Wurtele who said there is no need for such an investigation. He dismissed the brief as the work of "a rabble."

He also said he does not think "it would be right" to hold a secret ballot to determine if commissionaires want to have their own employees' association.

Organizers of the association allege that commissionaires have been intimidated to keep them out of the association.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association has called the Dec. 5 meeting to try and clarify the issues in dispute. Mount Benson (Nanaimo) branch of the Canadian Legion has also decided to form a committee to examine the dispute.

The veterans' association and the Legion branch have entered the dispute because the commissionaires involved are all ex-servicemen.

Former Reeve In N.B. To Run Here

W. G. Smith's entry into the race for five council seats bring to 11 the number of candidates seeking aldermanic seats.

Four of the seats are for two-year terms and one, vacated by Ald. Hugh Stephen in his bid for the mayoralty, is for a one-year term.

PROTESTED MUSIC

Mr. Smith first came into the spotlight some months ago when he picketed the 700 Block Yates Street in an attempt to ban piped music on the the streets.

In making his announcement to run for council he said he could offer the city 40 years of business experience.

Other aldermanic candidates are Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott and Ald. Percy Frampton. Both are seeking re-election.

Burglar Caught In Underwear Jailed One Year

A youth who city police caught in his underwear after he broke into a laundry was jailed for a year today.

Robert Walker, 19, of 408 Hillside, had earlier pleaded guilty to twice breaking into Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John Street, this month because he was short of clothes.

When he appeared in central court for sentence today he was also convicted of breaking the terms of his probation. He had been given a suspended sentence after being convicted of driving without a licence.

"It's quite apparent you are ruining your life. You are on the verge of being an alcoholic," the magistrate told Walker.

He sentenced him to concurrent 12-month terms definite and six months indefinite at the Young Offenders Unit on the two break-in charges and a concurrent one-month term for breaking the terms of his probation.

Murder Charge Laid After Fight in Home

Victorian Slain At Campbell River

By TERRY IZZARD

A second party guest was to appear in court this afternoon charged with non-capital murder.

They were drinking, police said. About 8:30 an argument developed.

The victim had been in Campbell River only two months working as bodyman at McQuarrie Bros. Motors Ltd.

Married, with three children, he was living temporarily in a trailer outside the Campbell River home of his boss, Jack Dempsey.

Broomfield lives only a short distance away in a trailer with his wife and small son, Freddy. Their trailer is next door to the garage where Mr. Sexsmith worked.

Broomfield is a truck driver and had been living there about nine months.

Cause of Sexsmith's death will not be known until a post mortem is held.

NO WEAPONS

Police said there were apparently no weapons used.

Heading the investigation is Insp. George Mackay, of Victoria.

The charge against Broomfield was to be read in Campbell River magistrates court at 2 this afternoon.

SHIPYARDS

Hearing Set On Joint Certification

The Labor Relations Board will hold a special hearing Tuesday, Dec. 6, into applications for joint certification of unions at the big three West Coast shipyards.

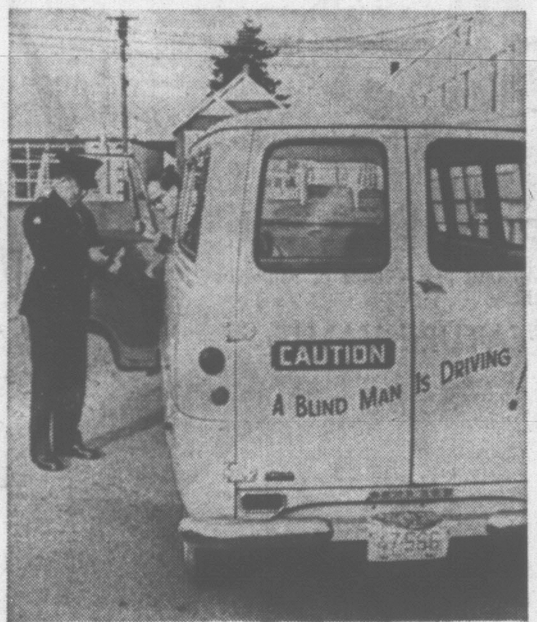
Decision to hold the hearing was made by the board this week and announced today by a spokesman for the Joint Shipyard Conference.

The conference, representing the majority of unions in the yards, has applied to the board for joint certification at Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows and Burrard Drydock.

The aim is to replace the existing 36 certifications at the three yards with a single one at each yard.

EXCLUSIVE

If the applications are successful, the applicant unions through the Joint Shipyard Conference will have exclusive authority to bargain for workers at each shipyard.



CAUTION

Blind Man at the Wheel Real Eye-Opener To Curious Motorists

He's been doing it for 15 years and getting away with it. In that time he's had a clean driving record.

But during that time he's been questioned by hundreds of curious people who want to know, more or less seriously how it's done. Is he equipped with radar, or what?

Actually, of course, the whole business is a simple play on words based on the fact the 34-year-old Mr. Woods is in the Venetian blind business so it's a "Venetian" blind man at the wheel.

The gimmick has caused thousands of double-takes on the part of other drivers through the years and dozens have ended up looking sheepish after going to the trouble of finding out the answer to the riddle.

Incidentally, Mr. Woods, present owner of and long-time driver for the Venetian blind firm, attributes his clean driving record at least in part to the fact other drivers are inclined to give him a little extra leeway—just in case the sign on the back of his truck really means what it seems to be saying.

●

There have been reports the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was not too happy about Mr. Woods' sign, but he says he has never had any official complaints.

Twice during the past 15 years he has been scolded by super-sensitive citizens who felt the warning on the back of the truck was in poor taste.

"But nearly everybody takes it in the spirit in which it was meant," Mr. Woods says. "One man, who seemed to think I really couldn't see very well, told me I was probably better than the majority of drivers in town."

Woman Hurt After Using Wrong Pedal

A woman who accidentally pushed the accelerator of her car instead of the brake Thursday night is in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Edith Thompson, 2043 Frederick Norris, suffered a skull fracture and scalp cut in the mishap on a parking lot off Foul Bay Road near Lansdowne.

Police said her car ran 160 feet into some bushes when it went out of control and jumped the sidewalk.

A car was demolished, a building received $1,000 damage, but the driver was uninjured in another single-car crash on the Old Island Highway early today.

JUMPED CURB

Colwood RCMP said a car driven by Malcolm Mackinnon, 42, of 723 Yates, flew 50 feet through the air after it jumped an 18-inch curb and then rammed the corner of the Four-Mile House, damaging the living room.

Mr. Mackinnon pleaded not guilty when he appeared in central court this morning, charged with impaired driving. His trial will be held next week.

Saanich police were still investigating a traffic accident at Royal Oak and the Pat Bay Highway late this morning.

No details were available but it was reported at least one person was taken to hospital with injuries.

Chest Drive Puffs Along Home Stretch

The campaign has now brought in 96 per cent of its $452,000 objective, up .2 per cent from Thursday.

At this rate the campaign will still be going strong come Christmas.

But Appeal officials are confident this year's urgent goal will be reached as last-minute returns push the campaign over the top.

The 21-member agencies of the Chest are already operating on starvation budgets leaving no surplus to cushion the shock of a failure such as last year's.

CRITICAL PERIOD

Navy Shelters Big Oil Rig From Rollers

Shell Oil's off-shore drilling rig will take on near-finished form in naval company during the next 60 days — weather permitting.

Two tugs towed the $9 million drilling platform base from the builder's yard at Ogden Point to E jetty at the navy yard in Esquimalt Harbor Thursday afternoon to take it out of the path of southwesterly storms.

CRITICAL PERIOD

Victoria Machinery Depot general manager Capt. J. V. Steele said the next 60 days will be a critical period for adding remaining components to the rig.

TOO EXPOSED

At VMD's Ogden Point yard the vessel was too exposed to weather and water disturbances to permit proper connection of the rig's many massive parts. Some must be barge-mounted, or swung from barge-mounted cranes into position for welding.

Also to be added during the rig's stay at Esquimalt will be its deck steel, bringing the overall height from the waterline to 145 feet.

GOOD WEATHER

Meanwhile, VMD has been scanning long-range weather forecasts anxiously, and has been assured of reasonably good weather for the next 60 days.

"The department of transport weather office could not have been more co-operative," Capt. Steele said.

At Esquimalt the rig is moored where it is almost completely surrounded by land and is not subject to so much wash from passing vessels.

BIG CRANES

Huge dockside cranes are available for placing components.

When deck steel is in place the rig will be rigid and no longer subject to wind and water fluctuations. Tugs will then return it to VMD at Ogden Point for installation of cabins, machinery and general outfitting.

Ask The Times

Q. I have just seen the film "Dr. Zhivago" here. Is the author alive? Was the book on which the film was based ever published in Russia?

A. Author of "Dr. Zhivago," Boris Pasternak died in Russia in 1960, aged 70 years. Whether or not the novel has been published in Russia since his death, it was certainly not published there before. The first edition was an Italian one, in 1958. "Dr. Zhivago" was published in English in 1959.

The novel was awarded the 1958 Nobel prize for literature. Pasternak did not accept the prize.

Q. Who supervises entertaining for U.S. president and Mrs. Johnson? C.L.T.

A. White House social secretary Bess Abell.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

ORDER OF THE ROYAL PURPLE EVENT

Proceeds Will Help Handicapped

Allocation of funds realized from the recent annual bazaar of the Order of the Purple No. 5 was made when the group met at a post-event meeting. Mrs. C. Coburn said that the sum of $310 had been raised.

It was decided to buy a band saw for the Arbutus Craft Rehabilitation Centre for handicapped persons. The remainder of the proceeds will be used for the group's Christmas Cheer Fund and Scholarship Fund.

Members agreed to hold the next meeting on Wednesday, December 14 in the Elks Hall. This will be the annual Christmas party. A potluck supper will be served and an exchange of gifts will take place. The affair is open to visiting members of the Order.

SEW SIMPLE

Dear Eunice Farmer:

With the pant-suit taking on such importance in the fashion world, it is imperative that we make slacks that really have a well-tailored and professional look to them (the old baggy ones look horrible). Personally, I feel I am really a little too old for this style, but since I am making a new suit, I would like to add the slacks as well as a skirt to my ensemble (would sure be comfortable for those cold football days). I am at my wits' end trying to make slacks. They never look like the ones you buy. What is the big secret to well-fitted slacks?

Mrs. W. H.

Dear Mrs. W. H.:

I guess the one big secret to well-fitted slacks is the length of the crotch seam. Most of your ready-made slacks have a very short crotch, like men's trousers, most women's slacks seem to look baggy on them.

If you have trouble with the standard-type patterns, you will find the newest pattern on the market for slacks to be the answer you have waited for. No, it isn't something you whip out in a moment's time. But if you carefully study this pattern, I will guarantee you will have perfect results.

It is not made by the more popular pattern companies. It makes 11 different styles and one pattern fits everyone from a 32-inch hip to 44. It is more expensive than the ordinary patterns, but believe me when I say that it is well worth the extra time and money when you see the results. If you cannot find this pants pattern in your area, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of this paper, and I will see that you get the information you need.

HOLD GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT

Mrs. H. L. Brens was tabletopicmistress when the Arbutus Toastmistress Club held its annual Gentlemen's Night. The members assisted president Mrs. W. A. Ludlow in greeting the guests. They were Mrs. J. A. Beedham, Mrs. H. Carmichael, Mrs. Lewis Ress, H. A. Irvine, Miss Tanga Irvine, R. Butt, Miss Penny Butt, Mr. and Mrs. L. Halstrom, Mrs. A. L. Blake, Miss P. Dutchak, Mr. and Mrs. L. De Cicco, Capt. H. Amodeo, A. M. Reid, W. A. Ludlow and G. Love.

"Gold is Where You Find It" was the theme used by toastmistress Mrs. S. M. McCulloch.

General evaluator was Mrs. G. L. Cook. She awarded the Spur to Mrs. J. Small. The Oscar went to Mrs. R. S. Butt.

DINNER AND BALL

Holyrood House will be rocking on its foundations with the sounds of Scottish music and merriment, Saturday evening, when St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society holds its annual dinner and ball to celebrate St. Andrew's Night. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. and dancing will follow at 9 p.m. Dress is formal. Among those attending will be president Mr. Bruce Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, first vice-president Mr. Joseph Sutherland and Mrs. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. R. Baird, Miss Carol Baird, Alderman Lily Wilson, honorary chaplain Dr. J. L. W. McLean and Mrs. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. J. McAulay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. L. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Inglis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. T. Outteridge, Mr. C. Moore, Miss Minnie Collie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. J. Greenwood, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. E. Collins, Mrs. J. Primrose, Mr. and Mrs. R. Marconi, Mr. G. Stephen, Mrs. J. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Flett, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stark, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arroll and Mr. and Mrs. J. Pinch.

To Make Social Debut

Still another name has been added to the list of young women who will be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes at the annual Debutante Ball, to be held in the Empress Hotel on Wednesday, December 7, under the sponsorship of the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island. The latest name to be released is that of Miss Diana Evelyn Crabtree, 19-year-old daughter of Major Kenneth S. Crabtree and Mrs. Crabtree, 2083 Windsor Road. A former student at Oak Bay Senior Secondary School, Miss Crabtree is now a dental assistant. She will be sponsored by her father and escorted by Mr. Paul Stenner.

Tea for Speaker

Members of the Women's Canadian Club executive entertained Mrs. Foster Isherwood at tea Wednesday afternoon following her address in the Empress Hotel. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. W. G. Flett and Mrs. R. C. McKee. Attending were president Mrs. H. H. Youson, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Mrs. A. B. Young, Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. R. R. Jeffels, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, Mrs. T. C. Evans and Mrs. F. M. Corbett.

Yellow and White

The umbrella containing gifts was decorated in yellow and white when Miss Betty Greenwood entertained in honor of bride-elect, Miss Frances Dodsworth. The honor guest was presented with white chrysanthemums en corsage. Carnation corsages in pink and blue respectively were received by her mother, Mrs. W. C. Dodsworth and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. A. Cownden. Others attending were Mrs. A. Dodsworth, Mrs. L. Greenwood, Mrs. A. Shiner, Mrs. B. Hyde, Mrs. W. Phyll, Mrs. A. Gray, the Misses Jacqueline Fairclough, Darlene Grant, Phyllis Tate and Connie Cownden.

From Manitoba

Several guests travelled from Manitoba to attend the recent wedding of Miss Linda McBride and Mr. Jan White. From Oak River was the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. McCaulay, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Westbrook. Travelling from Gladstone was Mrs. C. M. McBride, the bride's paternal grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. R. McBride and Mr. Jack McBride. Other out-of-town guests were Miss Dora White of Port Alberni; Mrs. R. Phillips of Terrace, B.C., and Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson of Richmond.

CLUB CALENDAR

Whist drive, Evening Branch Woman's Auxiliary to St. Alban's Church, Wednesday at 8 p.m., parish hall, 1468 Ryan St. Door prize.

Determined to be one of the first supporters, Mr. William Hollick, a recently-made life member of the Victoria Multiple Sclerosis Golden Key, has his cheque made out and waiting as his contribution to the group's annual bazaar and tea, to be held in St. Mary's Church Hall, 1701 Elgin Avenue, next Wednesday, at 2 p.m. Seen with him are Miss Barbara Hindson (centre) and Mrs. Dolly Hicks, president. Afternoon tea will be served from opening time until 4 p.m. and stalls will offer aprons, dressed dolls and dolls' clothes, home baking, superfluities, knitted items, gifts, candy, jams and jellies. An extra highlight will be a Lady with a 1,000 Pockets.

Heirloom Ring Is Chosen As 'Something Old' Piece

Her great-grandmother's diamond shaped ring of seed pearls fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Linda Marie McBride, recently, when she became the bride of Jan William Charles White. The ring was the only jewelry accent to her floor-length gown of white satin. Highlighting the gown were daisy appliques on the sides, and an open front panel. A tapered train extended back, creating back interest. A headpiece of daisies held her three-tier scalloped veil. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, ivy and white stephanotis.

The chapel of First United Church was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums in rust and white tones for the ceremony at which Rev. Marvin Fowler officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McBride, 1250 Acton Street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. G. White, 1066 Oliver Street. Mr. McBride gave his daughter in marriage and Mrs. D. Bunt was organist.

The bride's attendants were dressed alike in gowns of peau de soie in emerald green shade. The princess-line sheath dresses were trimmed with light green daisy appliques. Wedding ring headpieces held their chapel-length veils and they carried bouquets of chrysanthemums. Only jewelry was the bride's gifts of culture pearl pendants.

Her attendants were matron of honor Mrs. John Ennals, bridesmatron Mrs. H. Matthews, junior bridesmaid Miss Valerie McBride, and flower girl, little Susan Irwin.

Dr. John Ennals was best man and ushering guests were Scott McBride and Mick Vavra. Master Tracy Ingraham was ring bearer.

At the reception following in the Ingraham Hotel, a three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's grandmother Mrs. J. McCaulay, centred the head table. The cake was flanked with yellow chrysanthemums and the same flowers in yellow and rust tones completed table decorations. Eric Barber proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. White chose a three-piece wool suit in plum tone, featuring a plum and black check jacket. Jewelry was a crystal necklace and earrings. She wore a white feathered hat, and completed her outfit with black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

At Diocesan Board Meeting of Anglican Women

MISSIONARY SPEAKS ON ARCTIC

Pangnirtung, one of the less developed of the Arctic areas, was discussed by Miss Biddy Worsley when she addressed the recent board meeting of the Diocesan Board of the Anglican Church Women's Auxiliary, held in St. Dunstan's Church.

Miss Worsley, a missionary nurse in this area, noted that the Eskimo language is the main one spoken in the Pangnirtung region and missionaries must learn the language to communicate with the people. Even then, she said, they have difficulties with the nuances of the language.

Miss Worsley told the meeting that there were four Eskimo priests and that one of the nurses, Miss Jean Turner, had been brought up in the Arctic, the daughter of a missionary.

Treasurer Miss Dora Brown reported that receipts for the month had totalled $1,920.79. Expenditures of $1,500 included an instalment toward the board's yearly pledge for the work of the church in the world, and a gift of $200 towards the new parish at Gold River.

The sum of $200 sent to Rev. D. McKay, Gold River, will be used to provide partitions for Sunday school rooms in the rectory basement, reported extra cents secretary Mrs. C. T. Skinner.

Mrs. N. W. Life, educational secretary, announced that a Camp Columbia committee meeting would be held this evening at 9 p.m. in the Christ Church Cathedral Memorial hall lounge. She also reminded members that accounts should be paid and reports turned in by Dec. 15.

The new constitution had been presented by a panel at the Cowichan Deanery meeting, reported chairman Mrs. R. T. M. Dobell, Duncan. Panel members were diocesan president Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, Mrs. Life and Living Message secretary Mrs. H. N. Fatt. Miss Dorothea Lucas, Lantzville, Comox Deanery chairman, reported that a similar meeting had been held in her area with herself and first vice-president Mrs. H. MacDonald taking part on the panel. She noted that the Girls' Auxiliary of Alert Bay had been re-formed.

Bags to fill with Christmas cheer for guests in the Carolyn Macklem Home were distributed to the branches by social services secretary Mrs. H. N. Street. She reminded members of the concert for the Children's International Village being held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Dorcas secretary Mrs. J. A. Andrews displayed a rug made by Mrs. Martin Woods from discarded woollen garments and announced that this year's school quilt quota would be filled. A gift of toys and money had been received from the Texada Island Guild and men's clothing was being collected for Mr. Stern to distribute to the needy. Seven cartons had been sent to Burns Lake and two to Smithers.

The campaign to encourage pedestrians to wear arm bands at night was discussed by Victoria Council of Women delegate Mrs. M. I. MacFadden.

Reports were also given by Mrs. E. Gurr, Junior secretary; Miss Nona Butts, girls' secretary; Mrs. Fatt, Living Message, Mrs. T. Hughes, prayer partners and Mrs. G. H. Greenhalgh, united thank offering.

The meeting began with the service of Holy Communion, conducted by Archdeacon A. E. Hendy. Mrs. E. B. Aubel welcomed the 124 members who attended. It was announced that Living Message editor Mrs. H. E. Taylor, Moose Jaw, would be guest speaker at the January meeting.

Candy North Poles Star At Recent Church Bazaar

The North Pole came to Victoria recently. Geographically impossible, you say? Drifts of ice-green popcorn centred with a red and white peppermint stick made this North Pole a palate-teaser rather than an illusion.

Popcorn ice caps and dainty wreaths of the same green tinted popcorn appealed to all Christmas-minded 'Hansels' and 'Gretels' at the candy stall of St. Mary's Women's Parish Guild's Christmas bazaar, held in the upper church hall on Elgin Road.

Santa's helpers may have inspired the troops of candy men that also starred this table. These sugared delights were made of "all-day" suckers and bright red and green jelly candies.

Mom found many a delightful tea-time dessert at this table. Buckets of fudge squares, and creamy pink and green squares of candy overflowed this stall.

This table, the "sweetest" by far of all the stalls, was convened by Mrs. C. W. Duck and Miss N. MacDonald.

"Kissing rings" were the attraction at the gift stall, convened by Mrs. J. N. Fraser. These ingenious items were made of rings of red, green and gold ribbons with sprigs of mistletoe nestled underneath.

Guests took time out to enjoy tea and a selection of dainty sandwiches and cookies in the "tea area", set apart from the bustle of shoppers by a row of poinsettias and cedar boughs. Mrs. R. A. Gonnason was convener.

Rev. E. W. S. Gilbert, rector of St. Peter's Church, Lake Hill, opened the affair at 2 p.m. He was introduced by Mrs. Keith Dixon, president of the Women's Guild.

Mrs. T. W. Kensington was convener of the bazaar, which realized the sum of $1,200. In charge of receips was treasurer of the guild, Mrs. A. H. Bamford.

Conveners of the decoration committee were Mrs. K. Dixon, Mrs. A. H. Bamford, Mrs. S. Petley-Jones and Mrs. J. Skellern.

In charge of other stalls were: Books, Mrs. C. J. Bunbury; woolens, Mrs. H. B. Forster and Mrs. J. H. Harman; superfluities. Mrs. H. S. Hughes and Mrs. J. G. Cromack; plants, Mrs. W. A. Woodward, and aprons, Mrs. G. Gould and Mrs. H. Johnston.

An added attraction was a guessing contest, featuring a Christmas cake as first prize. Mrs. C. T. Teasdale made and donated the cake.

Clubwomen's News

Elected — Dr. G. H. Holmes was named president of the Old Age Pensioners Organization No. 32 at the recent annual meeting held at Ganges, Saltspring Island. Other officers include Mrs. A. W. Barber and Mrs. Nels Westin, vice-presidents; Mrs. Elsie Thacker, secretary-treasurer, who is serving on the executive for her ninth year; Mrs. B. L. Krebs, tea convener; Mrs. Krebs and Mrs. C. Addy, hospital committee. Retiring after six years as president, Fred Goddard will be presented with life membership at the group's annual dinner in January. It was announced that a donation of $25 was sent to the Lady Minto Hospital, and plans were discussed for a Christmas party to be held on Dec. 15 in St. George's Hall, Ganges.

Annual Meeting — Mrs. N. B. Fatt was elected president of the Afternoon Branch Woman's Auxiliary to St. John's Anglican Church when the group held its annual meeting. Other new officers are Mrs. A. Sutton, first vice-president; Mrs. C. Baines, second; Mrs. A. B. James, recording secretary; Mrs. A. E. Relf, corresponding; Mrs. A. Sunderland, treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Mainwaring, educational secretary; Mrs. M. C. McDougall, extra cents; Mrs. W. Riach, United Thank-Offering; Mrs. T. C. Griffiths, Dorcas; Miss Margaret MacFarlane, Living Message; Mrs. T. W. Scott, social service; Mrs. W. Barker, prayer partner, and Mrs. F. Holman, family life and pre-school.

Canon Grahame Baker opened the meeting and reports were read. It was announced that the final meeting of the year would be a Christmas buffet luncheon on Dec, 13. It will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the lower hall.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Blame Husband For Misconduct

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a mother-in-law who agrees with your husband (her son) that he should run around with other women when he goes on vacations alone.

We have been married for 16 years and until two years ago I knew nothing of his escapades. I always trusted him when he was away from me. My mother-in-law says, "He works hard and deserves to have a good time. Besides, what difference does it make to you that he sleeps with other women — you have enough to eat and are warm." Formerly I loved my husband very much. Now, I'm not so sure. Her — I loathe. What is your advice?

THE JACKASS

DEAR JACKASS (Sorry about that, Madame, but that's the way you signed yourself.) How did your mother-in-law get into the act? Your husband is the villain, yet he gets by with a tap on the wrist, while your unleash a storm of comtempt on mother-in-law for merely condoning this misconduct. Why?

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the girl whose boy friend wouldn't kiss her because he was afraid of spreading germs reminded me of a poem I learned years ago:

To kiss a miss is not unlawful,
But to miss a kiss is simply awful.
Kissing spreads germs, it is so stated,
So kiss me, baby, I'm vaccinated.

Sincerely yours,
POET LAURIE YET

DEAR ABBY: My husband's cousin was recently married. We were unable to attend the wedding, so when they returned from their honeymoon I telephoned her and asked if we could call on them and give them their wedding gift in person.

She was very cool and simply said, "That won't be necessary." Since I had the gift anyway and wanted her to have it, I delivered the gift myself. I wasn't invited in but was left standing at the door. The following day our gift was left on our doorstep with a note explaining that she had no use for it as she had received two of the same. She asked specifically that we not replace it with another gift.

I am absolutely bewildered. Do you think she was offended because we didn't attend her wedding! Or could she be miffed because the gift came late? If you were I, would you send her the cash and ask her to buy what she needs?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: If I were you, I wouldn't waste my energy trying to figure out WHY she was offended, miffed, or whatever. Her behavior was inexcusable. I'd send her nothing.

DEAR ABBY: My wife just took a job as a "topless" waitress. She says she doesn't see anything wrong with it. Is there a restaurant or some nightclub that features "bottomless" waiters? I would like to get even with her.

Gingerbread Giants Found in This Shop

By Penny Saver

Pictures of sugar plums and gingerbread men are already dancing in the heads of youngsters in our household. Fairy tales and story books as well as Christmas poems for youngsters are filled with tales about these characters. I remember when I was small, I wanted the biggest gingerbread man in the world. I had no idea what gingerbread was, but every baking day, I cut these men out of pie dough using a large cookie press. They looked like they were indeed gingerbread men to me.

I fulfilled my childhood dream to have the biggest one in existence, at least the biggest one that I have ever seen. These come in two shapes, of a boy or a girl. Each one is over 10 inches long and about four inches wide. They're imported from Holland and sell for 39 cents each. Your child's eyes will be wide with wonder when he sees one of these giants. Tie a red ribbon around one of these and put it in his stocking.

Another specialty in this shop is a line of chocolates imported from Germany. Deck your holiday candy dishes with little chocolate bottles wrapped in silver and red foil paper. Each contains just a hint of liqueur. They are perfect go-alongs at seasonal parties or as gift ideas. A box of seven sells for 49 cents, and a larger box for 98 cents.

If you are thinking of giving a pet to an animal lover for a gift, or just thinking of someone's pet at Christmas, the perfect item is a stocking filled with goodies for the animal. For puppies, there's one containing sugarless dog candy, a bone made of beef hide that he would prefer, I'm sure, to your soft slippers, and other toys.

Treats for your cat are catnip toys and a box of catnip. Another stocking is strictly "for the birds". This contains millet and other seeds, and cage accessories including a ladder, a mirror and bells.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. I am susceptible to having pimples. What kind of makeup should I use?

A. Avoid oily products, especially bases. There are excellent medicated cosmetics. These hide the pimples and treat them at the same time.

Lowman

Q. Is it all right to apply a deodorant immediately after shaving under the arms?

A. If you have a sensitive skin, this may be irritating. It is better to shave when you will not have to use a deodorant right away. However, if it doesn't bother you to shave and then apply the deodorant then there is no harm in it.

Q. How many kinds of waterless shampoos are there.

A. These come in powder, liquid or aerosol form.

Q. What causes the brown spots on the hands that are called liver spots.

A. These are simply an accumulation of pigment. I don't think anyone knows just what causes them. However, they have no correlation with the liver. Exposure to sunlight promotes them. Many women have a few of these as they grow older.

Q. How can I make myself begin to reduce? Every day I think I will begin the next day.

A. There are several "crutches" you can use for a beginning. 1. Set your goal to get ready for some special occasion. Perhaps you are eager to look as pretty as possible for the Christmas parties. You will have to begin now to lose a few pounds. Maybe you want to surprise your children when they return from college for their Christmas vacation.

2. Do not think in terms of all the weight you should lose, if you have a lot to lose. Just set your goal for five pounds, then the next five pounds, etc. 3. Go shopping and buy a dress that you like very much, but one which is a little too small. You won't do it justice until you lose 10 pounds. 4. Pin a snapshot of yourself up on your bedroom door, one which was taken before you gained the extra pounds.

Q. I really want to have my mousy hair colored, but I am timid about it. Am I being silly

A. Yes. Today nobody thinks much more about that than using lipstick. It is just another cosmetic aid. First try one of the temporary rinses. Then try one of the semi-permanent rinses which last through several shampoos.

Mr. and Mrs. George Farkas, 1270 Balmoral Road, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Magdolna Maria, to Mr. Donald Wilbert Rempel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rempel, of Chemainus. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 3, at 4 p.m., in First United Church. Rev. R. J. Morris will officiate. (Photos by Frank C. Schien.)

Christmas Fair

All holiday shoppers should keep Saturday, Dec. 3, in mind when looking for Christmas bargains.

That's when the Ladies' Evening Guild of St. Matthias' Church is holding a Christmas tea and sale in the church hall, Richmond Avenue and Richardson Street.

Mrs. Angus Cameron will open the affair at 2 p.m. Stalls will include home baking, white elephants, sewing, novelties, candy, jewelry and children's corner.

ART DISPLAY AT BAZAAR

A look at life from the turn of the century to the present day was given in the various works of art displayed at the recent bazaar and tea of Shady Creek United Church Women.

The exhibit, a highlight of the bazaar, featured not only displays of paintings by Miss Annora Brown, but also paintings, handicrafts and hobbies by many other local artists.

Cedar boughs and holly gave the church's Fellowship Hall a gaily festive note for the bazaar, opened by Rev. J. M. Wood, which realized more than $400.

One of the hardest-working groups was the Canadian Girls in Training. Members not only managed stalls of jewelry, novelties and candies with the choir girls, but also acted as serviteurs in the tea room. Guests' tables were centred with attractive arrangements of pine cones, holly and chrysanthemums to match the bouquets of bronze and yellow flowers which decorated the room.

Mrs. W. J. Hilton, Mrs. H. McDiarmid, Mrs. E. H. Maddocks and Mrs. L. C. Johnston presided at the refreshment table and Mrs. K. Sedgman was hostess. Greeting guests was Mrs. Wood. Mrs. V. Beaumont handled tea tickets.

Two CGIT members, the Misses Irene Allen and Betty Sandwith dressed up as a lavender lady and her escort and moved among the crowd selling lavender sachets they had made.

The Tyros boys' club pitched in to help, too, by making Christmas wreaths and various handicrafts and novelties to be sold. The UCW managed stalls of home baking, sewing, jams and jellies, greeting cards, candy, home-made chocolates and plants.

AT THE MOVIES

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

FANTASTIC VOYAGE
Science Fiction
Capitol Theatre

The year is 1995 and the science of micronics has discovered how to shrink people to the size of microbes so they can go for cruises through the arteries of the human body.

This, of course, is invaluable when delicate brain surgery is required, since the teeny-weeny surgeons can travel into the patient's head and go to work with their teeny-weeny instruments.

* * *

Otherwise, alas, life in 1995 seems little improved on 1965. The famous Iron Curtain still divides suffering humanity and the old familiar plots and counter-plots are carried on by sinister enemy agents.

When the film opens, it is only possible to keep a human being at microbe size for 60 minutes. Then a Czech scientist moves in with a formula for prolonging miniaturization.

Since no conventional operation is possible, the U.S. high command authorizes a miniaturized submarine, with a crew of shrunken surgeons, to navigate the bloodstream to the stricken area.

Imagination runs riot as the minuscule submarine survives a 3G dive into the carotid artery and glides down a clear stream filled with pink and white corpuscles resembling huge globules of rice.

* * *

Then the sub is swept into a violent whirlpool set up by a fistula connecting the carotid artery with the jugular vein. When the tiny voyagers come out of this whirlpool, they realize with horror that they are drifting, not towards the brain, but towards the heart where they will surely be smashed to pieces — infinitely tiny pieces.

Somehow they escape, but their journey through the human body continues to be fraught with thrills and suspense. It also gives non-medical viewers something of an insight into the interior mechanism of the body.

I must confess that parts of it, as demonstrated in this film, remind me of the undersea garden at Oak Bay Marina. But this may be an illusion based on ignorance.

Rivard Companion In Hide-Away Jailed, Fined

MONTREAL (CP) — Sebastian Boucher, 42, found in Lucien Rivard's hideout along with Rivard in the summer of 1965, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of complicity after the fact of Rivard's escape from Bordeau jail.

Boucher was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $1,000 and will have to serve an additional six months if the fine is not paid within two months.

Rivard, who escaped from Bordeaux March 2, 1965, while being held pending extradition to the United States, has been sentenced to 20 years in a U.S. jail on charges of smuggling narcotics into the U.S. from Mexico.

He, Boucher, and Armand Cadieux, 49, were arrested by police near Montreal July 17, 1965.

COAST-TO-COAST CENTENNIAL DANCE

They Will Skip-to-My-Lou Across Canada

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—A centennial square dance train will go skip-to-my-lou-ing across the country next summer.

All the callers and spoon-clickers around are being invited to join hordes of square and round dancers who will allemande east and west.

Details of the idea, hatched by an Ottawa club and supported by the federal centennial commission, were announced Thursday night in a press release.

Project Chairman Arthur S. Jackson said square dance clubs across the country are showing interest.

Saskatoon, for instance, says: "Certainly June 28 is a day that everyone will have circled on their calendar around here."

The Trans-Canada Centennial Square Dance Train will pull out of Halifax June 24 and gradually pick up enthusiasts as it moves west.

Reservations are coming in at a reeling clip, Mr. Jackson said. The round trip from Halifax to Vancouver can be made for $380 for a couple.

Square dance clubs are being asked to put up travellers along the way. Object of the trip is to enable dancers to get to know one another.

Shows will be put on at Montreal, Ottawa, Hornepayne and Sioux Lookout, Ont., Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Jasper, Alta., and possibly Vancouver.

There'll be overnight stops at Ottawa, Saskatoon, Victoria, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal in that order.

STARTED BARN DANCES

Square dancers don't drink on the job, it says. A brief history traces square dancing to the English and barn dancing to the French.

It says the French settlers brought dances that developed into what now are known as barn dances.

"These were wild affairs."

Where barn dance calls "may or may not be intelligible," the caller in modern square dancing "creates his own choreography in his head."

English is virtually the only language used generally in calling, it says.

The announcement doesn't say how this will affect all those unintelligible Quebec barn dancers.

"Instead of high kicking, yipeeing, wild swinging and sweat, one sees beautiful dresses and multicolored crinolines, gay shirts and ties on the men, and smooth, rhythmic dancing.

"Instead of the 'old time fiddler,' we have modern music and old-time music played in the modern manner."

PLEASE NOTE:
Information has just been received that the body of Mr. Robert Moran, who was to have presented a film lecture series on the Dominican Republic, has been found in a shallow grave in the jungles of Guatemala.
Mr. Moran was shot and stabbed by guerrillas while filming on location in Guatemala and has been dead approximately two months. The funeral of Mr. Moran will be held on Friday, November 25th, in Reno, Nevada, and the presentation of this series will be a fitting tribute to his memory. His partner, Mr. Jack Currey, an equally competent explorer, photographer and speaker, will show this motion picture.

It's a Kick and All About Football Pools

By AUDREY JOHNSON

POOL'S PARADISE by Philip King

Penelope Toop	Linda Rodger
Ida	Ann Bailey
Rev. Lionel Toop	Don Martin
Miss Skillon	Betty Jeanpierre
Willie Briggs	Mickey Muir
Rev. Arthur Humphrey	Dave Shearer
Bishop of Lax	Mike Schneider

A light-headed comedy all about an impossibly straight-laced clergyman, his one-time actress wife, his unquenchable maid and football pools, is entertaining audiences at St. Luke's parish hall this week.

Jo Pepper directs the play for St. Luke's Players and has clearly dedicated herself to highlighting the situations through character development and pace.

Rhythm and timing are the most obvious weaknesses in production. Good lines are often wasted by being badly timed and even a farce comedy needs its rhythmic pauses and accents.

However it certainly moves merrily along and keeps its audience laughing.

NATURAL TIMING

Most outstanding is the performance of vivacious Ann Bailey. She bobs like a cork in a bubble bath and is altogether a delightful comedienne, the only member of the cast with a natural sense of timing.

The rest of the actors seemed ill at ease in their parts. There was an uncertainty, a vagueness of action that particularly afflicted Linda Rodger who needs to act with her face as well as her body and voice.

Most forceful and best defined characterization next to Miss Bailey's is that of Betty Jeanpierre as the parish busybody.

A potentially good performance by Don Martin is befogged by the lack of definition. Even a doddering clergyman, on stage must dodder purposefully.

Pool's Paradise will be repeated tonight and Saturday with curtain at 8:15.

'Trip Without Acid' Sponsored by Church

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver church will swing tonight with the way-out sights and sounds of Vancouver's first psychedelic service.

Combining electronic music, swirling lights, go-go girls and poetry readings, the unique religious experiment is billed by its clerical co-sponsors as "a trip without acid."

Acid is slang for the psychedelic, or mind-expanding, drug LSD.

The CBC will video-tape tonight's service at the University Hill United Church for presentation on the Sunday program, CBC's replacement for This Hour Has Seven Days.

The service is the project of the Rev. Harold MacKay of University Hill and the Rev. Jim McKibbon of St. Andrew's Anglican Church.

"We're trying to demonstrate you can have a trip without acid," said Mr. McKibbon.

He emphasized that the service is a liturgical experiment and not intended as a gimmick.

"The service is promised on the fact that conventional religious sounds and symbols aren't meaningful to a psychedelic generation — to the post-beat generation.

"I'm concerned in unlocking people so that they might be free and more open to this world."

Churches Join To Produce Yule Pageant

NANAIMO — St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church and St. Paul's Anglican Church are joining forces to produce a Christmas pageant on Dec. 19, 21 and Jan. 8.

Entitled The Christmas Story, it is the first inter-denominational effort of its kind in Nanaimo.

The cast will number nearly 40 and the accompanying choir, combining Anglican and Catholic members, will total 75.

Mrs. J. D. Findlay will be musical director, with Mrs. J. D. Findlay, Mrs. Alex Lawson, Mrs. Ken Gogo and Mrs. Lawson as organists.

A collection will be taken and all profits will go to the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief (OXFAM).

ARTISTIC ELKE

LOLLIPOP CHECKS NEW BANK PLAN

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The Bank of Virginia said today it will try out a new type of commercial transaction here Saturday — "Kiddie Checks" — negotiatible in lollipops.

Herbert C. Moseley, bank president, said the program will be tried at a branch office to teach children sound banking practices.

"Up to now, youngsters have only been able to watch their parents write checks — not much thrill for kids," Moseley said. "Now, however, they may draw on the Bank of Virginia's supply of sweets with their own negotiable instruments."

BEATLES SINGING TOGETHERNESS

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles ended three months of separation Thursday night and got together to make a new record.

A reporter outside their London studio asked what it felt like to be working as a group again and John Lennon replied: "Just lovely."

Since returning from a North American tour at the end of August, the four singers have been following independent lines of work and play. Reports they were breaking up have been denied.

FAMOUS AND UNKNOWN AROUND WORLD

Art Lovers Rally to Aid Florence

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—In a spontaneous outpouring of affection for this flood-ravaged city of Renaissance treasures, art lovers around the world have rallied to help Florence heal its wounds.

The cause has linked bankers and beatniks, connoisseurs and common laborers, the famous and the unknown of at least 35 lands.

Three weeks after flood waters ruined some of Western culture's most precious relics, these art lovers have set in motion a far more friendly flood—pouring into Florence millions of dollars in cash and supplies, thousands of hours of volunteer labor and the knowledge of scores of art experts.

Much of the assistance has gone to save the poor, homeless and sick of this city of 450,000, as well as to salvage its art.

Dr. Ugo Procacci, superintendent of Florence galleries, has estimated it will take more than $30,000,000 and at least 20 years.

From Italy have come cash gifts to a government relief fund totalling more than $1,900,000. Money gifts from other countries are expected to reach several million dollars.

Canada and Russia have offered expert help.

Sentence Suspended On Theft Conviction

A youth earlier convicted of stealing parts of a record machine at a home where he was attending a party was placed on probation for a year Thursday.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

The code word ARCH for Analyze the lead; Review the bidding; Count your winners and losers, and how can I make (defeat) the contract.

East and South both analyzed the deuce of clubs lead as fourth best. South has to bring home the diamond suit to make his contract because he can only count eight winners in the other suits. He also sees that he isn't going to have enough time if his opponents cash three clubs and two diamonds first.

Opening lead—♣2

His only hope is to get them to abandon the club suit. East produces the ace of clubs and South makes the brilliant, deceptive play of the king. If he just drops the ten East will know that South holds but one other club and will continue the suit. When South drops the king East is likely to decide that South's other club is the queen and that South has two club stoppers.

Let's see how East thinks after South does drop the king. He Analyzed a fourth best lead. His Review of the bidding shows that West can only hold two or three high card points and that they almost surely will be in spades. He Counts enough potential tricks to defeat the contract with a spade shift and leads a spade.

South puts on the king and leads a diamond. In spite of the fact that West played the three of spades on the first spade lead East is likely to try another spade and South makes his contract.

East could still have beaten the contract with a shift back to clubs but the chances are that once he started with spades he would keep going.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

ABC-TV paid $2 million dollars for showing The Bridge on the River Kwai. It trounced all opposition in spot ratings, including No. 1 "Bonanza."

The same network is to pay $5 million dollars for "Cleopatra," the Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton opus. It will get two showings.

Stephen

The sum of $7,250,000 was paid Twentieth Century Fox for "The Longest Day," "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" and "The Agony and the Ecstasy."

CBS-TV set a price of $53 million, or more than $800,000 apiece, for 63 movies from MGM. These include "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Butterfield 8," and "Night of the Iguana."

Movies on television are the most watched of any other commodity being doled out via the tube. Is it any wonder that networks are willing to pay through the nose for the right to show the films?

But there had to come a day when the television industry fought back by producing its own films for theatre release after TV airing.

The first of the series, "Fame Is the Name of the Game," starring Anthony Franciosa, Jill St. John, Jack Klugman and a host of other names in minor roles, showed Wednesday.

Let's face it. "Fame" was not a blockbuster. The cast of characters was impressive but not outstanding. It will take more than them to draw a big box-office.

The storyline, a magazine writer senses a good story in a suicide, was flimsy. The dialogue was overly cute.

The TV production centres in Hollywood are on the right track. There has to be an end to the seemingly endless source of money for the big epics which have already milked theatre-goers around the globe.

If its movies the viewers want, then movies is what they should get. "Fame" was only the start of the low budget movies for television. It wasn't an auspicious start but a start. Maybe they will get bigger and better later.

WHO'S HUE?: The primary colors are red, blue and yellow.

My Don Ameche was deluged with calls following the faux pas regarding primary colors the other day, so it's 50 times at least to remind me that:

LANGFORD

Fifteen houses in this area, presently occupied by tenants, now being offered for sale. These are nearly all three-bedroom houses. Several are only a year or two old. None have basements, but most have Oil-o-Matic heating, plumbing for automatic washers and wiring for electric range and dryer, paved driveways, carports.
Taxes are low! (In most cases only $25-$60 a year to the owner.) Best of all, only $1,000 down and the balance like rent. No mortgages to raise or commissions to pay. All financing arranged for you. Only one payment to make.
These are certainly not mansions, but good comfortable family homes, particularly suited to a young family starting out. Most prices range from $10,400-$12,400. Some older houses are even less.
We will be happy to arrange to show you these houses by appointment.
If you wish to drive past them first we will mail you a list showing the addresses and prices. (Please do not disturb the tenants.) Simply call 478-4446 or 478-4116 and leave your name and address. No one will call on you unless requested.

Light Bulb Greatest Enemy In East German Prison Cell

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — In the stark, stone prison cell behind the Iron Curtain, a light bulb was the enemy.

"They try to keep you tense," remembers John Van Altena. "At night the light is turned on every 10 minutes. Even after you learn to sleep with it, it bothers you."

Van Altena, a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, spent 17 months in prison in East Germany for trying to smuggle a mother and child through the Berlin Wall.

"It would have been very easy to let myself go," he said. "At night you could hear prisoners scream and yell and beat their heads against the doors.

"You realize it could happen to you in two minutes if you let yourself go."

Van Altena, 23, is back at the University of Wisconsin. He won't talk about how or why he became involved in the escape attempt, but in an interview he described his prison ordeal for the first time.

VAN ALTENA
. . . describes ordeal

He was working as an airlines interpreter in West Berlin in October, 1964, when he was jailed.

EIGHT-YEAR SENTENCE

East German security police found an East German mother and her child hidden in his car. Van Altena was armed with an automatic pistol. He was sentenced to eight years.

In prison, he said, survival hinged on mental discipline.

"You have time to do a lot of thinking. You learn to control your thoughts. I spent days mentally pursuing a single subject."

"I can't eat sweets," he said. "I used to love sweets. Now I can't stand the sight of a candy bar."

COWICHAN COPPER

Payment to Miners Due Within Days

Payment of Cowichan Copper miners' back wages came closer to culmination today following a week of legal arrangements and cancellation of a sheriff's sale.

An interim payment of $15,000 was expected momentarily by the provincial labor department, which is acting on behalf of some 120 miners thrown out of work with wages owing when Cowichan Copper Co.'s Sunro mine shut down Sept. 16.

The money represents about 37 per cent of the total monies owed to mine employees for work done while Aetan Investment Corp. was managing the mine for Cowichan Copper.

A lbor department spokesman said he could not be sure whether today's mail would bring the cheque, but he had been reasonably assured of its imminent arrival.

The department will supervise payment to the miners according to payroll information in its custody. This may take several days depending on the work load of the finance department.

Because of consistent delays in obtaining the money previously, the industrial relations board had initiated a sheriff's sale ox copper concentrates awaiting shipment at Hatch Point.

But Nanaimo County sheriff L. F. Hodgson cancelled the sale Monday when a third party—British Metals Corp.—intervened.

British Metals aruged it held title to the concentrates through the transfer of warehousemen's receipts, a stand accepted by the sheriff and labor department.

The Toronto-based firm meanwhile was holding payment on its $15,000 advance which had been deposited in Vancouver.

84 Killed In Czech Air Crash

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (Reuters)—Two cases of radioactive material were aboard a Bulgarian airliner that crashed near here Thursday night, killing all 84 persons aboard, officials said today.

Police sealed off the wooded, snow-covered hill where the Soviet-built Ilyushin - 18 crashed and exploded into flames seconds after takeoff from Bratislava Airport.

Officials said the radioactive isotopes were in two heavy lead containers.

Rescue teams hurrying to the hill near the wine - producing town of Raca five miles north of here found blazing wreckage strewn over a wide area.

Officials said passengers from several countries were aboard the scheduled flight from Sofia to Prague. The plane was diverted from the Czechoslovak capital because of bad weather.

Full details about the victims were not available. Unconfirmed reports referred to a Frenchman, a German and several Britons among the 76 passengers.

They'll Shower Grey Cup Crowd With Flowers

The Grey Cup will ride in floral splendor through the streets of Vancouver this evening on a moving mountain of over 70,000 chrysanthemums.

Miss Grey Cup will join her namesake trophy atop the spectacular flower-decked float with four princesses to help her shower the watching crowds with floral bouquet.

The scene-stealing float of all floats is the entry of the Florists Transworld Delivery Association and its 11,000 member florists, including nine from Greater Victoria.

Regional association president Norma Fitzsimmons of Victoria is in Vancouver today putting the final touches to the parade's only-ever all-flower float.

Luxembourg Govt. Resigns in Fight Over Conscription

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — The government of Luxembourg, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's smallest member, resigned Thursday night over a conflict between coalition partners on ending military conscription.

The Socialists, who are associated with Social Christians in the cabinet of Social Christian Premier Pierre Werner, had asked for an end to conscription Jan. 1 next.

Socialists said they were withdrawing their support from the government. Before a formal vote of confidence was taken, Werner said the government was resigning.

'PROTECT BABY SEALS'

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals today appealed to Fisheries Minister Robicaud to prevent the killing of baby seals during the annual seal hunt.

The society said in a statement a letter has been sent to Mr. Robicaud, at his request, outlining the SPCA's reaction to proposed amendments to sealing regulations.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICIAL

He Spent Honeymoon With Ferry Survivors

By GORDON RITCHIE

Shades were lowered and shutters closed as the little fishing village perched precariously on a bleak Newfoundland bluff winced in anguish at the news.

The ferry linking Port-aux-Basques to Nova Scotia's Sydney had been torpedoed in the grey dawn and 250 men were missing in the cold waters of the Gulf.

Scarcely a family's prayers did not go out for a missing son or brother or husband, crewmen on the Cariboo.

In their grief and desperation the fishing-folk turned for help to the Salvation Army pastor just arrived with his young bride to build and operate single-handed the Army's charge in Port-aux-Basques.

BONAR . . . day of triumph

RESCUE FLEET

In a matter of minutes he organized and supplied from Salvation Army stores a rescue fleet to search the troubled waters for survivors. Thanks largely to this one man's strength in a time of emergency 137 men were plucked from the icy grasp of a watery death.

As he sits today behind his polished desk in his new charge — Victoria's Salvation Army centre — his eyes flash at the memory of those rugged Newfoundland days.

Working all night putting his experience in the building trade to work at rebuilding the Army centre, while his young bride Effie slaved to make the centre worthy of the wedding gifts they had yet to unpack.

WITHOUT PENNY

Working as a team to feed and house the flood of returning soldiers descending on this desolate stop-over 60 at a time without a penny to their names.

The 30-year-old pastor and his new bride spending their honeymoon nights separated by a grey army blanket from scores of sleeping soldiers sharing the hall that was their only home.

The Salvation Army inspector came to investigate the only operation in the country running heavily in the red — and reporting "This is the only centre across the country which is really doing a worthwhile job."

They were golden days. Days of challenge and of triumph. Days of privation and of jubilation. Heroic problems met and overcome by dogged effort.

The problems Brigadier Bonar faces today are less dramatic but as trying. Success is more elusive but perhaps even more rewarding.

For in his new Victoria charge the brigadier, now 55 with greying hair but still bubbling with energy and enthusiasm, will be tackling the ills of society rather than the ravages of nature.

He will be trying to save men, not from the sea, but from themselves.

Putting 36 years' experience into reorganizing and expanding the Salvation Army's rehabilitation program which he believes to be the only answer to increasing alcoholism.

"No man is too broken to be pieced together again," he says as he paces rapidly through the centre.

"And we help to do it here with occupational retraining and therapy," he explains as he toys with an electric toaster lying in pieces on the bench in the cramped workshop.

"I don't believe a man should ask for or get anything for nothing," he adds. "If a person can pay for the furniture they get in our Thrift shop we'd like them to, even if it's only a nickel or a dime they can spare.

"And, of course, if they can't manage anything we'll give it for free."

He pauses a moment in the dining room that doubles as a chapel — the ordinary chapel they have upstairs is too small to hold all those who come to the regular Sunday evening service.

"All that we do is a means to an end," the brigadier, an ordained minister, states as his creed.

SOCIAL NEEDS

"If you can get a man right in his soul all his social needs and problems will clear up of themselves."

A hurried goodbye and he bustles back to the heavy task before him, the task of carrying on a half-century tradition of Salvation Army work in pulling men back from the murky depths that persist even in this Island city.

DEALER FINED FOR SELLING AN OMELET

OLIVER (CP) — Egg dealer Edmund Cake was fined $50 Thursday after being found guilty of contributing to juvenile delinquency by selling eggs to youngsters on Halloween night.

Police said Cake was accused of contributing to juvenile delinquency because he was aware the eggs would be used for an illegal purpose.

Magistrate J. M. Mitchell was told about 70 youths were involved in a egg-throwing "war" after Cake sold his wares on Oliver's main street and that the street "looked like an omelet" afterwards.

INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS BODY SETS MEET

A public meeting will be held on fluoridation early next month by the Individual Rights Association.

The meeting will be held at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School auditorium, Monday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m.

Spokesman for the group, H. S. Thuillier said the organization represents varying opinions on the measure which will come to a vote in Oak Bay for the third time Dec. 10. The proposal missed passage by a narrow margin last December.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Grady Wood, age 12, of Seaford, Va., for his question:

How did they discover bacteria?

The first person to see and observe bacteria called them little animals. It seemed natural to class them as animals because the tiny midgets obviously could move around. Nowadays, however, biologists do not classify the bacteria in the animal kingdom.

The first bacteria dates back to the early beginning of life on earth. His teeming relatives were here long before the human family arrived. For thousands of years our ancestors shared the world with them and never knew it. But the bacteria were everywhere, in the air and on every solid surface, in the soil and water. But no one knew this because the biggest bacterium is too small for human eyes to see.

Scientists have classified and counted thousands of different bacteria and untold numbers are still unidentified. The name bacterium was coined from an older word for rod, but though many are rod-shaped, other types come in every imaginable shape. We need a row of more than 25,000 average-size bacteria to measure an inch. No wonder we failed to find them for so long.

The discovery, of course, had to wait for the invention of the microscope. With a lens that magnifies 1,000 times, an average bacterium appears as big as the head of a pin. The microscope arrived in the 17th century, and the scientists of 300 years ago spent a lot of time improving it. The expert of this day was Robert Hooke, of London. The lenses of his microscopes magnified better than any others, or so everyone thought.

Studied Wonders of Nature

Later, however, they heard from Anton van Leeuwenhoek of the quiet town of Delft in Holland. Leeuwenhoek was no expert scientist. He ran a clothing store and was active in civic affairs — and he had a hobby. He enjoyed grinding lenses for his homemade microscopes to observe the miniature wonders of nature. He observed tiny wrigglers in drops of rain, in tartar scraped from his teeth and in other everyday samples — and he named the moving midgets little animals or animalcules.

Leeuwenhoek made careful notes and sketches of what he saw and sent them to Hooke in London. But the microscopes of the experts had to be improved before his work could be verified. When this was done, Robert Hooke readily gave Anton van Leeuwenhoek the credit he deserved. The animalcules, of course, now are called bacteria, and a Dutch hobbyist of 300 years ago was the first human being to behold them.

A young person with an overwhelming interest in studying these microscopic living things will choose a career in bacteriology. In 300 years we have learned a lot about these bitsy living things and we need to know much more about them. For a long time they were classed as midget members of the plant world. Nowadays, many bacteria are classified in a world of their own as neither plants nor animals.

His Decorated 'Pelt' Willed to Tattooist

ALDERSHOT, England (AP)—Dan Cotterell says he has made a will leaving his skin to the man who is covering him with tattoos from neck to toes.

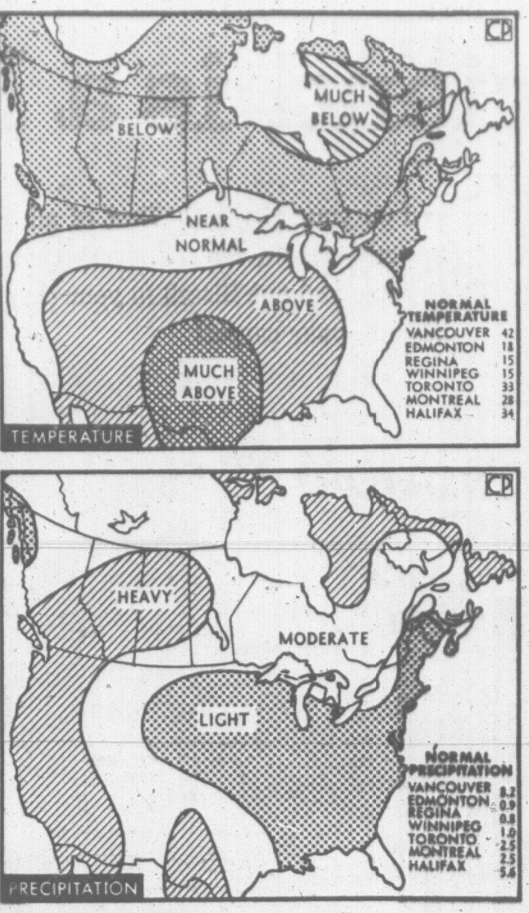
"Let's hope it will be a long time before that happens," he said in an interview.

Cotterell, father of seven children, has a Japanese war god tattooed down his back. His arms are entirely patterned in an oriental design of peacocks, snakes, eagles and dragons

Bill Skuse, the tattooist, said: "I would have the skin treated and put on display outside my studio. Dan's family would then be able to come and look at it whenever they liked."



GALOSHES weather is in store for Vancouver Island for the next 30 days according to the United States weather bureau. Temperatures will be below normal and Islanders can expect heavier than normal precipitation. (CP Wirephoto.)

Diet Free of Salt Can Anger Husband

By DR. W. C. ALVAREZ

Many an unhappy woman writes me to say that because her husband has a mild high blood pressure, his doctor tells her not to put any salt in his food. She says that instead of helping him, all it has done so far has been to annoy him so much that he is worse. He hates his food and he keeps taking out his anger on his poor wife. I have seen that sort of reaction some hundreds of times. There might be some sense in cutting down on the salt allowance if the man were dropsical with swollen ankles. But he has no such sign of failure in the function of his heart or his kidneys.

Alvarez

Around 1910, my professor of medicine tried out the salt-poor diet, when he read about it in the French literature. But in a year or two he decided that it was rarely of much value, and so he quit prescribing it. Other doctors soon followed suit.

* * *

Then about 1920, an American physician rediscovered this diet, and for a few years most doctors were giving it to all of their patients who had kidney trouble or high blood pressure. But again, the fad petered out. Recently, the idea flared up a third time. But now, fortunately, able biologic chemists like my friend Dr. Irvine Page — an expert on the treatment of high blood pressure — have shown us in just which cases a salt-poor diet can be expected to help the patient.

A while ago I was much impressed on reading the statement by an able professor of nutrition to the effect that it is hard enough for a trained dietitian in a hospital to design and prepare a diet so poor in salt that it might do the patient some good.

His studies had satisfied him that a housewife in her home cannot prepare a saltless diet; all she can do is to prepare a salt-poor diet, and with this no one can cure high blood pressure or kidney or heart disease. Hence, he asked, "Why bother with it?" All it can do is to make the patient angry with his poor wife for giving him tasteless food not fit for a dog.

Troubles Blamed On His Eyes

NORTHALLERTON, England (AP) — Brian Hopper, 25, started a two-year jail sentence today. He blamed his troubles on weak eyes.

Because he has to wear glasses and earns on £12 16s ($38.40) a week, he said, girls rejected his passes.

Testimony was introduced in court that Hopper solved his problems by embezzling £1,000 ($3,000) from the co-operative society where he worked as a cashier. He admitted the charges and said:

"For the first time in years girls wanted me. I had several beautiful girls but they cost me a packet."

Strike Hassle Grows

Nicholson Seeks Answer to Snarl

The move ended lumber loading aboard the freighter Karpfanger. One of the men said the reason given was "not doing enough work". Three gangs were dismissed.

NICHOLSON
. . . to call huddle

The firings were the first in Victoria since employers began similar action at other B.C. ports Wednesday for alleged slowdowns in support of striking foremen.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union blamed what it called the incompetence and inefficiency of substitute foremen for any slowdown.

Two gangs continued working the wheat ship Ocean Seigneur. There were no other vessels at Ogden Point.

A local union spokesman said two gangs were dispatched to Cowichan Bay with a third following to load pulp aboard the Korotan.

A shipping agent said work on the Korotan was proceeding this morning.

CABINET BID

Federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson was to arrive in Vancouver late today to help settle the waterfront dispute, which has cut port traffic in B.C. by roughly 50 per cent.

At Crofton, B.C. Forest Products said if there is no settlement by Monday it may be forced to close its pulp operation.

Jack Gallagher, industrial relations officer, said today all storage space will be exhausted by mid-week.

He declined to say how many men might be affected but said "a substantial number."

CROFTON HURT

The combined pulp and newsprint mill at Crofton employs more than 800 men. Mr. Gallagher said a firm decision about closure of pulp production will be made Monday.

At the Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo, a spokesman said the dock situation is "starting to build up on us."

But the problem was not as acute as at Crofton. The MacMillan Bloedel mill at Harmac employs about 1,000 men.

Mr. Nicholson said he was asked to intervene by the union whose members have been fired, rehired and fired again for what the employers call a deliberate work slowdown.

The B.C. Maritime Employers Association said longshoremen are trying to coerce them into recognizing foremen as ILWU members for bargaining purposes.

PICKET LINES

The dispute boiled into the open last Thursday when 190 forement appeared with strike placards at all B.C. ports. Longshoremen refused to cross their picket lines which remained until late Monday when a court injunction banned picketing.

About 650 longshoremen were fired Wednesday when work in the ports slowed. The men, including those fired, reappeared for work and were hired Thursday but more than 400 were fired.

Neither side appeared ready to move on the nub of the issue, recognition and bargaining rights for the striking foremen.

The employers argue the foremen are part of management and the Canada Labor Relations Board has recognized this by twice refusing to grant certification.

A union statement said long-

ISRAEL CENSURED BY SECURITY COUNCIL

Only New Zealand abstained in a 14-0 council vote despite criticism by several members that the censure measure was not strong enough in its action against Israel.

The resolution censures Israel for the raid and warns it that a repetition of such military reprisals against tis Arab neighbors will force the council to consider sterner measures against the Jewish state.

Demand Arms To Fight Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops of Jordan's Arab Legion drove through the streets of Ramallah today firing in the air above slogan-chanting demonstrators demanding arms to fight Israel.

As in Thursday's troubles, the troops fired over the heads of the crowd and there appeared to be no casualties.

Ramallah, scene of anti-government demonstrations for the last three days, was under tight curfew.

A curfew imposed Thursday night had been lifted earlier today, but crowds of Palestine refugees took to the streets when the curfew was lifted and the army rode back in to restore order.

Soldiers took position on rooftops and blocked all access roads to the town, a centre for some 40,000 Palestine refugees 10 miles north of Jerusalem.

Nadim Zaru, mayor of Ramallah, told The Associated Press that 10 persons were injured in scuffles with troops Thursday. The stone-throwing demonstrators attacked the building housing the United Nations Relief and Works Agency in Ramallah, smashing most of the windows.

Three of the main towns on Jordan's West Bank were closed tight and most of the shops in Jerusalem itself were shuttered in expectation of demonstrations.

TENSION SPREADS

Tension and unrest have been spreading along the West Bank since the Nov. 13 raid by Israel on the village of Samu.

The town of Nablus, 40 miles north of Jerusalem, was cut off from the outside world for the fifth day. Authorities have cut off water, electricity and phone lines to the city and the residents were reported barricaded in their homes.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Search and rescue officials said today that two aircraft have started a search for a Saskatchewan plane missing between Cranbrook and Penticton. The single - engine Cessna 175 was en route here with Mr. and Mrs. Roy James Brown aboard. The couple, from Saskatoon, were flying here to attend the Grey Cup game Saturday.

Aid for Italians

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson announced today that Canada would set up a fund to aid flood ravaged Italy. Pearson said the Canadian government would start the fund with a contribution of $500,000 and invite the public to subscribe.

Brown Back Home

LONDON (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown returned here by air today from Moscow after three-day talks with Soviet leaders on Viet Nam, nuclear non-proliferation and other key world issues.

Trade Fair Blasted

AIR STRIKE FORMULA '20 PER CENT HIKE'

(See Story Page 7)

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says the national negotiating team for striking Air Canada machinists agreed to a settlement formula that calls for a 20 per cent pay increase in a 26-month contract.

The 5,200 striking machinists are arranging meetings to vote on the formula.

The formula is believed to have called for a 12 per cent increase in the first year of the new contract and additional raises of 5 and 3 per cent to cover the remaining 14 months of the agreement.

Present pay rates range from $2.04 an hour to $3.17. A 20 per cent increase would raise the scales to about $2.45 to $3.80 hourly.

PEARSON WARNS:

Canada May Act Alone On Peking

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson made clear Thursday that Canada is becoming impatient about continued isolation of Communist China and may recognize the Peking regime if it is not seated in the United Nations.

In a foreign policy debate in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said the seating of the mainland Chinese at the UN "would be a form of recognition which would be accepted by all members who voted for their admission.

"If this is impossible at present and we make no progress on this score, then we have to consider the other form of recognition by approaching the government concerned to see whether, bilaterally, recognition can be brought about."

But he added wrly that it might not be a question of Canada recognizing Red China—it might be a question of Peking recognizing Canada. Meanwhile, in Peking, the official party newspaper charged that Canada's proposals at the UN are a "revival of the U.S. imperialist plot to create two Chinas."

The prime minister's statement came a day after External Affairs Minister Martin made public at the UN Canada's new policy on China.

He called for the Peking regime's admission to China's permanent Security Council seat—which carries veto power —while Nationalist China would be given a General Assembly seat.

NDP Leader Douglas drew out the prime minister's statement during study of external affairs department estimates after Mr. Pearson had completed a lengthy statement on external policy.

Canada Could Act Unilaterally

The NDP leader said Canada had no control over the UN decision but could extend recognition unilaterally.

The Commons also dealt Thursday with spending estimates of the departments of finance and health, along with external affairs, as part of an all-party agreement to cover as many areas as possible before the 5:30 p.m. deadline today.

Under new Commons rules, a total of 30 days is devoted to consideration of all estimates. The time is up today. Millions of dollars in government spending programs will automatically be approved even though the House never considered them. Most did get committee study.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker led off the external affairs debate by questioning Mr. Pearson on why Canada, which only a year ago opposed Communist China getting a UN seat, now proposed its seating.

In the last year Red China had "exploded the biggest firecracker in Chinese history" and successfully tested a missile over a 700-mile range. This endangered the entire Eastern Hemisphere.

No Illuzions About China Aims

Mr. Pearson said his government had "no illusions that Peking's policy has suddenly changed" or that she had suddenly become "eligible for membership in the UN . . . as a peace-loving nation which is likely to observe the peace-keeping principles of the charter."

The question was whether the UN would take a responsible position and do its best "to see that a suitable basis can be found in that world assembly so that a government which

FANS WHOOP INTO VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—A horde of enthusiastic Saskatchewan fans swooped off a special train here this morning, turned the Canadian National railway station into a chaotic scene for a few minutes and then went away to rest up for further celebrations tonight and Saturday.

Led by the Regina Boys' Band and a number of Regina policemen, the 375 fans marched from the train into the station, and were met by several hundred spectators, including about a dozen B.C. Lions' majorettes.

Bedlam prevailed for the next 40 minutes. As the band played, some of the fans danced, and the others shouted and cheered. They were led on a march around a small park adjacent to the station.

The 15-car special train arrived at 9 a.m. and was to be followed throughout the day by three other special trains from as far east as Winnipeg.

Betting odds quoted in Vancouver today favored Ottawa to win by eight points. However, if steady rain, which left the field waterlogged and treacherous this morning, continues until Saturday, luck could play a big part in the outcome of the football classic. (See stories on Page 12.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—It will cost an estimated $1,000 for the special police squad that will be stationed at the Court House tonight and Saturday for Grey Cup duty, said Chief Ralph Booth.

N.Y. Pollution Blanket Reaches Danger Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York metropolitan area lay under a blanket of polluted air today and officials warned persons with heart and respiratory ailments to stay indoors.

The index of air pollution was about 3½ times the normal level as the sun rose. The measurement showed a drop from the critical level reached Thursday night, and rasping New Yorkers awaited a weather change.

Any deaths attributed to the smog would not be reported for a few days. A 10-day period of stagnant air in November, 1963, was blamed then for from 140 to 260 deaths.

The pollution, which began to increase Wednesday night, was attributed to a massive temperature inversion. This occurs frequently in the late fall, when warm air overrides and imprisons surface air.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Austin N. Heller, city commissioner of air pollution control, said a pollution reading of 60.6, five times the average level of 12, was registered at 8 p.m. Thursday, indicating an amount he said may have been the city's highest in history.

It dropped to 18.5 in the predawn hours, and rose to 43.2 at the height of the commuter rush this morning.

The pollution count, based on a statistical measurement of sulphur dioxide and carbon dioxide in the air, indicates the amount of harmful substances in the atmosphere. The level considered dangerous is 50.

Heavy pollution was reported in Philadelphia and Boston, where sulphur dioxide in the air reached six times the normal level Thursday. Weather bureaus in both cities predicted there was a chance of relief today or Saturday.

At the smog's height in New York City, Heller said he was close to calling an air pollution alert which would have closed some industries and kept cars from the streets. All municipal incinerators were shut down.

Closer Tax Check On Charity Groups

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department will start a new registration of all charitable organizations next month, and after Jan. 1, 1967, donations to them will need officially - approved receipts to qualify as income allowances for tax purposes.

Revenue Minister Benson told a press conference today that in future, to qualify for tax - free treatment, charities will have to file annual financial reports showing they are operating strictly within the law.

The new procedures, based on an amendment made by Parliament to the Income Tax Act, will probably result in all churches, parishes andd congregations using numbered envelopes for Sunday collections, he said.

They will also require all employers to register plans by which they make payroll deductions of employees' contributions to such charities as the United Appeal.

SHARE WITH ASIAN CHILDREN FUND

Death Cheated by a Bouncing Ride

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Its patients are women and children who come mostly from the surrounding rural areas on the steaming coastal plain.

They arrive at the hospital on foot or by oxcart, sometimes brought by a relative or friend, quite often alone.

Their illnesses cover nearly the whole range of tropical diseases, and they have some that are found in temperate climates. Such as tubercolosis and starvation.

Staff and equipment are at a premium, and the hospital's finances are on a shoestring.

So when hospital directors decided they needed to extend their service to rural patients but had no money for it, the Unitarian Service Committee stepped in.

With money donated by Canadians to funds such as the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, the USC provided a jeep for the hospital.

Twice weekly it bounces over thoroughfares and backroads carrying a specialist, sometimes two, a nurse and medical equipment to outlying areas.

The specialists, who come from Calcutta to make their rounds, find their services are muuch in need. So much so that if they made the trip daily, they probably still could not treat all the people who need medical care.

But the jeep helps.

Ask the little girl whose running sores cover her body.

Or the bedridden grandmother.

Or the man who cannot support his wife and seven children because he has TB.

Without the jeep, made possible by Canadian kindness, they would be far more miserable.

So would thousands of other Indians who live in the Swadesh Bhasu Hospital area.

Donations to the Share with Asian Children Fund may be sent care of the Victoria Daily Times, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Hard Thumps for Bennett During Emotional Appeal

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

WILLIAMS LAKE—The Cariboos' rugged individualism that Premier Bennett praised in a friendly Quesnel the day before, gave him some hard thumps here Thursday night.

The premier drew only some 380 persons to the same hall that saw almost 500 turn up 2½ months ago when he asked them to re-elect William Speare.

This time more than half the audience sat unmoved as he pleaded with them to even the score with Vancouver by electing Attorney-General Robert Bonner in the byelection Monday.

And only a couple of party workers tried to shush a couple of hecklers and about a half-dozen questioners who several times told the premier he couldn't drown them out by shouting through the loudspeaker.

SCATTERED APPLAUSE

Encouraging applause, the few times it came, was scattered through the crowd and only a single giggle broke the silence as he paused to fight for control after shouting: "They think they wounded our government by defeating Bonner. I want to tell you, out of it will come our greatest victory."

There was no response as he said all eyes of British Columbia and of Canada were on the riding, and even "all of the free world, which knows British Columbia's development . . . want to know if the people of the Cariboo still have confidence in our development.

The premier said that when the Columbia seat was opened for Mr. Bonner in 1962 "they at first had a shock like the Cariboo" but after voters thought things over they gave him a large majority.

"I am confident you're going to give Mr. Bonner the greatest majority any man has ever had in the Cariboo," he added, but few clapped agreement.

He said the government was indebted to the NDP and Liberals for contesting the byelection "because it's been good for our government (because) ministers get too busy.

'GREAT EMPIRE'

"But in this riding, a great empire in itself, I think every minister has been in here (campaigning)."

Adding that if elected, Mr. Bonner would continue to escort the ministers around the riding after the campaign "because it's good for our government too that our ministers know the problems in the Cariboo."

The premier vehemently denied that he pressured Mr. Speare to step down. "I give

Deadlock Continues Over Herring Prices

VANCOUVER (CP) — Little progress was reported Thursday in negotiations between British Columbia herring fishermen and packing companies.

Union spokesmen said negotiations to end the 18-day-old strike have been suspended indefinitely following Thursday's sessions, which left the two sides deadlocked on price payment proposals.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union offered to drop demands from $20.48 a ton to $19.

The Fisheries Association of British Columbia refused to make a counter-offer. It said the world herring price has dropped by 10 per cent and it cannot go above the present price of $17.50.

Some minor progress was made on weighing and lay-up procedures, officials said.

The fishermen are seeking the price increase to enable them to set up a pension fund. They would set aside $1.20 from each $19 a ton to set up the fund.

$ EXCHANGE

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was down 1/32 at 92 13/32 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was down ¼ at $2.79 3/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar up 1/16 at $1.08 7/32 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was up 3/16 at $3.02 1/16.

Two Stocks Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two stocks were suspended from trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

The other is Canadian-American Petroleum.

Higher Earnings

MONTREAL (CP)—The Bank of Montreal has reported net earnings of $19,905,599 or $3.28 a share for the year ended Oct. 31. This represents a 6.3 per cent increase over the 1965 figure of $18,730,353 or $3.08 a share.

The bank's assets totalled $5,422,750,494, an increase of 8.5 per cent over 1965. Loans climbed 3.5 per cent to $3,279,997,060.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn and oats gave way after firm openings and sold lower on the grain futures market of the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Soybeans fell back under commission house selling and a weak market along with soybean meal and oil

Wheat held firm, largely because of reports that the lengthy dry spell in the southwestern portion of the U.S. would continue at least several more days, except for scattered light rain.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most activity today concentrated on oilseeds on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. There was evidence of quite aggressive export interest and moderate advances were recorded despite declines in Chicago soybeans, which usually influence the Winnipeg market.

Feed-grain grading was light and of a domestic nature. Prices held to a narrow range with underlying firmness. Rye showed periods of activity, aided by the influence of Chicago wheat and rye trading.

Lakehead prices for IWA, Class Two, and Domestic wheat were unchanged.

WHAT'S A DEBENTURE?

So, if a company owns mortgages, it's debentures are a charge against all its mortgage holdings.

The Debenture Holder is as secure as the quality of the mortgage portfolio held by the company, and this is where Victoria Mortgage Management BEARS DOWN.

1866... A very good Year

A very good year for the Crown Colonies on the Island and the Mainland, which joined together to become the province of British Columbia. Undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting went on. And undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting will mark B.C.'s 100th birthday. To honor the occasion, Andres introduce Richelieu — the aristocracy of wines — specially set aside for Centennial celebrations. Sherries, aperitif and golden cream; rich full bodied Burgundy and crisp Riesling; Champagnes bubbling with excitement.

Andres Richelieu Wines... to make 1966 a very memorable year.

There is more than a touch of irony in the fact that a school established for youth by youth should fall victim to youth. Still, a missionary must be prepared for brushes with cannibals, and 24-year-old volunteer Lynn Curtis of the Company of Young Canadians has made it plain that he will not withdraw from darkest Victoria.

Perhaps he should, and there are those who wish heartily that he would depart and trouble us no more. But on this point, as on almost every other relating to Mr. Curtis and his works, I am not prepared to attempt large pronouncements.

Certainly the establishment he set up in a 13-room rabbit warren on MacGregor Avenue won more notoriety than fame in its brief existence.

At the same time, I'm assured that Mr. Curtis has inspired several self-doubting youngsters toward careers in one field or another, coaxed at least one disturbed boy to seek psychiatric help, and persuaded others to try the consequence once more with parents from whom they had been estranged.

Believe some critics, and his now-defunct Social Education Centre was a haven for marijuana smokers. Accept Young Canadian Curtis's say-so, and narcotics in any form except tobacco were banned from the Centre.

When I called at the house off Oak Bay Avenue on Thursday morning, Lynn Curtis was sunk in a half-gutted armchair in a room which had once been gracious.

The weekend beat-up by raiders — against whom Mr. Curtis appeared to hold no animus — had been hard on it. Minor debris crunched underfoot. The air was shivering-cold.

Amid this desolation, Mr. Curtis answered questions about his plans, or rather hopes, and reviewed certain errors which he felt had hastened the school to its end.

He told me that he and his two assistants may try to launch a youth association for young people who are not attracted to existing groups. Also, he visualized a youth newspaper and possibly a magazine to be published in Victoria.

This for the future. While we talked, squads of former students were out raising funds by means that included a car wash in a Douglas Street shopping centre.

There are tentative plans for a dance — may it fare better than the last! — and a beer bottle drive.

Collections stood at $57.49, with more funds expected from today's University of Victoria sit-in. The immediate goal is $600, which Mr. Curtis expects will at least cover the damage done to the house.

The mistakes, as he sees them in retrospect: first, a house of 13 rooms which he and his helpers couldn't police; and second, the granting of almost total freedom to those not yet conditioned to it.

How Company headquarters feels about Mr. Curtis has not beer revealed, but its farflung emissary was blunt in his references to the outfit.

He feels that it is heavily over-bureaucratized — his word — with an administrative staff larger than the present total of just under 70 field workers of the 250 quota set for the end of this year.

He is not, however, disenchanted with the Ottawa-sponsored experiment, even though he states flatly that "trying to get some kind of democracy within the company has been quite hard."

To complete this grab-bag of mixed impressions, let me point out that Mr. Curtis and Victoria's Judge Harold Alder of family and juvenile court express the same thought in different words.

Says Judge Alder: "There is a tendency to make the individual become an automaton. We find a group who rebel against this."

Both feel that the boys and girls of this group must not be allowed to become outcasts. But whether Lynn Curtis is the man for the job remains to be demonstrated.

A DELIGHTFUL SPLASH from the Grey Cup dropped into Victoria today in the shape of Miss Calgary Stampeder on flying visit to her parents between Vancouver festivities. Miss Betty Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, 530 Prince Robert Drive, View Royal, was the vivacious cowgirl-garbed damsel giving the city a whiff of the big-time spree. The Wright's came to Victoria 1½ years ago from Edmonton but Bettty, employed by a Calgary oil company, chose to stay in the shadow of the Rockies. Her father is an insurance underwriter. New Burns Centre May Honor Toone

Labor's Centennial project in Greater Victoria may be named after the late Mayor A. W. Toone.

The mayor, who died suddenly last week, was secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council for nine years.

The labor council earlier this year adopted the proposed burns unit as its Centennial project, working in conjunction with local contractors.

Don Smith, chairman of a labor-management-hospital committee on the burns unit, said today there have been suggestions the unit be named after Mr. Toone.

"he was very, very interested in this unit and was on the original committee," he said.

"He was very active to get this unit on the road," said Mr. Anderson.

"There is no doubt he played a substantial part in its formation. I'd back it wholeheartedly."

START IN JANUARY

Campaigning for funds for the intensive-care unit is expected to start early in January.

The campaign was to have started at the end of the summer but was delayed because of the two-month strike-lockout involving carpenters and contractors.

Mr. Smith, who is vice-president and manager of Ocean Cement here, said the United Appeal and Christmas have put off fund-raising until the new year.

Although the labor council—representing 70 local unions with 12,000 members—has adopted the burns unit as its Centennial project, there will not be any federal or provincial centennial money available for it.

This is because the unit is already entitled to grants from the federal and provincial governments.

Some $40,000 must be raised locally before grants of $50,000 from the senior governments can be made available.

NOTAVAILABLE

The proposed five-bed burns unit would provide treatment not available here for severe burns. Elaborate ventilation and other equipment would keep it germ free.

BLAME THE CLOUDS

QOR Shots Bounced Off Saanich Homes

By DON VIPOND

Heard any strange noises lately?

Thursday afternoon maybe?

They may not have fired the shots heard round the world, but when the Queen's Own Rifles unloaded their anti-tank guns Thursday afternoon people for miles around sat up and took notice.

BLAME CLOUDS

And those still puzzled by the series of muffled blasts about 1:30 p.m. which set windows to rattling and older houses creaking can blame it on the clouds.

It's this way:

The booms came from the Albert Head gunnery range where the First Batallion of the Queen's Own Rifles wound up an anti-tank gunnery course with a little practical experience on their 106-millimetre recoilless weapons.

The noise from the weapons bounced off a thick cloud bank hanging low over the south tip of the Island and came back to earth up to 20 miles away.

One woman phoned Saanich police to report her chandelier was swaying.

Another man reported the glass in his greenhouse was in jeopardy.

And another Saanich resident five miles from the city centre said the explosions sounded like a soft thud on the roof of his house, similar to the sound a cougar might make if it jumped from nearby trees.

A series of soft thumps sent him outside to see if it was raining cougars.

It wasn't.

Commissionaires' Fight Reaches Top Level

By DESMOND BILL

Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet agreed in the House of Commons Thursday to draw the attention of the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires to complaints of "grave injustice" in its Victoria branch.

He made the promise in response to a statement by H. W. Herridge (NDP-Kootenay West) who said he has documentary evidence that commissionaires in Victoria suffer as a result of the "dictatorial attitude" of corps officers.

Mr. Teillet said he has not responsibility for the corps but would be willing to forward Mr. Herridge's complaints and the documents to national officers of the corps.

Meanwhile, in Victoria this morning, it was announced that the local Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association has stepped into the controversy within the Corps of Commissionaires.

ASKED TO MEETING

The association has invited representatives of the Corps, including the local commandant, A. C. Wurtele, to attend a meeting Dec. 5 to discuss the situation.

Representatives of the Three Cees, an informal association of about 70 commissionaires, have also been asked to the meeting.

The commissionaires have been looking for someone to champion their cause against the local officers of the Corps. National New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas named Mr. Herridge to look into their case.

APPEALS SENT

However, they are trying to enlist tri-partisan support for an investigation into the situation within the Victoria Corps.

An appeal has been sent to Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker to join with Mr. Douglas to "eradicate the dictatorial attitude on the part of the Corps" and to obtain for commissionaires the same "opportunity and working conditions" that are available to all other Canadians under provincial and federal labor laws.

Commissionaires charge that some corps members have been dismissed on trumped-up charges. The constitution of the Corps makes no provision for appeal against dismissal, except to the Corps commandant, whose decision is final.

The dissident commissionaires presented a brief documenting their charges, to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, who is honorary Corps president, and asked for an independent investigation.

Mr. Pearkes passed the brief to Corps. Commandant Wurtele who said there is no need for such an investigation. He dismissed the brief as the work of "a rabble."

He also said he does not think "it would be right" to hold a secret ballot to determine if commissionaires want to have their own employees' association.

Organizers of the association allege that commissionaires have been intimidated to keep them out of the association.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association has called the Dec. 5 meeting to try and clarify the issues in dispute. Mount Benson (Nanaimo) branch of the Canadian Legion has also decided to form a committee to examine the dispute.

The veterans' association and the Legion branch have entered the dispute because the commissionaires involved are all ex-servicemen.

Former Reeve In N.B. To Run Here

W. G. Smith's entry into the race for five council seats bring to 11 the number of candidates seeking aldermanic seats.

Four of the seats are for two-year terms and one, vacated by Ald. Hugh Stephen in his bid for the mayoralty, is for a one-year term.

PROTESTED MUSIC

Mr. Smith first came into the spotlight some months ago when he picketed the 700 Block Yates Street in an attempt to ban piped music on the the streets.

In making his announcement to run for council he said he could offer the city 40 years of business experience.

Other aldermanic candidates are Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott and Ald. Percy Frampton. Both are seeking re-election.

Burglar Caught In Underwear Jailed One Year

A youth who city police caught in his underwear after he broke into a laundry was jailed for a year today.

Robert Walker, 19, of 408 Hillside, had earlier pleaded guilty to twice breaking into Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John Street, this month because he was short of clothes.

When he appeared in central court for sentence today he was also convicted of breaking the terms of his probation. He had been given a suspended sentence after being convicted of driving without a licence.

"It's quite apparent you are ruining your life. You are on the verge of being an alcoholic," the magistrate told Walker.

He sentenced him to concurrent 12-month terms definite and six months indefinite at the Young Offenders Unit on the two break-in charges and a concurrent one-month term for breaking the terms of his probation.

SHIPYARDS

Hearing Set On Joint Certification

The Labor Relations Board will hold a special hearing Tuesday, Dec. 6, into applications for joint certification of unions at the big three West Coast shipyards.

Decision to hold the hearing was made by the board this week and announced today by a spokesman for the Joint Shipyard Conference.

The conference, representing the majority of unions in the yards, has applied to the board for joint certification at Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows and Burrard Drydock.

The aim is to replace the existing 36 certifications at the three yards with a single one at each yard.

EXCLUSIVE

If the applications are successful, the applicant unions through the Joint Shipyard Conference will have exclusive authority to bargain for workers at each shipyard.

Victorian Slain At Campbell River

By TERRY IZZARD

A second party guest was to appear in court this afternoon charged with non-capital murder.

They were drinking, police said. About 8:30 an argument developed.

The victim had been in Campbell River only two months working as bodyman at McQuarrie Bros. Motors Ltd.

Married, with three children, he was living temporarily in a trailer outside the Campbell River home of his boss, Jack Dempsey.

Broomfield lives only a short distance away in a trailer with his wife and small son, Freddy. Their trailer is next door to the garage where Mr. Sexsmith worked.

Broomfield is a truck driver and had been living there about nine months.

NO WEAPONS

Police said there were apparently no weapons used.

Heading the investigation is Insp. George Mackay, of Victoria.

The charge against Broomfield was to be read in Campbell River magistrates court at 2 this afternoon.

Blind Man at the Wheel Real Eye-Opener To Curious Motorists

He's been doing it for 15 years and getting away with it. In that time he's had a clean driving record.

But during that time he's been questioned by hundreds of curious people who want to know, more or less seriously how it's done. Is he equipped with radar, or what?

Actually, of course, the whole business is a simple play on words based on the fact the 34-year-old Mr. Woods is in the Venetian blind business so it's a "Venetian" blind man at the wheel.

The gimmick has caused thousands of double-takes on the part of other drivers through the years and dozens have ended up looking sheepish after going to the trouble of finding out the answer to the riddle.

Incidentally, Mr. Woods, present owner of and long-time driver for the Venetian blind firm, attributes his clean driving record at least in part to the fact other drivers are inclined to give him a little extra leeway—just in case the sign on the back of his truck really means what it seems to be saying.

●

There have been reports the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was not too happy about Mr. Woods' sign, but he says he has never had any official complaints.

Twice during the past 15 years he has been scolded by super-sensitive citizens who felt the warning on the back of the truck was in poor taste.

"But nearly everybody takes it in the spirit in which it was meant," Mr. Woods says. "One man, who seemed to think I really couldn't see very well, told me I was probably better than the majority of drivers in town."

Woman Hurt After Using Wrong Pedal

A woman who accidentally pushed the accelerator of her car instead of the brake Thursday night is in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Edith Thompson, 2043 Frederick Norris, suffered a skull practure and scalp cut in the mishap on a parking lot off Foul Bay Road near Lansdowne.

Police said her car ran 160 feet into some bushes when it went out of control and jumped the sidewalk.

A car was demolished, a building received $1,000 damage, but the driver was uninjured in another single-car crash on the Old Island Highway early today.

JUMPED CURB

Colwood RCMP said a car driven by Malcolm Mackinnon, 42, of 723 Yates, flew 50 feet through the air after it jumped an 18-inch curb and then rammed the corner of the Four-Mile House, damaging the living room.

Mr. Mackinnon pleaded not guilty when he appeared in central court this morning, charged with impaired driving. His trial will be held next week.

Saanich police were still investigating a traffic accident at Royal Oak and the Pat Bay Highway late this morning.

No details were available but it was reported at least one person was taken to hospital with injuries.

Chest Drive Puffs Along Home Stretch

The campaign has now brought in 96 per cent of its $452,000 objective, up .2 per cent from Thursday.

At this rate the campaign will still be going strong come Christmas.

But Appeal officials are confident this year's urgent goal will be reached as last-minute returns push the campaign over the top.

The 21-member agencies of the Chest are already operating on starvation budgets leaving no surplus to cushion the shock of a failure such as last year's.

CRITICAL PERIOD

Navy Shelters Big Oil Rig From Rollers

Shell Oil's off-shore drilling rig will take on near-finished form in naval company during the next 60 days — weather permitting.

Two tugs towed the $9 million drilling platform base from the builder's yard at Ogden Point to E jetty at the navy yard in Esquimalt Harbor Thursday afternoon to take it out of the path of southwesterly storms.

CRITICAL PERIOD

Victoria Machinery Depot general manager Capt. J. V. Steele said the next 60 days will be a critical period for adding remaining components to the rig.

TOO EXPOSED

At VMD's Ogden Point yard the vessel was too exposed to weather and water distrubances to permit proper connection of the rig's many massive parts. Some must be barge-mounted, or swung from barge-mounted cranes into position for welding.

Also to be added during the rig's stay at Esquimalt will be its deck steel, bringing the overall height from the waterline to 145 feet.

GOOD WEATHER

Meanwhile, VMD has been scanning long-range weather forecasts anxiously, and has been assured of reasonably good weather for the next 60 days.

"The department of transport weather office could not have been more co-operative," Capt. Steele said.

BIG CRANES

Huge dockside cranes are available for placing components.

When deck steel is in place the rig will be rigid and no longer subject to wind and water fluctuations. Tugs will then return it to VMD at Ogden Point for installation of cabins, machinery and general outfitting.

Ask The Times

Q. I have just seen the film "Dr. Zhivago" here. Is the author alive? Was the book on which the film was based ever published in Russia?

A. Author of "Dr. Zhivago," Boris Pasternak died in Russia in 1960, aged 70 years. Whether or not the novel has been published in Russia since his death, it was certainly not published there before. The first edition was an Italian one, in 1958. "Dr. Zhivago" was published in English in 1959.

The novel was awarded the 1958 Nobel prize for literature. Pasternak did not accept the prize.

Q. Who supervises entertaining for U.S. president and Mrs. Johnson? C.L.T.

A. White House social secretary Bess Abell.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Bi and Bi Expensive Flop?

OTTAWA (CP)—Conservative MP Robert C. Coates (Cumberland) describing the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism as a "multi-million-dollar flop," asked today how long Canadians would have to wait for the commission's final report. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled the question improper.

Welder Charged in Slaying

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI)—A hearing was ordered today for a Chesapeake, Va., welder charged with firing three shots through the front door of a Negro home and killed a 12-year-old girl. Police said George Price, Jr., who is write, was free on $20,000 bond on charges of murder in the death of Reva Yancy.

Maj.-Gen. Macklin Dies at 67

A consistent critic of Canadian defence policies after his retirement in 1954, General Macklin was one of the first senior military officers to press for unification of the armed forces.

Martin to Confer With Rusk

PEARSON WARNS:

Canada May Act Alone On Peking

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson made clear Thursday that Canada is becoming impatient about continued isolation of Communist China and may recognize the Peking regime if it is not seated in the United Nations.

In a foreign policy debate in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said the seating of the mainland Chinese at the UN "would be a form of recognition which would be accepted by all members who voted for their admission.

"If this is impossible at present and we make no progress on this score, then we have to consider the other form of recognition by approaching the government concerned to see whether, bilaterally, recognition can be brought about."

But he added wryly that it might not be a question of Canada recognizing Red China—it might be a question of Peking recognizing Canada. Meanwhile, in Peking, the official party newspaper charged that Canada's proposals at the UN are a "revival of the U.S. imperialist plot to create two Chinas."

The prime minister's statement came a day after External Affairs Minister Martin made public at the UN Canada's new policy on China.

He called for the Peking regime's admission to China's permanent Security Council seat—which carries veto power—while Nationalist China would be given a General Assembly seat.

NDP Leader Douglas drew out the prime minister's statement during study of external affairs department estimates after Mr. Pearson had completed a lengthy statement on external policy.

Canada Could Act Unilaterally

The NDP leader said Canada had no control over the UN decision but could extend recognition unilaterally.

The Commons also dealt Thursday with spending estimates of the departments of finance and health, along with external affairs, as part of an all-party agreement to cover as many areas as possible before the 5:30 p.m. deadline today.

Under new Commons rules, a total of 30 days is devoted to consideration of all estimates. The time is up today. Millions of dollars in government spending programs will automatically be approved even though the House never considered them. Most did get committee study.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker led off the external affairs debate by questioning Mr. Pearson on why Canada, which only a year ago opposed Communist China getting a UN seat, now proposed its seating.

In the last year Red China had "exploded the biggest firecracker in Chinese history" and successfully tested a missile over a 700-mile range. This endangered the entire Eastern Hemisphere.

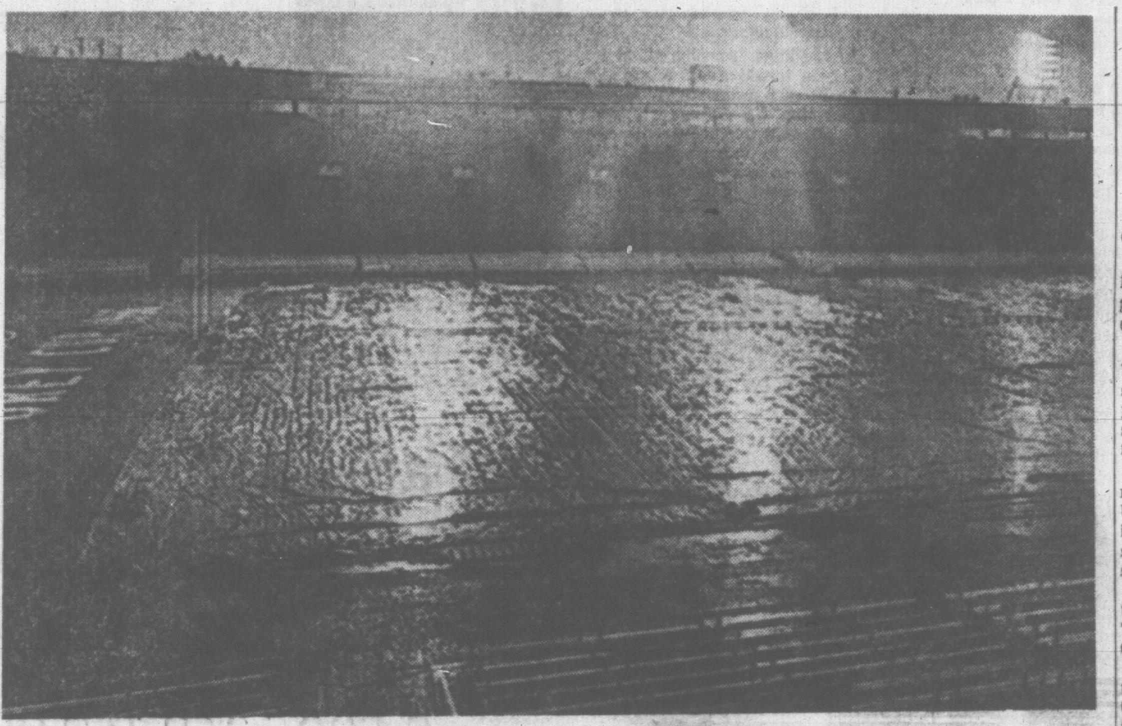
34 City Dockers Fired As Strike Row Spreads



—CP Wirephoto

CLOUDY; MILD weather is the forecast for Saturday's Grey Cup classic at Vancouver's Empire Stadium. Tarpaulin helped keep field in reasonable shape after heavy downpour Thursday night. Odds-makers favor Ottawa Rough Riders by eight points over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

AIR STRIKE FORMULA '20 PER CENT HIKE'

(See Story Page 7)

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says the national negotiating team for striking Air Canada machinists agreed to a settlement formula that calls for a 20 per cent pay increase in a 26-month contract.

The 5,200 striking machinists are arranging meetings to vote on the formula.

The formula is believed to have called for a 12 per cent increase in the first year of the new contract and additional raises of 5 and 3 per cent to cover the remaining 14 months of the agreement.

Present pay rates range from $2.04 an hour to $3.17. A 20 per cent increase would raise the scales to about $2.45 to $3.80 hourly.

Demand Arms To Fight Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops of Jordan's Arab Legion drove through the streets of Ramallah today firing in the air above slogan-chanting demonstrators demanding arms to fight Israel.

As in Thursday's troubles, the troops fired over the heads of the crowd and there appeared to be no casualties.

Ramallah, scene of anti-government demonstrations for the last three days, was under tight curfew.

A curfew imposed Thursday night had been lifted earlier today, but crowds of Palestine refugees took to the streets when the curfew was lifted and the army rode back in to restore order.

Soldiers took position on rooftops and blocked all access roads to the town, a centre for some 40,000 Palestine refugees 10 miles north of Jerusalem.

Nadim Zaru, mayor of Ramallah, told The Associated Press that 10 persons were injured in scuffles with troops Thursday. The stone-throwing demonstrators attacked the building housing the United Nations Relief and Works Agency in Ramallah, smashing most of the windows.

Three of the main towns on Jordan's West Bank were closed tight and most of the shops in Jerusalem itself were shuttered in expectation of demonstrations.

Dry Field Hope For Grid Classic

VANCOUVER—Ottawa Rough Riders ruled eight-point favorites today to win Saturday's Grey Cup football final over Saskatchewan Roughriders here Saturday. (See stories Page 12.)

With a brave smile the weatherman predicted a few clouds Saturday morning, clouding over in the afternoon. He mentioned no rain. Temperatures he said would be in the high 40s and a 15-mile-an-hour wind is expected from the southeast during the afternoon.

Today was warm, with temperatures up in the 50s and a good stiff breeze off the Pacific dispelling the clouds which hung over the city for days. The sun beamed in from the south and the whole town sparkled.

Early in the morning, a trainload of Saskatchewan fans arrived at the Canadian National Railways station, replete with a band and several Regina policemen. There was chaos for about 40 minutes as the arrivals mingled with B.C. Lions majorettes and others who'd come to greet them, and the band played on.

Saskatchewan fans seemed to outnumber visitors from other cities, and one downtown hotel hired cheerleaders to give Saskatchewan cheers in the lobby. The manager explained the hotel likes to go with the majority.

PARADE TONIGHT

Preparations for tonight's Grey Cup parade, the first ever to be held after sundown, were completed, up to an including a hefty complement of police and police dogs, to keep the hijinks down to a non-violent level.

Only one arrest was made Thursday night in connection with Grey Cup celebrations, and that was a University of B.C. student who stole a potted plant.

"There was not any rowdyism," said a police official. "And we hope there won't be much tonight. So far, they're just jolly."

And well-decorated too. The order of the day was white hats with Saskatchewan emblems and slogans. Street vendors report the green and white colors are outselling Ottawa colors three to one.

Die-hard Vancouverites—a few of them—wore B.C. Lions colors. The old guard dies but it never surrenders. Joe Kapp Thursday night hollered "Go Lions go," in a downtown hotel lobby.

Among the VIPs who arrived in town for the tilt are Mayor H. P. Baker of Regina and his wife, Benjamin Siveritz, commissioner of the North West Territories, and Father Athol Murray of Notre Dame College, Wilcox, Sask., which has supplied the Saskatchewan team with a number of players.

Another three special trains were due in town later in the day, coming from as far east as Winnipeg.

Nicholson Due For Crisis Talks

The move ended lumber loading aboard the freighter Karpfanger. One of the men said the reason given was "not doing enough work". Three gangs were dismissed.

The firings were the first in Victoria since employers began similar action at other B.C. ports Wednesday for alleged slowdowns in support of striking foremen.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union blamed what it called the incompetence and inefficiency of substitute foremen for any slowdown.

Two gangs continued working the wheat ship Ocean Seigneur. There were no other vessels at Ogden Point.

A local union spokesman said two gangs were dispatched to Cowichan Bay with a third following to load pulp aboard the Korotan.

A shipping agent said work on the Korotan was proceeding this morning.

CABINET BID

Federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson was to arrive in Vancouver late today to help settle the waterfront dispute, which has cut port traffic in B.C. by roughly 50 per cent.

At Crofton, B.C. Forest Products said if there is no settlement by Monday it may be forced to close its pulp operation.

Jack Gallagher, industrial relations officer, said today all storage space will be exhausted by mid-week.

He declined to say how many men might be affected but said "a substantial number."

CROFTON HURT

The combined pulp and newsprint mill at Crofton employs more than 800 men. Mr. Gallagher said a firm decision about closure of pulp production will be made Monday.

At the Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo, a spokesman said the dock situation is "starting to build up on us."

But the problem was not as acute as at Crofton. The MacMillan Bloedel mill at Harmac employs about 1,000 men.

Mr. Nicholson said he was asked to intervene by the union whose members have been fired, rehired and fired again for what the employers call a deliberate work slowdown.

The B.C. Maritime Employers Association said longshoremen are trying to coerce them into recognizing foremen as ILWU members for bargaining purposes.

PICKET LINES

The dispute boiled into the open last Thursday when 190 forement appeared with strike placards at all B.C. ports. Longshoremen refused to cross their picket lines which remained until late Monday when a court injunction banned picketing.

About 650 longshoremen were fired Wednesday when work in the ports slowed. The men, including those fired, reappeared for work and were hired Thursday but more than 400 were fired.

Neither side appeared ready to move on the nub of the issue, recognition and bargaining rights for the striking foremen.

The employers argue the foremen are part of management and the Canada Labor Relations Board has recognized this by twice refusing to grant certification.

A union statement said long-

Hard Thumps for Bennett During Emotional Appeal

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

WILLIAMS LAKE—The Cariboos' rugged individualism that Premier Bennett praised in a friendly Quesnel the day before, gave him some hard thumps here Thursday night.

The premier drew only some 380 persons to the same hall that saw almost 500 turn up 2½ months ago when he asked them to re-elect William Speare.

This time more than half the audience sat unmoved as he pleaded with them to even the score with Vancouver by electing Attorney-General Robert Bonner in the byelection Monday.

And only a couple of party workers tried to shush a couple of hecklers and about a half-dozen questioners who several times told the premier he couldn't drown them out by shouting through the loudspeaker.

SCATTERED APPLAUSE

Encouraging applause, the few times it came, was scattered through the crowd and only a single giggle broke the silence as he paused to fight for control after shouting: "They think they wounded our government by defeating Bonner. I want to tell you, out of it will come our greatest victory."

There was no response as he said all eyes of British Columbia and of Canada were on the riding, and even "all of the free world, which knows British Columbia's development . . . want to know if the people of the Cariboo still have confidence in our development.

The premier said that when the Columbia seat was opened for Mr. Bonner in 1962 "they at first had a shock like the Cariboo" but after voters thought things over they gave him a large majority.

"I am confident you're going to give Mr. Bonner the greatest majority any man has ever had in the Cariboo," he added, but few clapped agreement.

He said the government was indebted to the NDP and Liberals for contesting the byelection "because it's been good for our government (because) ministers get too busy.

'GREAT EMPIRE'

"But in this riding, a great empire in itself, I think every minister has been in here (campaigning)."

Adding that if elected, Mr. Bonner would continue to escort the ministers around the riding after the campaign "because it's good for our government too that our ministers know the problems in the Cariboo."

The premier vehemently denied that he pressured Mr. Speare to step down. "I give

Death Cheated by a Bouncing Ride

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Its patients are women and children who come mostly from the surrounding rural areas on the steaming coastal plain.

They arrive at the hospital on foot or by oxcart, sometimes brought by a relative or friend, quite often alone.

Their illnesses cover nearly the whole range of tropical diseases, and they have some that are found in temperate climates, such as tuberculosis and starvation.

Staff and equipment are at a premium, and the hospital's finances are on a shoestring.

So when hospital directors decided they needed to extend their service to rural patients but had no money for it, the Unitarian Service Committee stepped in.

With money donated by Canadians to funds such as the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, the USC provided a jeep for the hospital.

Twice weekly it bounces over thoroughfares and back-roads carrying a specialist, sometimes two, a nurse and medical equipment to outlying areas.

The specialists, who come from Calcutta to make their rounds, find their services are much in need. So much so that if they made the trip daily, they probably still could not treat all the people who need medical care.

But the jeep helps.

Ask the little girl whose running sores cover her body.

Or the bedridden grandmother.

Or the man who cannot support his wife and seven children because he has TB.

Without the jeep, made possible by Canadian kindness, they would be far more miserable.

So would thousands of other Indians who live in the Swadesh Bhasu Hospital area.

Donations to the Share with Asian Children Fund may be sent care of the Victoria Daily Times, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Deadlock Continues Over Herring Prices

VANCOUVER (CP) — Little progress was reported Thursday in negotiations between British Columbia herring fishermen and packing companies.

Union spokesmen said negotiations to end the 18-day-old strike have been suspended indefinitely following Thursday's sessions, which left the two sides deadlocked on price payment proposals.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union offered to drop demands from $20.48 a ton to $19.

The Fisheries Association of British Columbia refused to make a counter-offer. It said the world herring price has dropped by 10 per cent and it cannot go above the present price of $17.50.

Some minor progress was made on weighing and lay-up procedures, officials said.

The fishermen are seeking the price increase to enable them to set up a pension fund. They would set aside $1.20 from each $19 a ton to set up the fund.

$ EXCHANGE

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was down 1/32 at 92 13/32 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was down ⅛ at $2.79 3/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar up 1/16 at $1.08 7/32 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was up 3/16 at $3.02 1/16.

Two Stocks Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two stocks were suspended from trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

The other is Canadian-American Petroleum.

WHAT'S A DEBENTURE?

Whereas a mortgage is a charge against a specific property or properties, a debenture is a charge against a company's assets.

So, if a company owns mortgages, it's debentures are a charge against all its mortgage holdings.

The Debenture Holder is as secure as the quality of the mortgage portfolio held by the company, and this is where Victoria Mortgage Management BEARS DOWN.

The quality of our carefully-selected mortgages offers just about the best security available these days.

The full details are available in our September 1st quarterly report, which you may obtain with your copy of our prospectus by phoning EV 4-7128.

1866...A very good Year

A very good year for the Crown Colonies on the Island and the Mainland, which joined together to become the province of British Columbia. Undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting went on. And undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting will mark B.C.'s 100th birthday. To honor the occasion, Andres introduce Richelieu—the aristocracy of wines—specially set aside for Centennial celebrations. Sherries, aperitif and golden cream; rich full bodied Burgundy and crisp Riesling; Champagnes bubbling with excitement.

Andres Richelieu Wines...to make 1966 a very memorable year.

SURVIVAL is unlikely for 17 Beluga whales trapped in Eskimo Lakes. Two are shown in a hole in the ice they are keeping open so they can breathe. The whales failed to return to the Pacific when they became confused trying to navigate lakes and peninsulas east of the mouth of Mackenzie River.

N.Y. Pollution Blanket Reaches Danger Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York metropolitan area lay under a blanket of polluted air today and officials warned persons with heart and respiratory ailments to stay indoors.

The index of air pollution was about 3½ times the normal level as the sun rose. The measurement showed a drop from the critical level reached Thursday night, and rasping New Yorkers awaited a weather change.

Any deaths attributed to the smog would not be reported for a few days. A 10-day period of stagnant air in November, 1963, was blamed then for from 140 to 260 deaths.

The pollution, which began to increase Wednesday night, was attributed to a massive temperature inversion. This occurs frequently in the late fall, when warm air overrides and imprisons surface air.

Austin N. Heller, city commissioner of air pollution control, said a pollution reading of 60.6, five times the average level of 12, was registered at 8 p.m. Thursday, indicating an amount he said may have been the city's highest in history.

It dropped to 18.5 in the predawn hours, and rose to 43.2 at the height of the commuter rush this morning.

The pollution count, based on a statistical measurement of sulphur dioxide and carbon dioxide in the air, indicates the amount of harmful substances in the atmosphere. The level considered dangerous is 50.

Heavy pollution was reported in Philadelphia and Boston, where sulphur dioxide in the air reached six times the normal level Thursday. Weather bureaus in both cities predicted there was a chance of relief today or Saturday.

At the smog's height in New York City, Heller said he was close to calling an air pollution alert which would have closed some industries and kept cars from the streets.

. . . CANADA

Mr. Pearson said his government had "no illusions that Peking's policy has suddenly changed" or that she had suddenly become "eligible for membership in the UN . . . as a peace-loving nation which is likely to observe the peace-keeping principles of the charter."

The question was whether the UN would take a responsible position and do its best "to see that a suitable basis can be found in that world assembly so that a government which represents 700,000,000 people in this world can become a member of that organization."

The Canadian proposals might serve the purpose of "breaking the log jam" which had faced the UN for the last 15 years in considering seating of Communist China.

On Viet Nam, Mr. Pearson was pessimistic about efforts to halt the war. There seemed little likelihood of an early settlement.

He was discouraged at the intractability of North Viet Nam in the conflict, although he said he understands that country's reluctance to link an end to U.S. bombing to a settlement. He believed the U.S. wants to withdraw from Viet Nam but Communist countries to which Canada had talked did not believe it.

Show Courage of Convictions

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said his party supported the Canadian initiative to get Communist China into the UN. He urged the government to show the courage of its convictions and extend diplomatic recognition.

Social Credit Leader Thompson questioned the seating bid. Red China had no intention of taking a seat. Even Communist nations were threatening to cut ties with Peking, so why should Canada move the other way?

In the day's other major debate, Labor Minister Nicholson defended the government's decision to increase interest rates on National Housing Act loans to 7¼ per cent from 6¾.

The higher interest might work hardship on some but it was necessary to make more money available in the housing field. It was better to have money available at the higher rates than "no funds at all at 6¾ per cent."

Opposition MPs said the increase would put home-owning out of the reach of all but the wealthy.

ROCK SLIDES BLOCK PGE AT SQUAMISH

A slide, blamed on heavy rain, sent earth and rock down onto the PGE right-of-way near Porteau early today. It was followed a short time later by a second slide. About 300 feet of track was reported covered.

Passengers were taken around the slide area by bus to Squamish.

PGE officials hope to have the line cleared and returned to normal service late this afternoon.

U.S. PHILOSOPHER:

'Worst of Projects By Best Educated'

A university degree is not a passport to morality, an American philosopher warned a University of Victoria audience Thursday.

"We have seen in the last millenium that the worst of projects have usually been undertaken by the best educated," Dr. Donald Wells, chairman of Washington State University's philosophy department told a small audience of Uvic students and professors.

"From the medieval wrack to the modern gas chamber; from the primitive sling to the sophisticated flame thrower; from ancient incantations to modern advertising—all these are the blessed contributions of our college graduates," he added.

HELPED HITLER

"This is the group that helped Hitler promote Aryan supremacy and anti-semitism. This is where the Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens' Councils come for public relations promoters. Indeed, if you want to defraud the public you will do it better with college trained personnel."

Dr. Wells' talk was in the form of an answer to the question "Should educated persons be expected to be moral?"

His answer—They should be, but they aren't.

"You expect that education will help you to know how to cure more diseases, bodily and mental, individual and social. But somehow it is not expected that education will inspire you to do what you know how to do," he said.

"We expect that education will improve our technical know-how, but we do not expect that education will make us moral enough to prefer X-ray machines to thermonuclear bombs," he lamented.

DIFFERENCE

But education should lead to a higher morality by casting out prejudices based on ignorance, making people more aware of alternatives and developing moral sensitivities.

Dr. Wells closed with the hope that his listeners would distinguish between degree-holders and educated people:

Youth Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Antonio Finamore, 19, was charged with criminal negligence Thursday in connection with the traffic death of pedestrian Mrs. Assonta Tulusso, 64. An inquest will be held Tuesday.

It's the best way to find out what people really think about a whisky: how do they like it when they don't know which brand they're drinking?

If you've tried Bonded Stock yourself, the playback won't surprise you. Bonded Stock is a great Canadian whisky. You can conceal the label but you can't disguise the flavour. It's an extremely mellow whisky with a deceptively smooth flavour that dyed-in-the-wool whisky drinkers love.

So if you know someone who buys whisky by labels, introduce him to flavour.
